MAD FAN OF THE MONTH

Hey, I love Spy vs. Spy — it's my #1. Everyone calls me The King of Spies. I decided to show you some things I have. I play the Spy vs. Spy app, watch Spy vs. Spy almost every day on YouTube, draw comics every day and watch MAD. Spy vs. Spy rules! I hope you print my letter. It's my dream.

Peter Clyde Georgatos
Long Island, NY

Easy Clyder — You're The King of Spies?!? But that's impossible! MAD Senior Editor Joe Raiola already considers himself the King of Spies! And there can only be one! This can be settled one way and one way only — COMBAT! So grab your oversized white fedora and giant mouse-trap, bring it to our offices, and let the carnage begin! If there's ever a...look out, Peter! He's right behind you! RAIOLA! —Ed.

REUBEN ELBOWS WITH THE GREATS

We've always thought that Tom Richmond was pretty great — so we were pleasantly surprised to learn that other people actually feel the same way! This year at the National Cartoonist Society's 66th Annual Reuben Awards, Tom took home the award for "Outstanding Cartoonist of the Year" — the highest award that can be given to a professional cartoonist. It's a pretty outstanding honor (seriously, it says so right in the award's title)! Congratulations, Tom — we'll fondly remember you, should you decide to stop slumming it with us!

DRAWING'S ATTENTION

And let me just say that I am a HUGE fan of your magazine and TV show. One reason I wanted to write to you is I thought of a new section you could add: Useless Superpowers. I thought of the idea when I bought rubber swim boots from my neighbor's yard sale. I felt like wearing them, so I wore them to the store. I noticed the floor was cold, so I thought a useless superpower could be being able to tell the temperature of the floor. I also included a comic I thought of because my mom is always saying this.

Henry Childs • Roanoke, VA

Regarding Henry — We can't really help you with your sensitive soles, but we did like your comic! Unfortunately, we didn't like it so much that we wouldn't ruin it by letting one of our cartoonists illustrate it! Take it away, Jacob Lambert! —Ed.

P.S. — Good luck trying to eat that ketchup!

OH DEER!

This is "Sweetie." I know he's not a celebrity in the Hollywood sense, but he sure is a star in my neighborhood. He'll be two years old this fall and already has questionable reading habits. His favorite parts are the "Drawn Out Dramas" and the Fold-In.

David Schroeder • Eau Claire, WI

The Schroed Less Travelled — We're surprised Sweetie doesn't enjoy some of our other features, such as A MAD Look at Salt Licks, the Fawn-Doe-lini Pages and Snappy Antlers to Stupid Questions! Now, if you'll excuse us, we've got to go decontaminate the office — your envelope was teeming with deer ticks! —Ed.

OFFERED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 44 YEARS!

In 1964 and again in 1968, MAD offered an "Alfred E. Neuman for President" kit including this metal Lapel Tab.

Made in the USA (That ALONE makes it rare!), we are now offering an authentic Lapel Tab from the original 1964-68 batch — these are NOT replicas — with each paid two-year subscription to MAD.

Its classic styling and sturdy one-piece metallic construction will set you apart from those who wear flag pins day in and day out. Wear it proudly to your exclusive country club, labor union meeting hall, or just to a tea party!

FINALLY,
SOMETHING
BOTH CANDIDATES

PRIMARY SELECTIONS

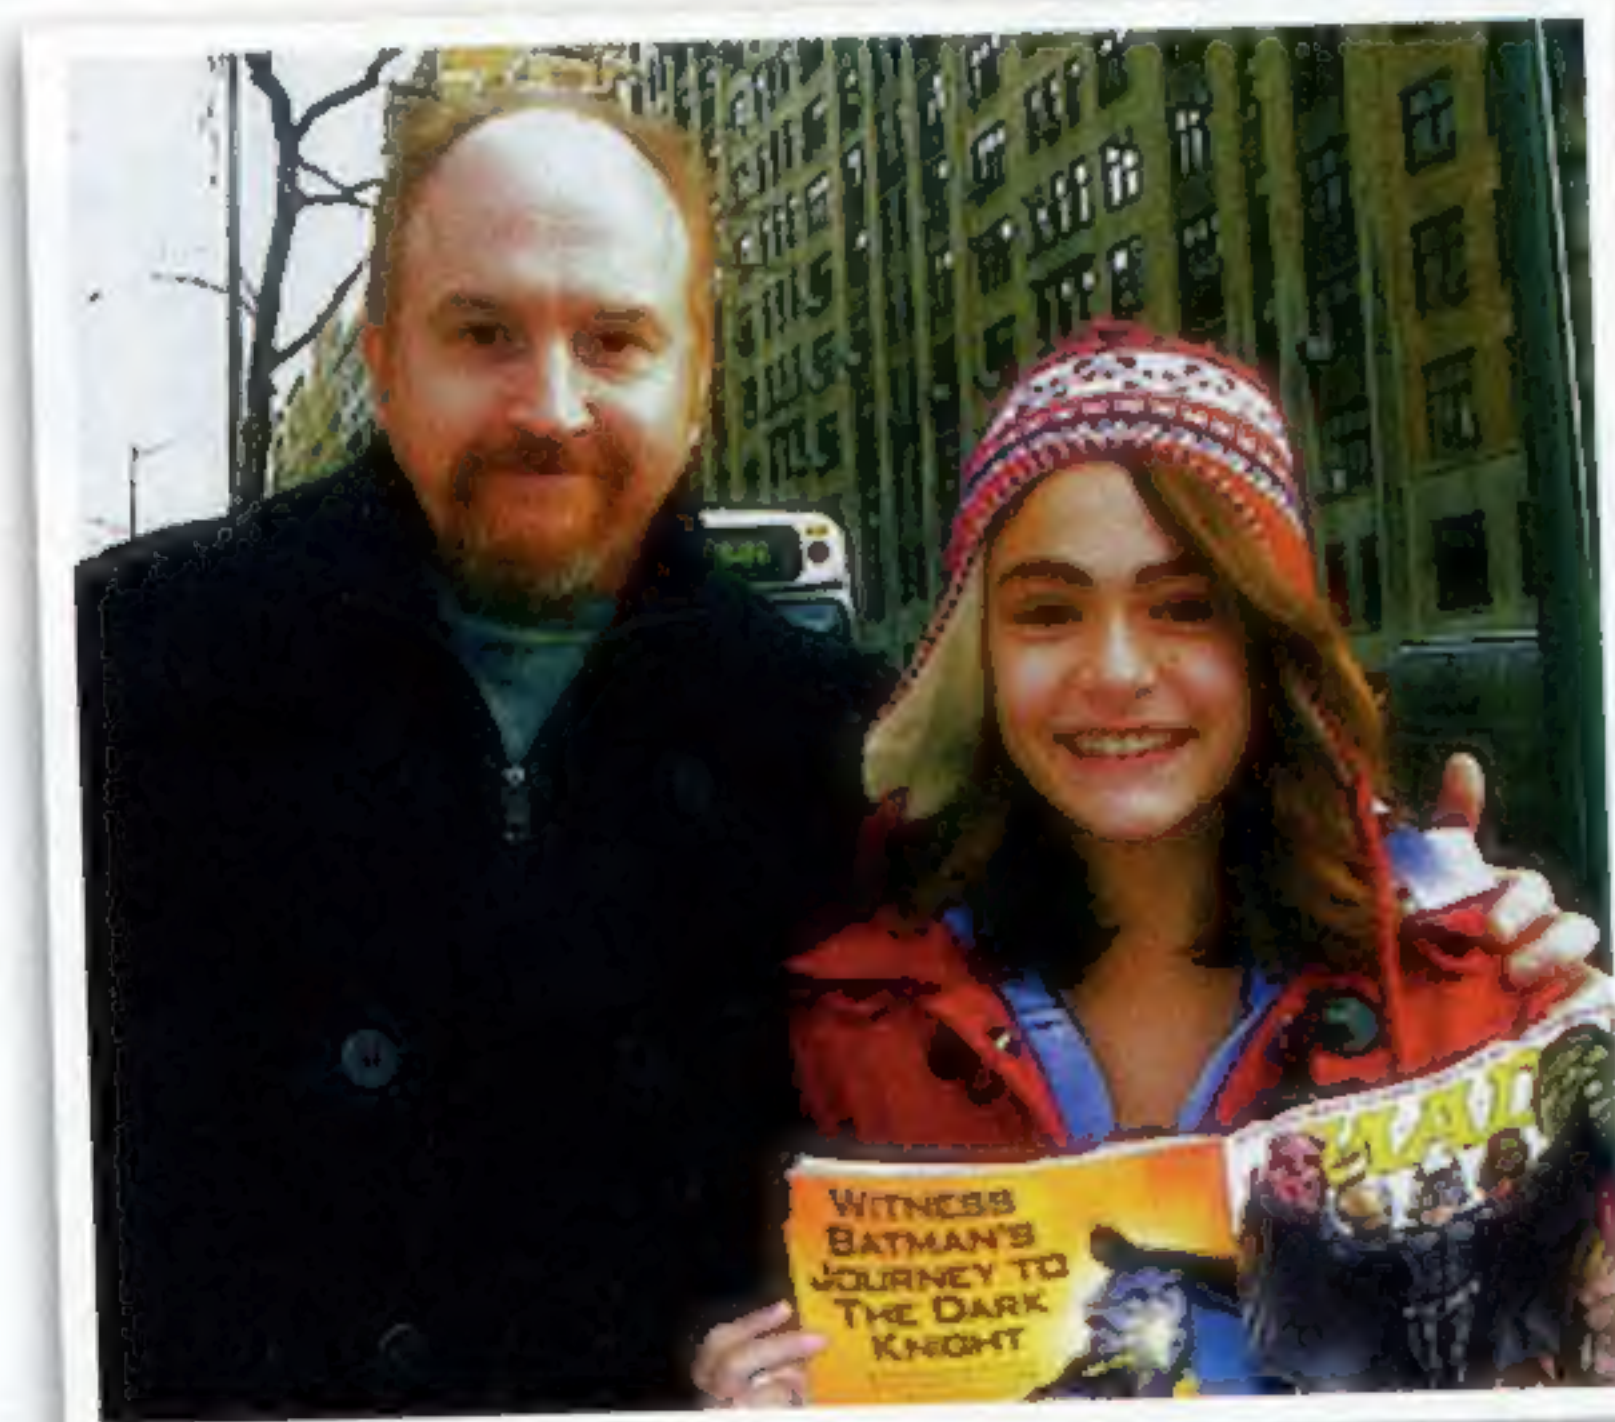

In issue #517, the article on Romney's campaign trail did not include any of the U.S. territories which do participate in the primaries.

J.C. Rivera • Ridgewood, NY

Moon Rivera — As a New York State resident, we can understand how you'd be concerned about us leaving out the territories. Who can ignore such political hotbeds as Guam, The Johnston Atoll and Kingman Reef? After all, you know what they always say: "As goes Bajo Nuevo Bank, so goes the nation." However — and this is a minor point, we realize — the title of the article was: "How Mitt Romney Plans to Win Every STATE" (emphasis ours). Careful readers will note that we don't mention territories anywhere in the title. So, you know, maybe stop writing these rabble-rousing love letters to the Northern Mariana Islands and brush up on the ol' reading comprehension, eh? See you in the voting booth! —Ed.

CELEBRITY SNAPS

A huge thanks to Amelia Margolis for grabbing this shot of superstar stand-up and star of Louie, Louis C.K.! Awesome job! (But next time, maybe try using your camera's "Red Hair Reduction" feature!) Great news — since Louis C.K. is on our "Nifty Fifty" list, Amelia gets a limited-edition Batman statue by Sergio Aragonés and a TWO-year subscription instead of the normal one-year sub for Celebrity Snaps!

Let that be a reminder to all of you — if you have a picture of a celebrity with MAD, send it our way and let the prizes and accolades roll in!

MAKE A DUMB WISH FOUNDATION™

My name is Eric, I'm 11, and I love your magazine. I especially like John Caldwell's work. Could you make a John Caldwell collection? That's my dumb wish. Thanks for your consideration.

Eric Klein • Amherst, MA

Cruel to be Klein — Here at the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™, we hear a LOT of dumb wishes (it sort of goes with the territory) — but as dumb wishes go, this one may just take the cake! A book made up entirely of John Caldwell pieces? Why would you do that to the world?!? Unfortunately, we just can't bring ourselves to grant your wish. But we're not totally heartless! In this very issue, we're including a John Caldwell-themed 2013 calendar! (A Caldwellendar, if you will.) Enjoy! —Ed.

EMPLOYEES OF THE MONTHS

We'd like to give a huge thanks to the 2012 MAD Summer Interns. You may know them as Jason Kushner, Nate Chastain, Lance Wildorf, and Kareem Taftaf — but your guess is as good as ours, since we never bother to learn the names of our interns! Still, thank you, guys! We'll always remember you as being dedicated, hard-working and energetic. Truly, you showed that there is no "I" in "Team." But there are several in "Minimum Wage Internship." And for that, we thank you!

THERE'S NO SHAME IN DYING

Your magazine is my most favorite thing to read. I also watch your TV show on Cartoon Network (though my stepdad greatly disapproves). So my birth dad buys me your magazine. (Which I greatly approve of!) I enjoy Spy vs. Spy, movie and TV spoofs and satires, and Sergio Aragonés' work. I am only 11, but I would still like to collect as many MAD magazines as I can before I die. As I say, "If I must die, may I be holding MAD magazine as I do!"

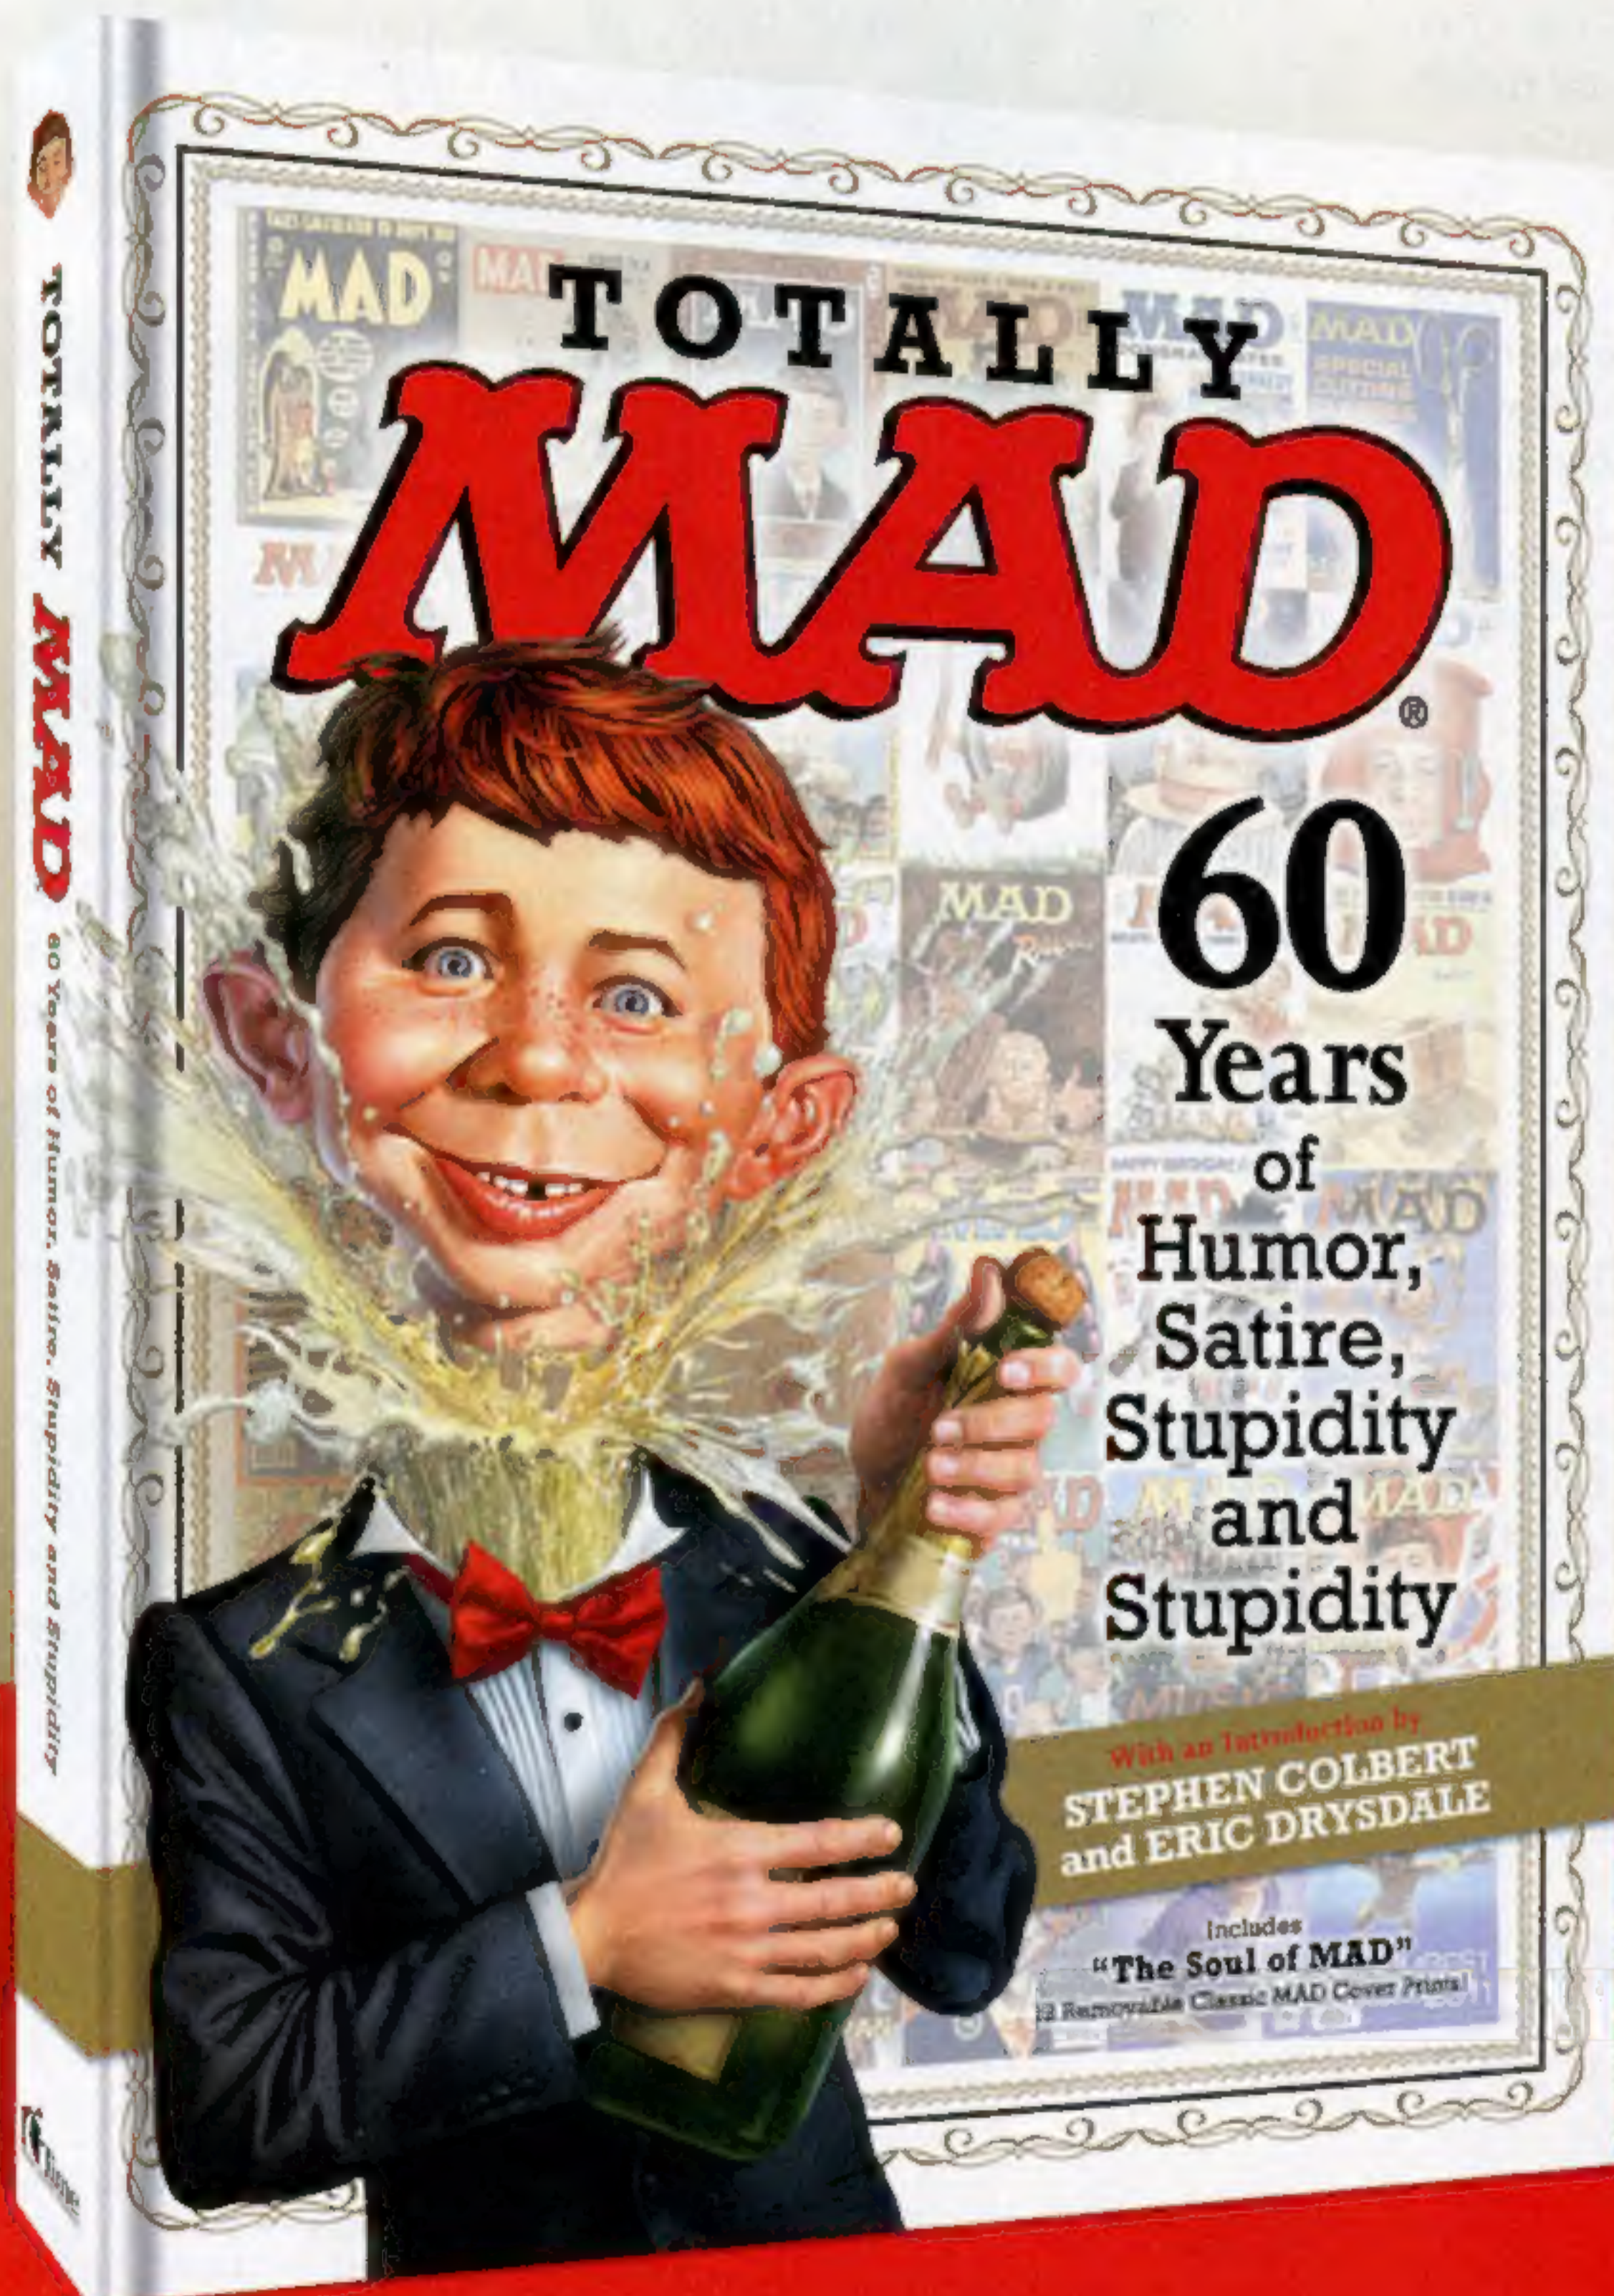

Taelar Van Luchene • Billings, MT

Tinker Taeler Soldier Spy — Wait...what? You have a "saying" about how you'd like to die?!? You're 11! You should be sneaking into R-rated movies and making prank calls — not taking hard stances on the conditions of your death! Kids today! We're having trouble even thinking of how you could die with a MAD in your hands! Unless you were a MAD editor who finally collapsed after reading one too many morbid letters...The point is, you need to stay with us, Taelar (we don't have that many readers). —Ed.

The ultimate collection of MAD's most idiotic material!

Celebrating 60 years of high quality humor and stupidity. MAD's legendary artists and writers have brilliantly satirized politics, celebrities, sports, media, cultural trends, and more.

Includes such favorites as:

- Spy vs. Spy
- Al Jaffee's MAD Fold-in
- Sergio Aragonés' A MAD Look At...
- David Berg's The Lighter Side of...
- Outrageous artwork of Don Martin and Tom Bunk
- Movie and TV satires by Mort Drucker, Jack Davis and Tom Richmond
- The MAD Strip Club
- The Fundalini Pages
- And much more

*Absolutely everyone should buy this book.
No exceptions will be tolerated!*

SPECIAL BONUS!

STAFF INFECTION

I am a 13-year-old Boy Scout and I am interested in your magazine length. For a magazine that only has one issue every two months, don't you think that it should be longer? My other favorite magazine, Game Informer, can be up to TWICE the size and they have a new issue every month! I love your magazine, and the primary reason that I am writing this is not to give you a hard time, but to improve your magazine. I know how hard your staff must work to produce such excellent material, so I might suggest hiring even more staff. I know that this will cost more, but a magazine that has more material will sell more copies, therefore making you more money.

Nathan Stafford • Sherwood, OR

Joint Chiefs of Stafford — We were taken by your proposal, and invigorated by the challenging comparison to Game Informer — it's also one of our favorites (after Dirt Wheels, of course). However, you lost us around the time you referred to our "hard work" and "excellent material." This observation (along with the rest of your malformed ramblings) clearly proves that you have no idea what you're talking about.

Thanks for reading — see ya in 60 days! —Ed.

NOT-SO-SUPER MODEL

After years of waiting for Revell Models to issue a version of your zeppelin, I decided to kit-bash one for myself. Here are some pictures of the results. I hope you find my dedication and hard work worthy of being published, as I am in desperate need of some recognition in my life.

John Folansbee • Windsor, CA

P.S. — It flies, appropriately, over my toilet — which is where I read your magazine!

Folansbee in our Bonnet — That's pretty impressive. All we have in the MAD bathroom is a VERY over taxed Air Wick! Seriously, there are days when that thing is under more duress than a space shuttle re-entering Earth's atmosphere! What were we saying? Oh yeah, your awesome Zeppelin! Thanks for sharing — and happy pooping! —Ed.

READER ALERT

If you were lucky enough to have your letter printed in this very issue...oh brother, are you in for some sweet ol' times, just like grandpappy used to tell you about! You'll be getting a Blu-ray Combo Pack of both E.T. AND Snow White and the Huntsman: Extended Edition, courtesy of our chums at Universal Studios Home Entertainment, an Alfred E. Neuman Undercover T-shirt from our sneaky pals at the International Spy Museum in Washington, DC. (go to www.spymuseumstore.org for even more MAD products!), Monty Python's Flying Circus: Complete and Annotated...All the Bits from our amigos at Black Dog & Leventhal Publishers and Bop It! Smash from our buds at Hasbro Gaming! What a haul! What are you waiting for? Send in them letters!

Donnie the Douche's Tips for a Great Halloween

- Be environmentally responsible: T.P. houses with recycled toilet paper
- Women should not feel pressured to wear skimpy costumes to Halloween parties. Skimpy non-themed clothing is perfectly acceptable
- Since it's been over a year, it's no longer "too soon" to break out the Kadhaffi mask
- When stealing jack-o-lanterns, always remember to douse the flame first
- It doesn't have to be Earth Day for you to care about the planet: "recycle" any candy you still have left over from last Valentine's Day and Easter into trick-or-treat bags
- After you've gotten your candy and the owners are back in the house, be sure to "accidentally" knock over any political lawn signs you don't agree with
- If you're advertising a product or service, be sure to describe it as "spooktacular." That always cracks everyone up
- Spread holiday joy to lonely people who have no one to visit them. Going to an old folks' home dressed as the Grim Reaper is guaranteed to make an impression

THE SILLY SIX WHY LIL WAYNE REALLY QUIT MUSIC TO FOCUS ON SKATEBOARDING

- 1 It's all a marketing ploy to promote his new line of blinged-out body casts
- 2 Because coming in 400th place at the X Games is where the real money is at
- 3 He was advised to do so by his manager and most trusted confidant, a Magic 8-Ball
- 4 Tha Carter IV was illegally downloaded so many times that he had no choice but to find a new line of work... Nice going, jerks.
- 5 He's got a bet going with James Franco to see who can come up with the most ridiculous side project

FOUR WORST GADGETS OF THE YEAR FROM BROOKSTONE

Drill & Chill

How often do you use your electric drill? Once a month or less? 98% of the time your drill sits on a shelf doing nothing. Drill & Chill includes an 8" fan blade, so when you're not drilling, you're chilling! What's more convenient than holding a drill in your lap aimed at your face? You can even try putting the drill in reverse for heat! $39.99

Sweep 'N Hide

Cleaning up when you're in a hurry? Sweeping the dirt under the rug doesn't work because it will quickly work its way back out onto the floor. Sweep 'N Hide solves that problem. It's a rug pad with a full-length zipper. Simply Sweep 'N Hide the dirt in the roomy compartment, then zip it closed. You'll never see that dirt again. (You'll just feel it as you walk over it. It's like being at the beach!) $59.99

Doggie Escalator

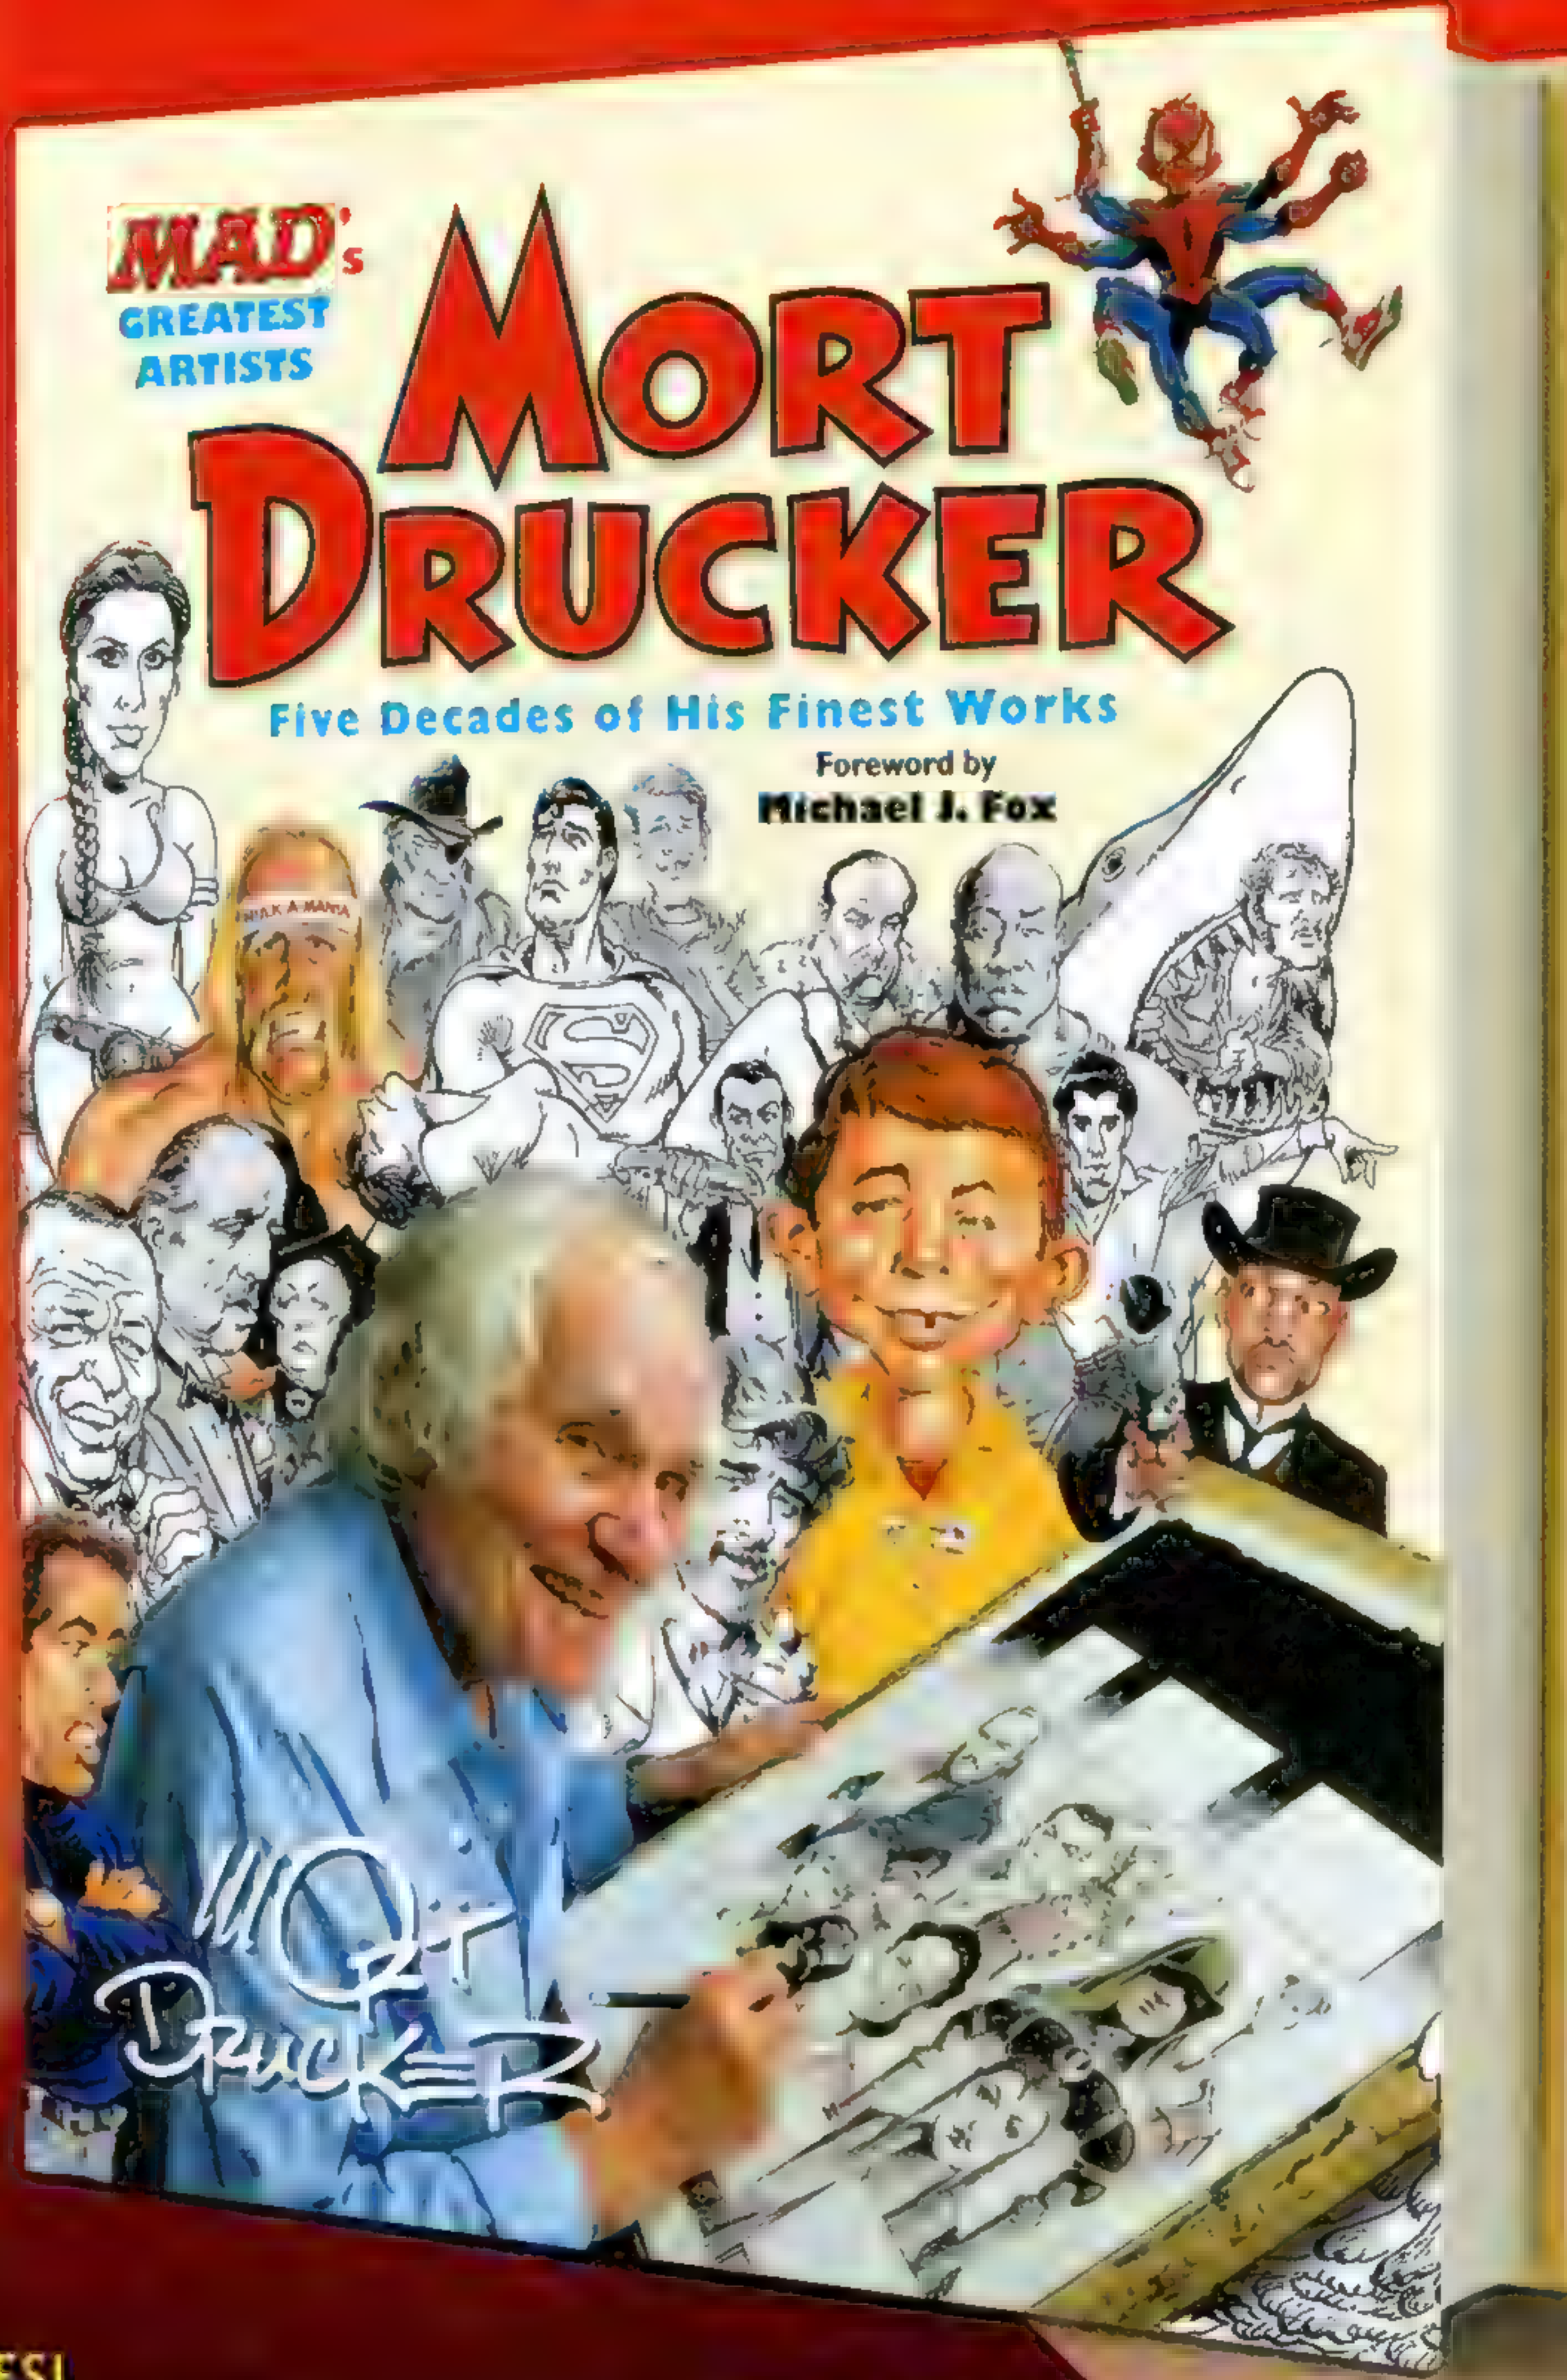

If your pooch is getting too old to jump up on your bed, buy him the Doggie Escalator! Three speeds allow your dog to travel at the one most comfortable for him or her. (Caution: Don't use the high speed for tiny dogs, as they may shoot completely over the bed!) $119.99

Roman Shade Pants

Men, when you leave the house for work in the morning it's chilly and you need long pants. But by lunchtime it's hot, especially in the summer. With Roman Shade Pants all you have to do is pull the string and raise your pants to the height you like! When it's time to go back to the office, let the string go, and they're back to normal-length pants. $64.99

THERE'S A BLOODSUCKER BORN EVERY MINUTE DEPT.

It's the drab, dingy, dreary movie series that even Ingmar Bergman's grief counselor would have called "a little morose." But if you're a member of Team Good Taste, you've missed what the fuss is about! Don't expect to find out as you read about a girl who's so stiff, porcelain white and full of pizzazz that her — for lack of a better term, let's call it a "story" — deserves to be known as...

the toilet saga

I'd never given much thought to how I would die. But dying in the place of someone I love seems like a good way to go. Then again, so does strapping myself to the fender of an amusement park bumper car. Or being devoured alive by weasels.

Seeing my father's house, which was now my house, the dull, blue-gray sky overlooking my new life was like a blanket. A cold, unforgiving blanket being slowly pulled over the bed of everything I'd known. A bed that flipped the mattress of my feelings, but no longer offered the Tempur-Pedic pillow of understanding. Metaphors are hard.

Not speaking in a monotone is harder. The night before I left Phoenix, I had a dream. I couldn't bring it with me, though. My suitcase was exactly 50 pounds, and the airline would have charged me extra.

About three things I was absolutely positive. But I didn't know what they were.

Sporks, Washington! All the excitement of Walla Walla, without Bremerton's edgy sense of danger!

How is it that you just came from sunny Arizona to the grayest, most overcast corner of the lower 48 states, and you're already the town's palest person?

Tell me about it! I was once kicked out of a Toby Keith concert for being too white!

WRITER: DESMOND DEVLIN

ARTIST: ANTON EMDIN

I had to come and congratulate you in person. That was a sweet job promotion, to First Assistant Shift Supervisor!

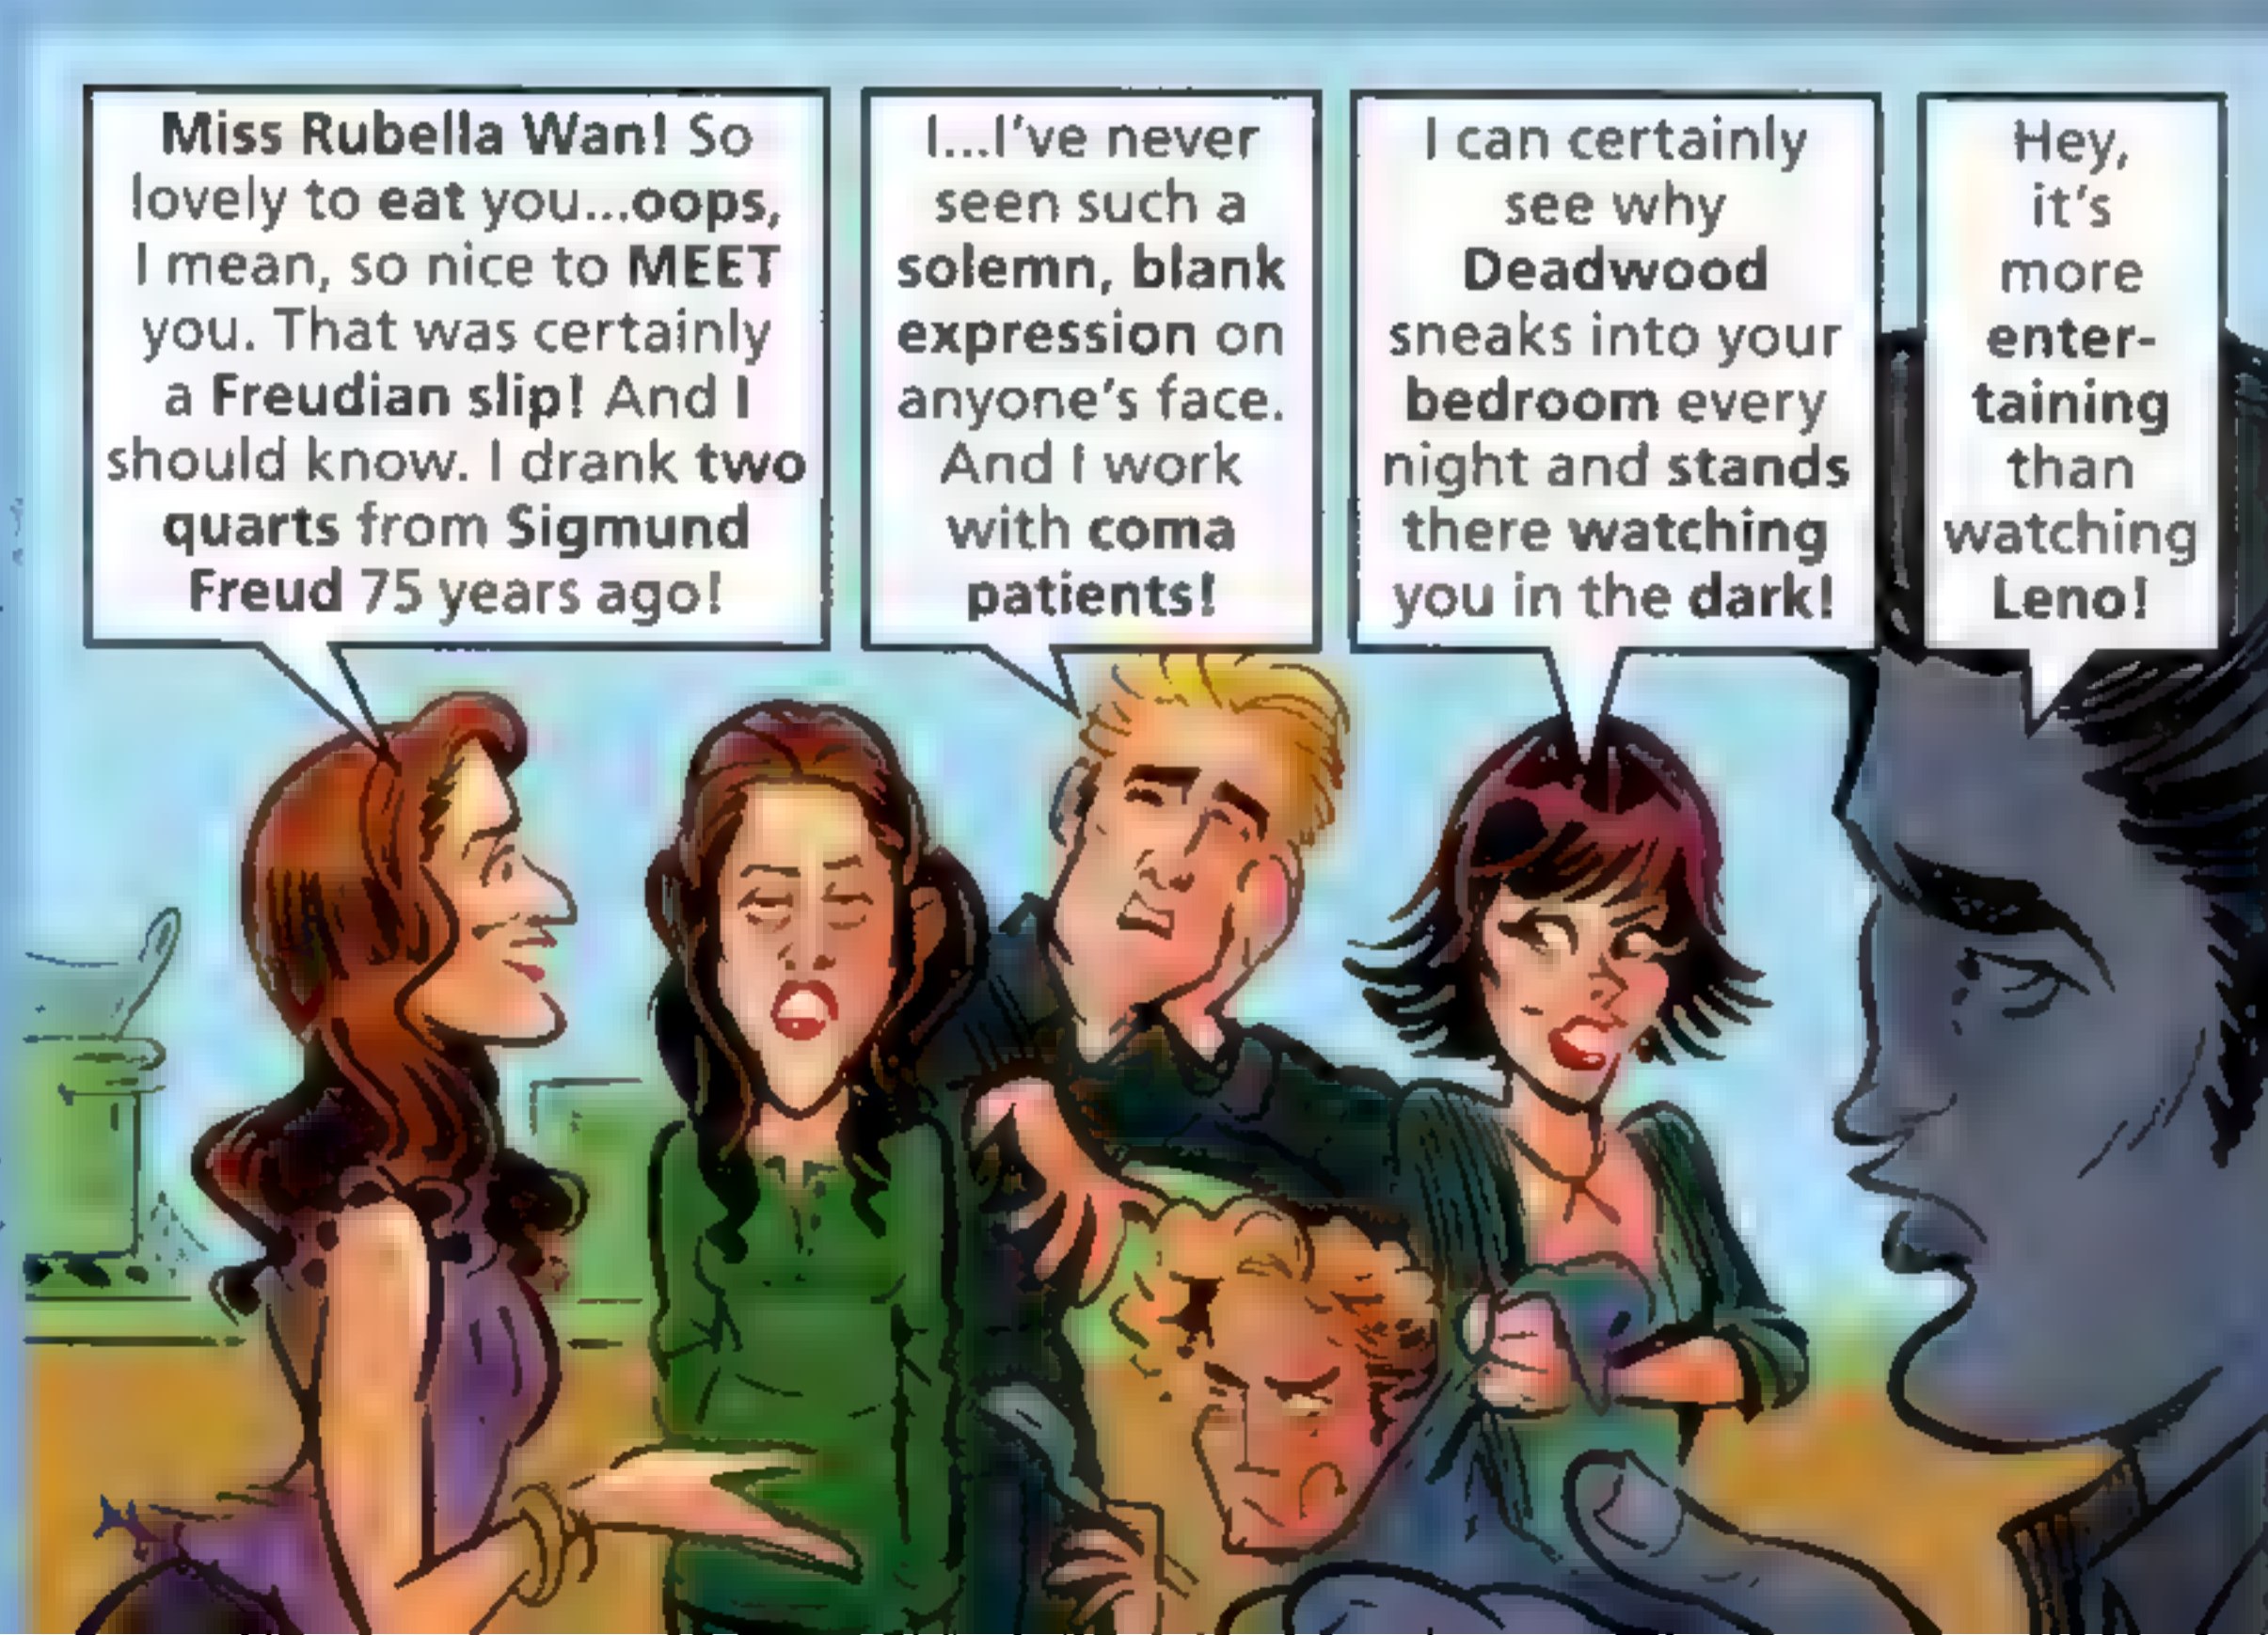

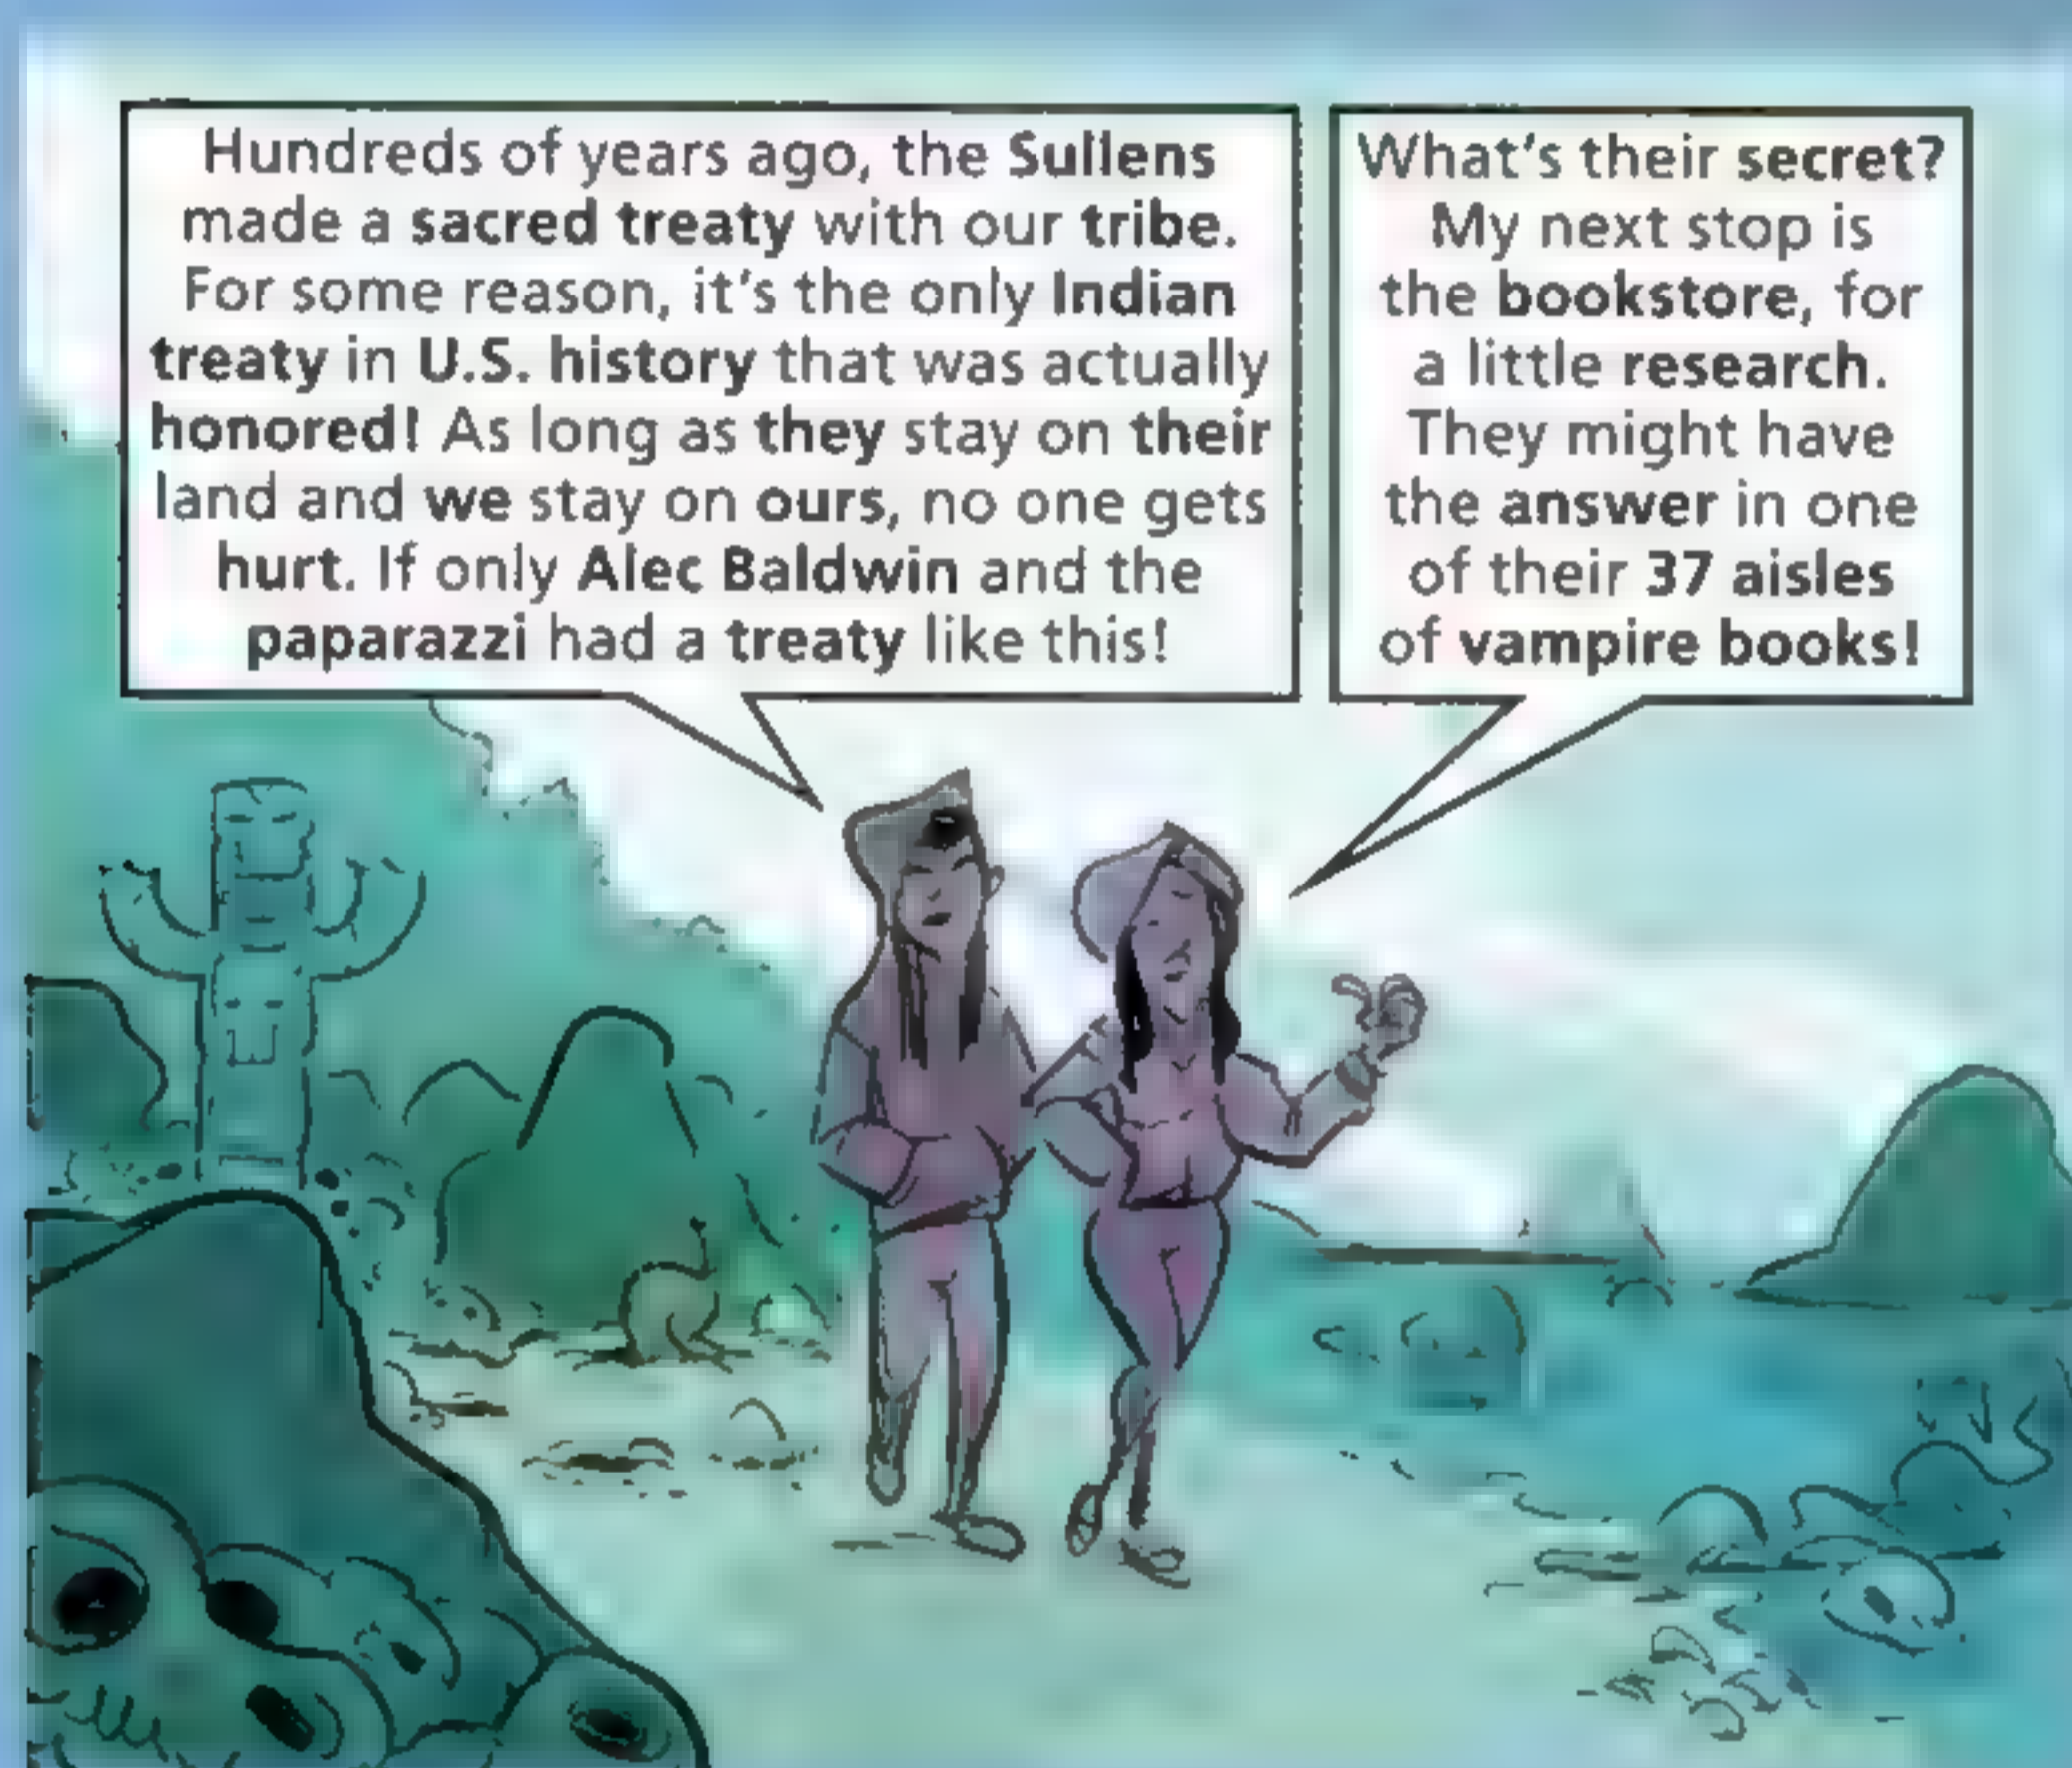

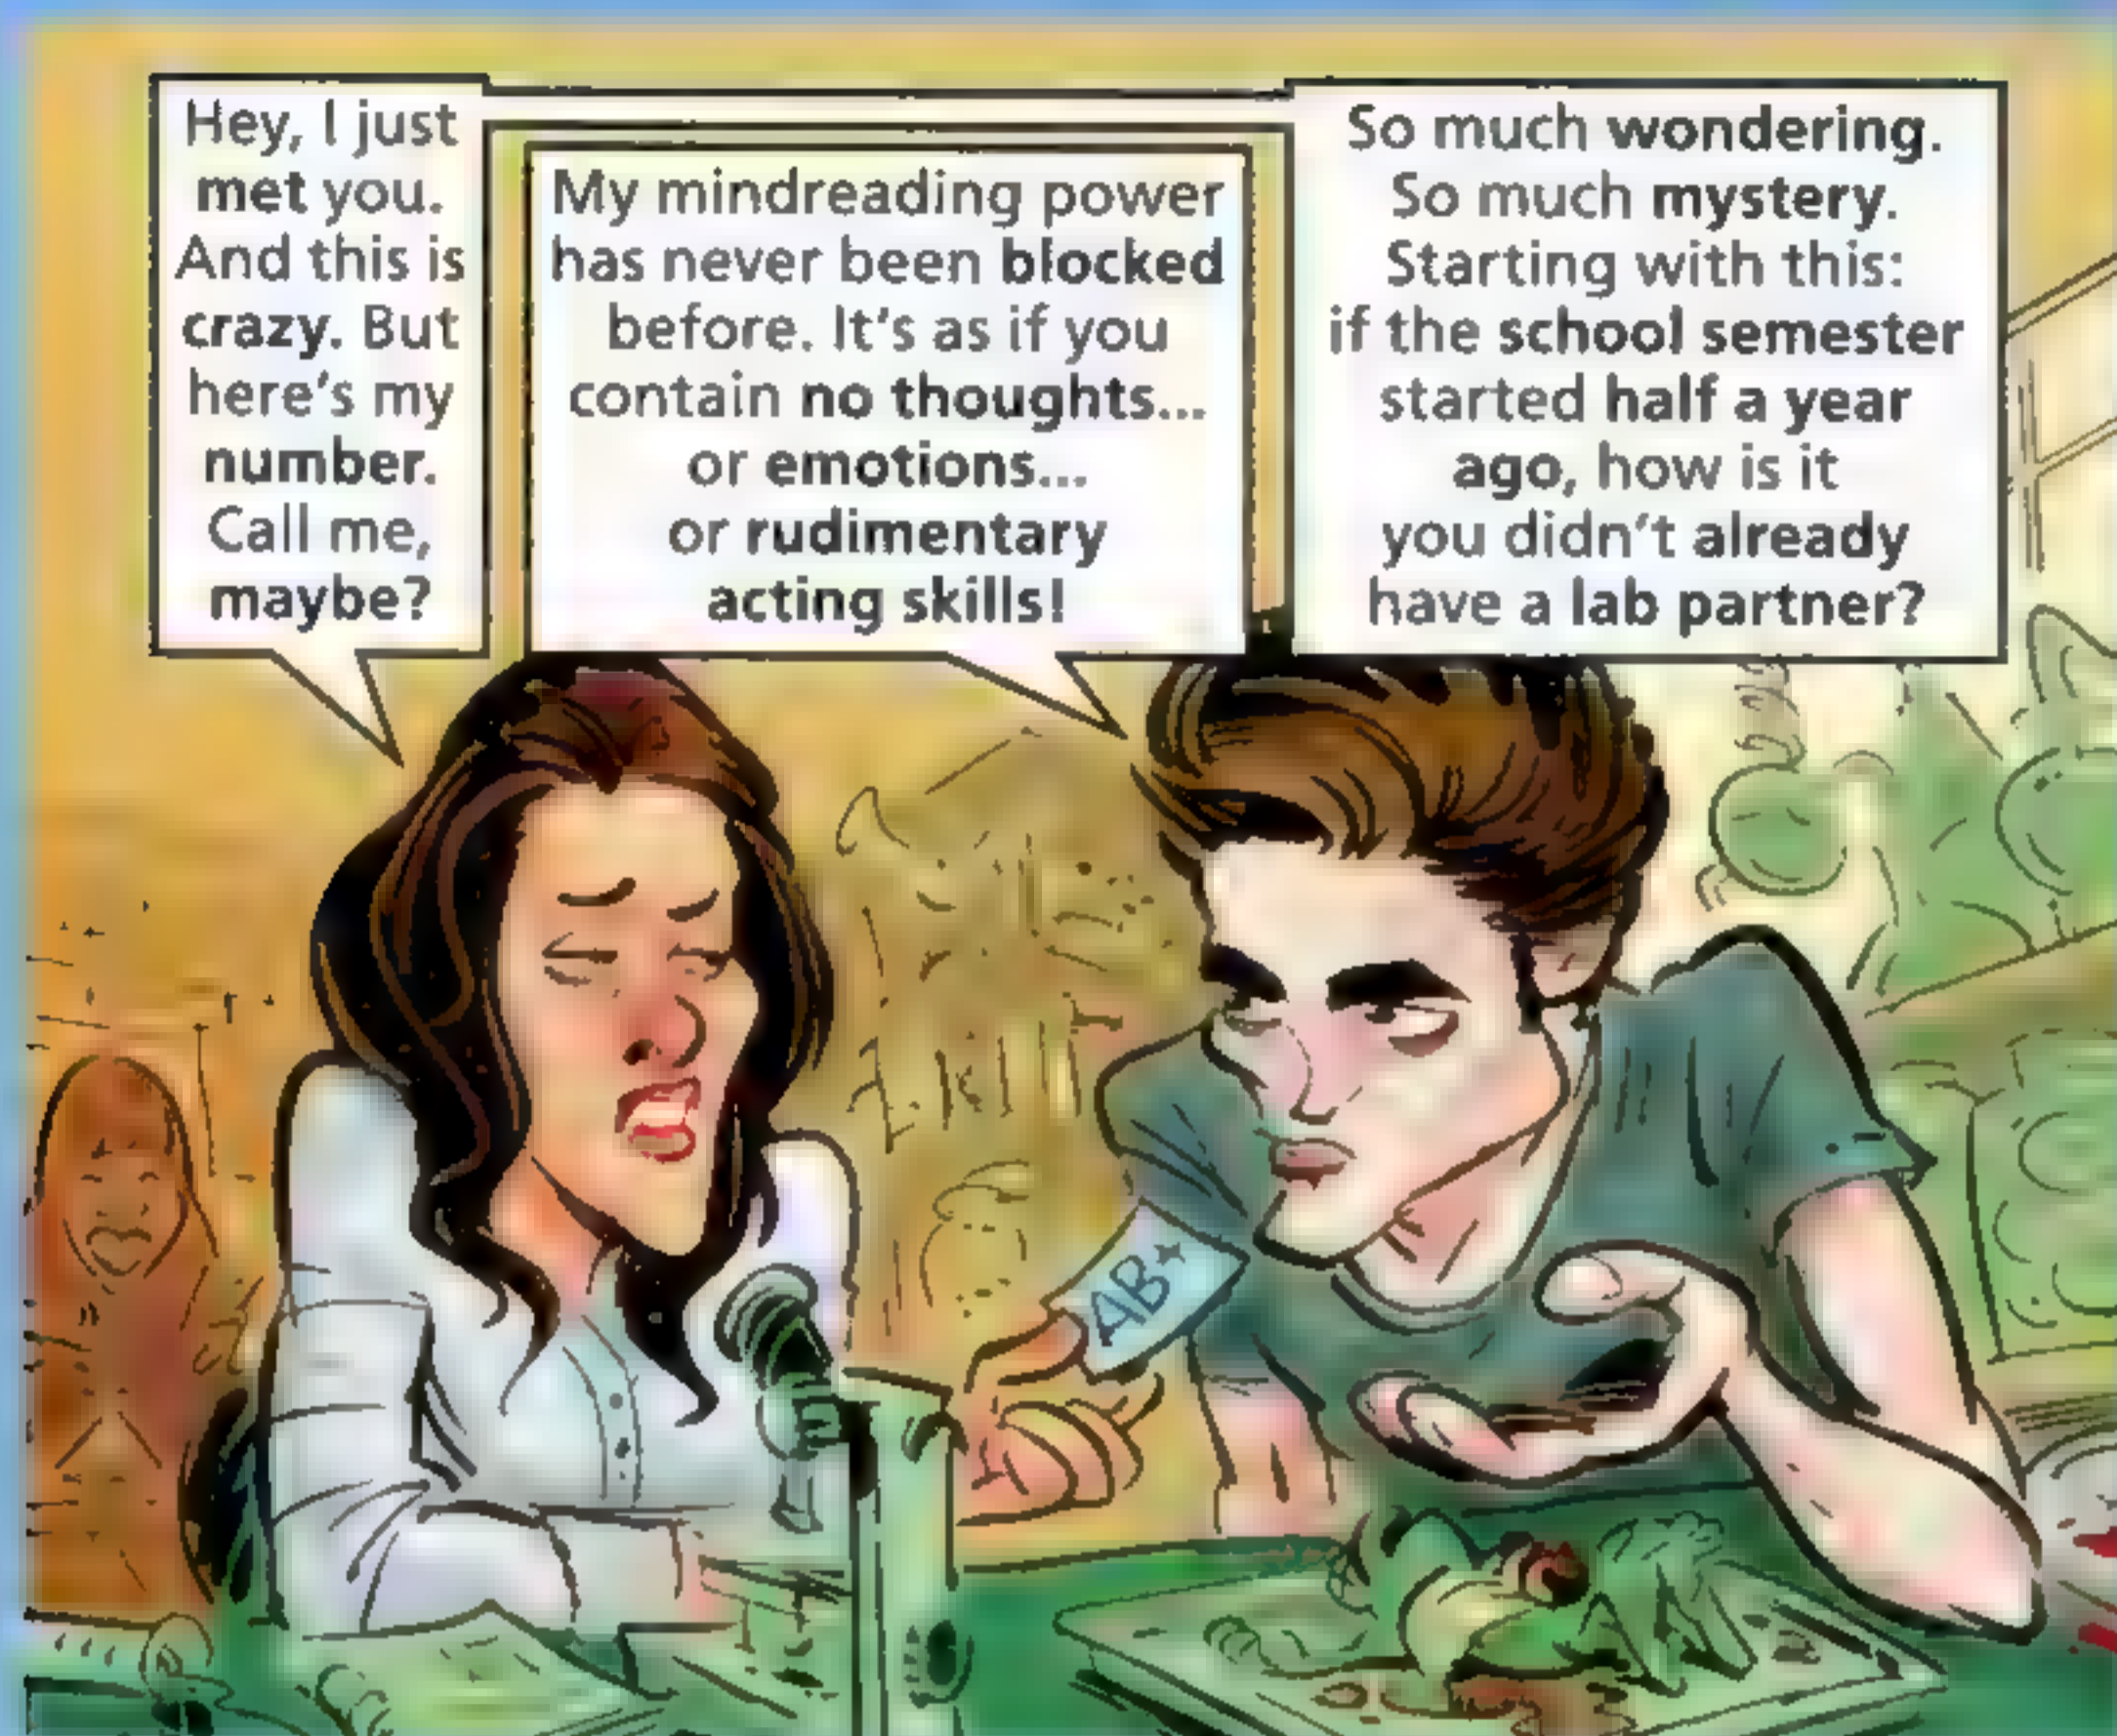

Sure was! It took me twenty years, slowly working my way up the ranks, but I finally made it. The only thing that gets me is, this town has a one-man police department!

I'm an alienated outcast. Don't you agree, entire table of insta-friends I made in my first hour?

Here's the scoop on living here. The town's population is 3,100, 90% of whom are apparently between the ages of 17 and 23. Our principal industries are texting, lip gloss and sulking!

The Vanity Fair fashion shoot at the far table is the Sullen family. Captain Eyebrows over there is Deadwood Sullen. He doesn't date anyone, but he's unblinkingly staring at you. Maybe he wants your apple.

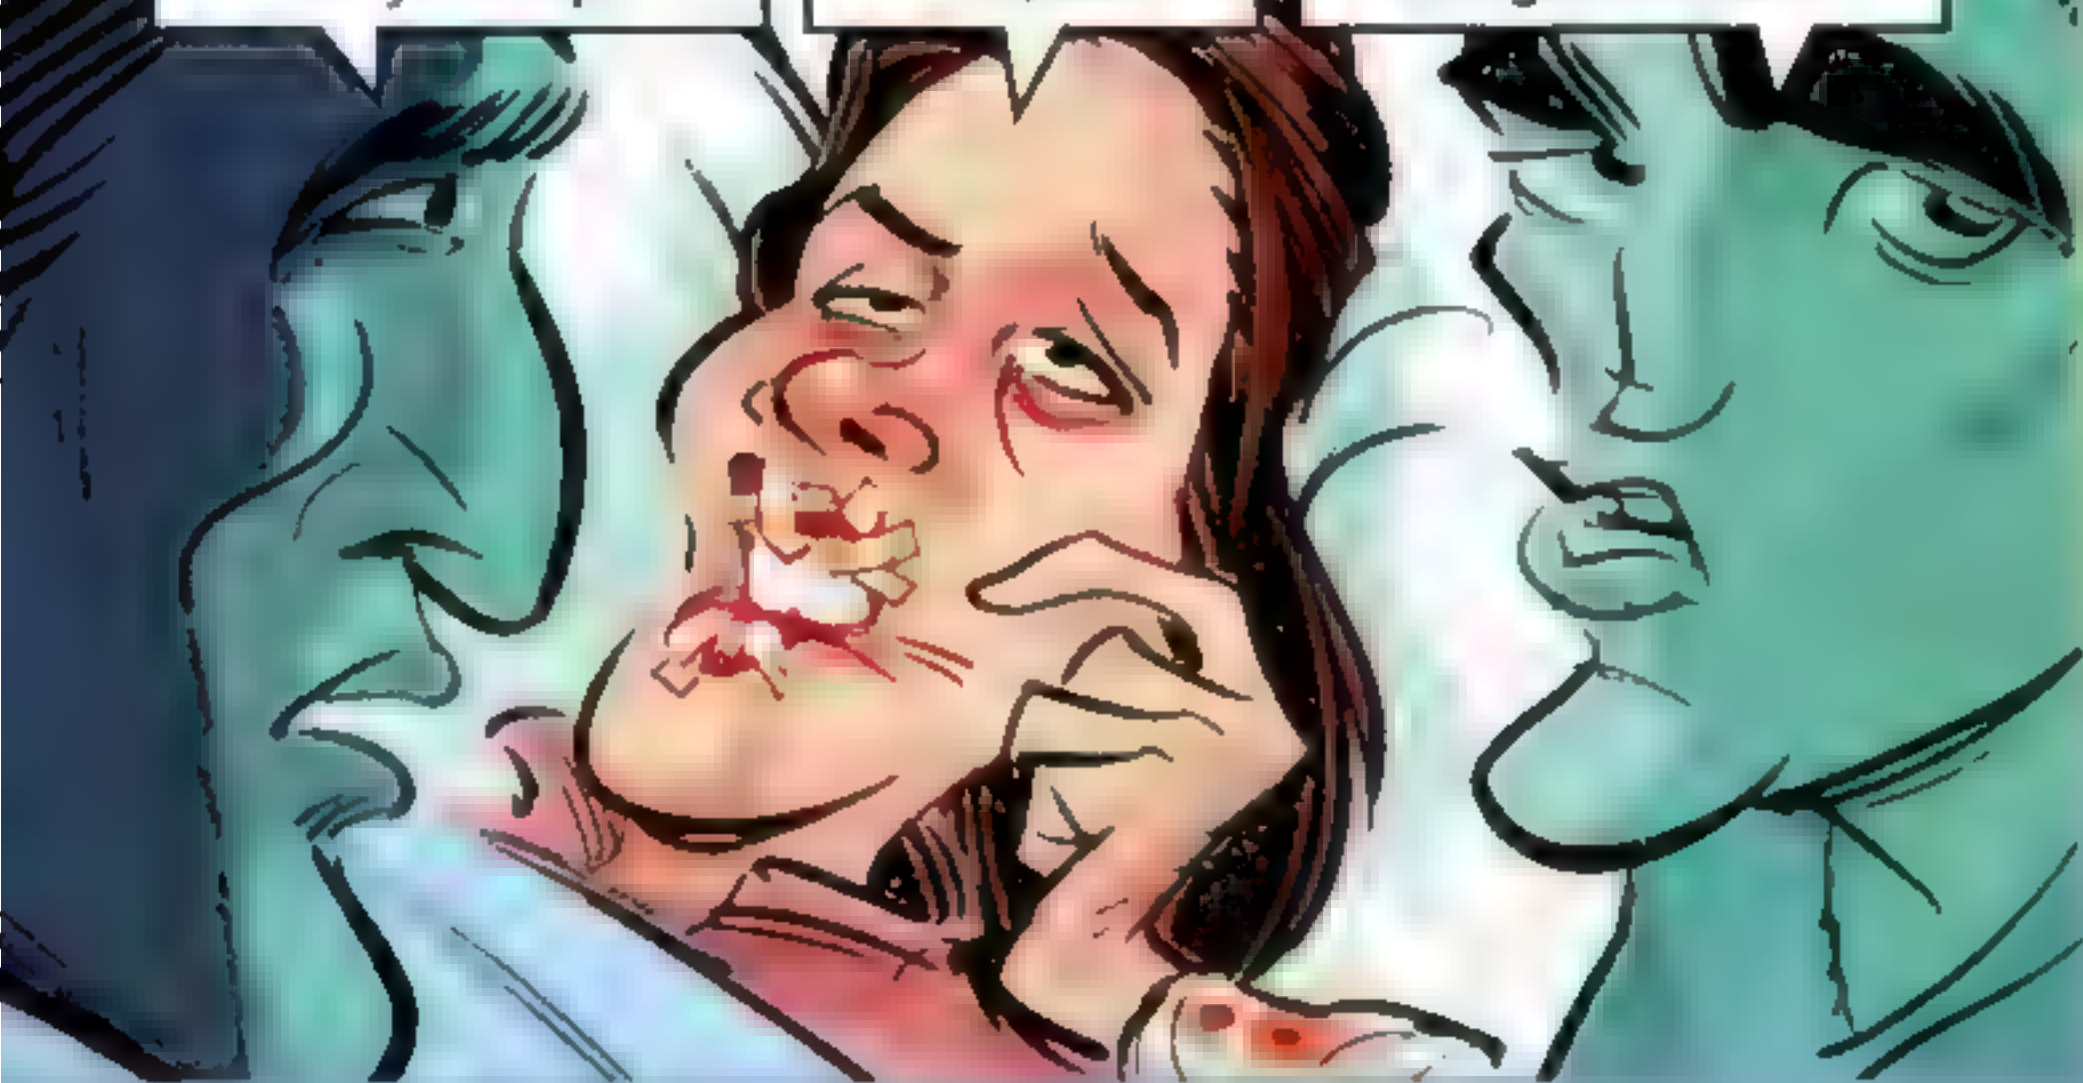

You were very fortunate to survive his vampire attack, Rubella. You've got one bite on your wrist, and 75,000 bites on your lip.

No, those lip bites are mine. It's something I do in lieu of personality. Oops — make it 75,001!

I have a feeling we'll be seeing a lot more of not just that vacant facial expression, but your other, open-mouthed one, as we trudge on into...

the toilet saga new gloom

I love you too much to turn you into a vampire!

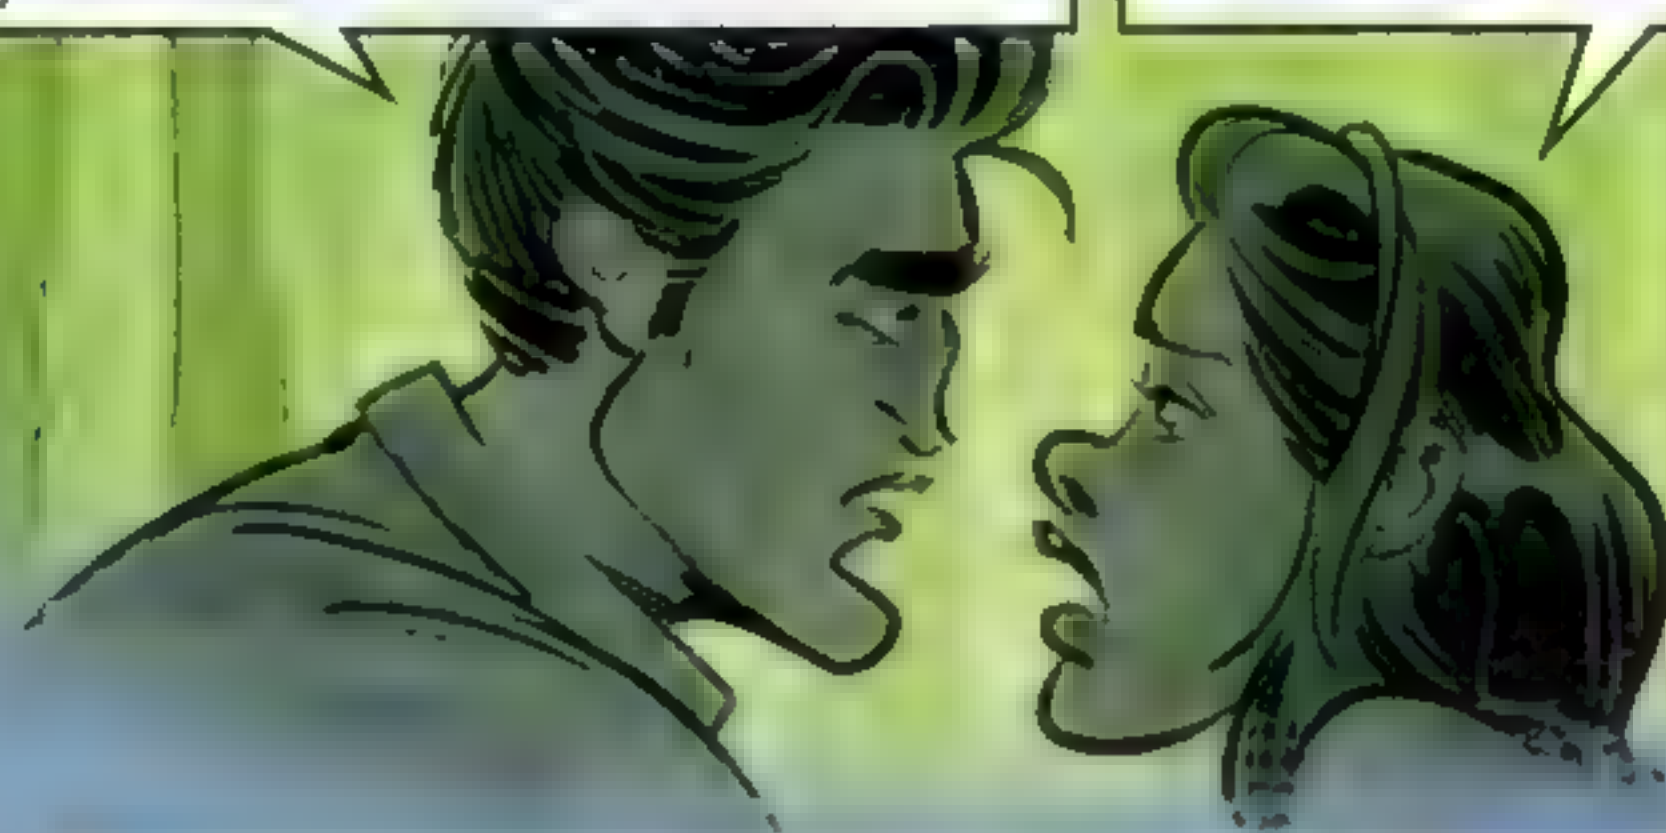

If you loved me, you would turn me into a vampire!

You're not ready to become a vampire.

Yes, I'm ready to become a vampire!

It would be forever and ever! Do you realize what forever would be?

Like one of these conversations. Except shorter!

You can't spend the rest of your life in your room, moping! That's why I brought you outside to mope!

Oooh! My skin is tingling! It's the first thing I've felt in so long.

Those are bugs hitting you in the face at 75 mph. I TOLD you to wear a helmet!

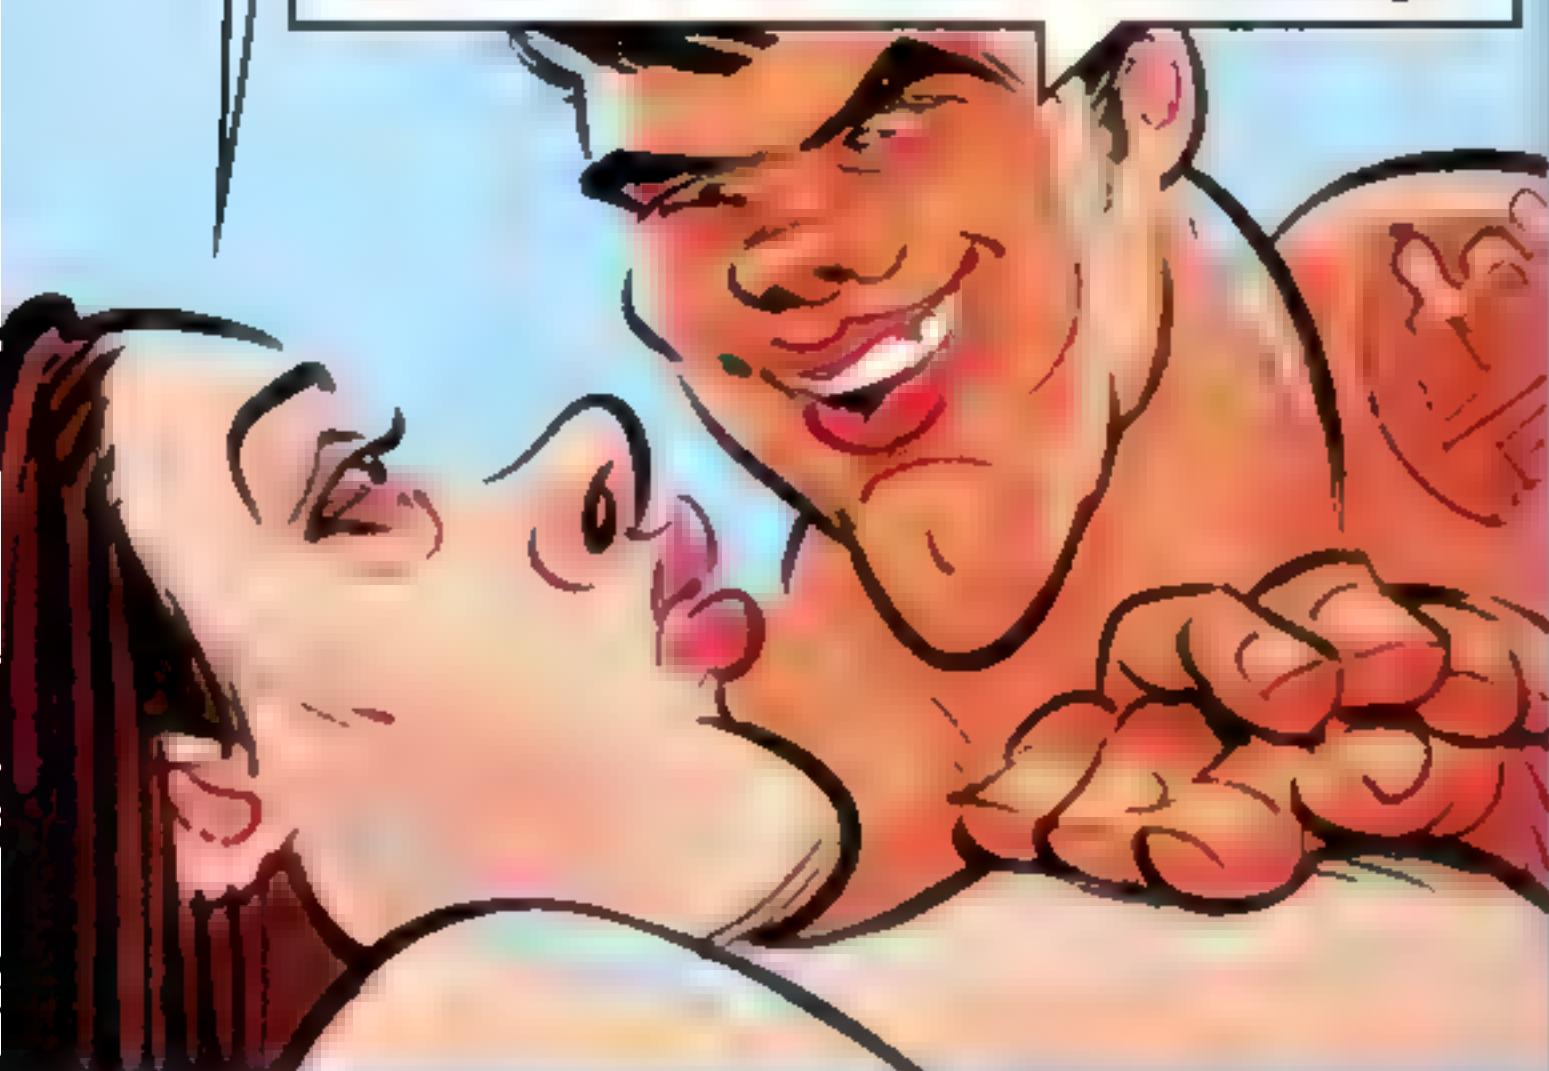

So far, all the girls in the audience have been identifying with me. Now their boyfriends that got trapped into seeing this slo-mo chick flick have something THEY can identify with — my suicide scene. They've been thinking about killing themselves ever since this movie started!

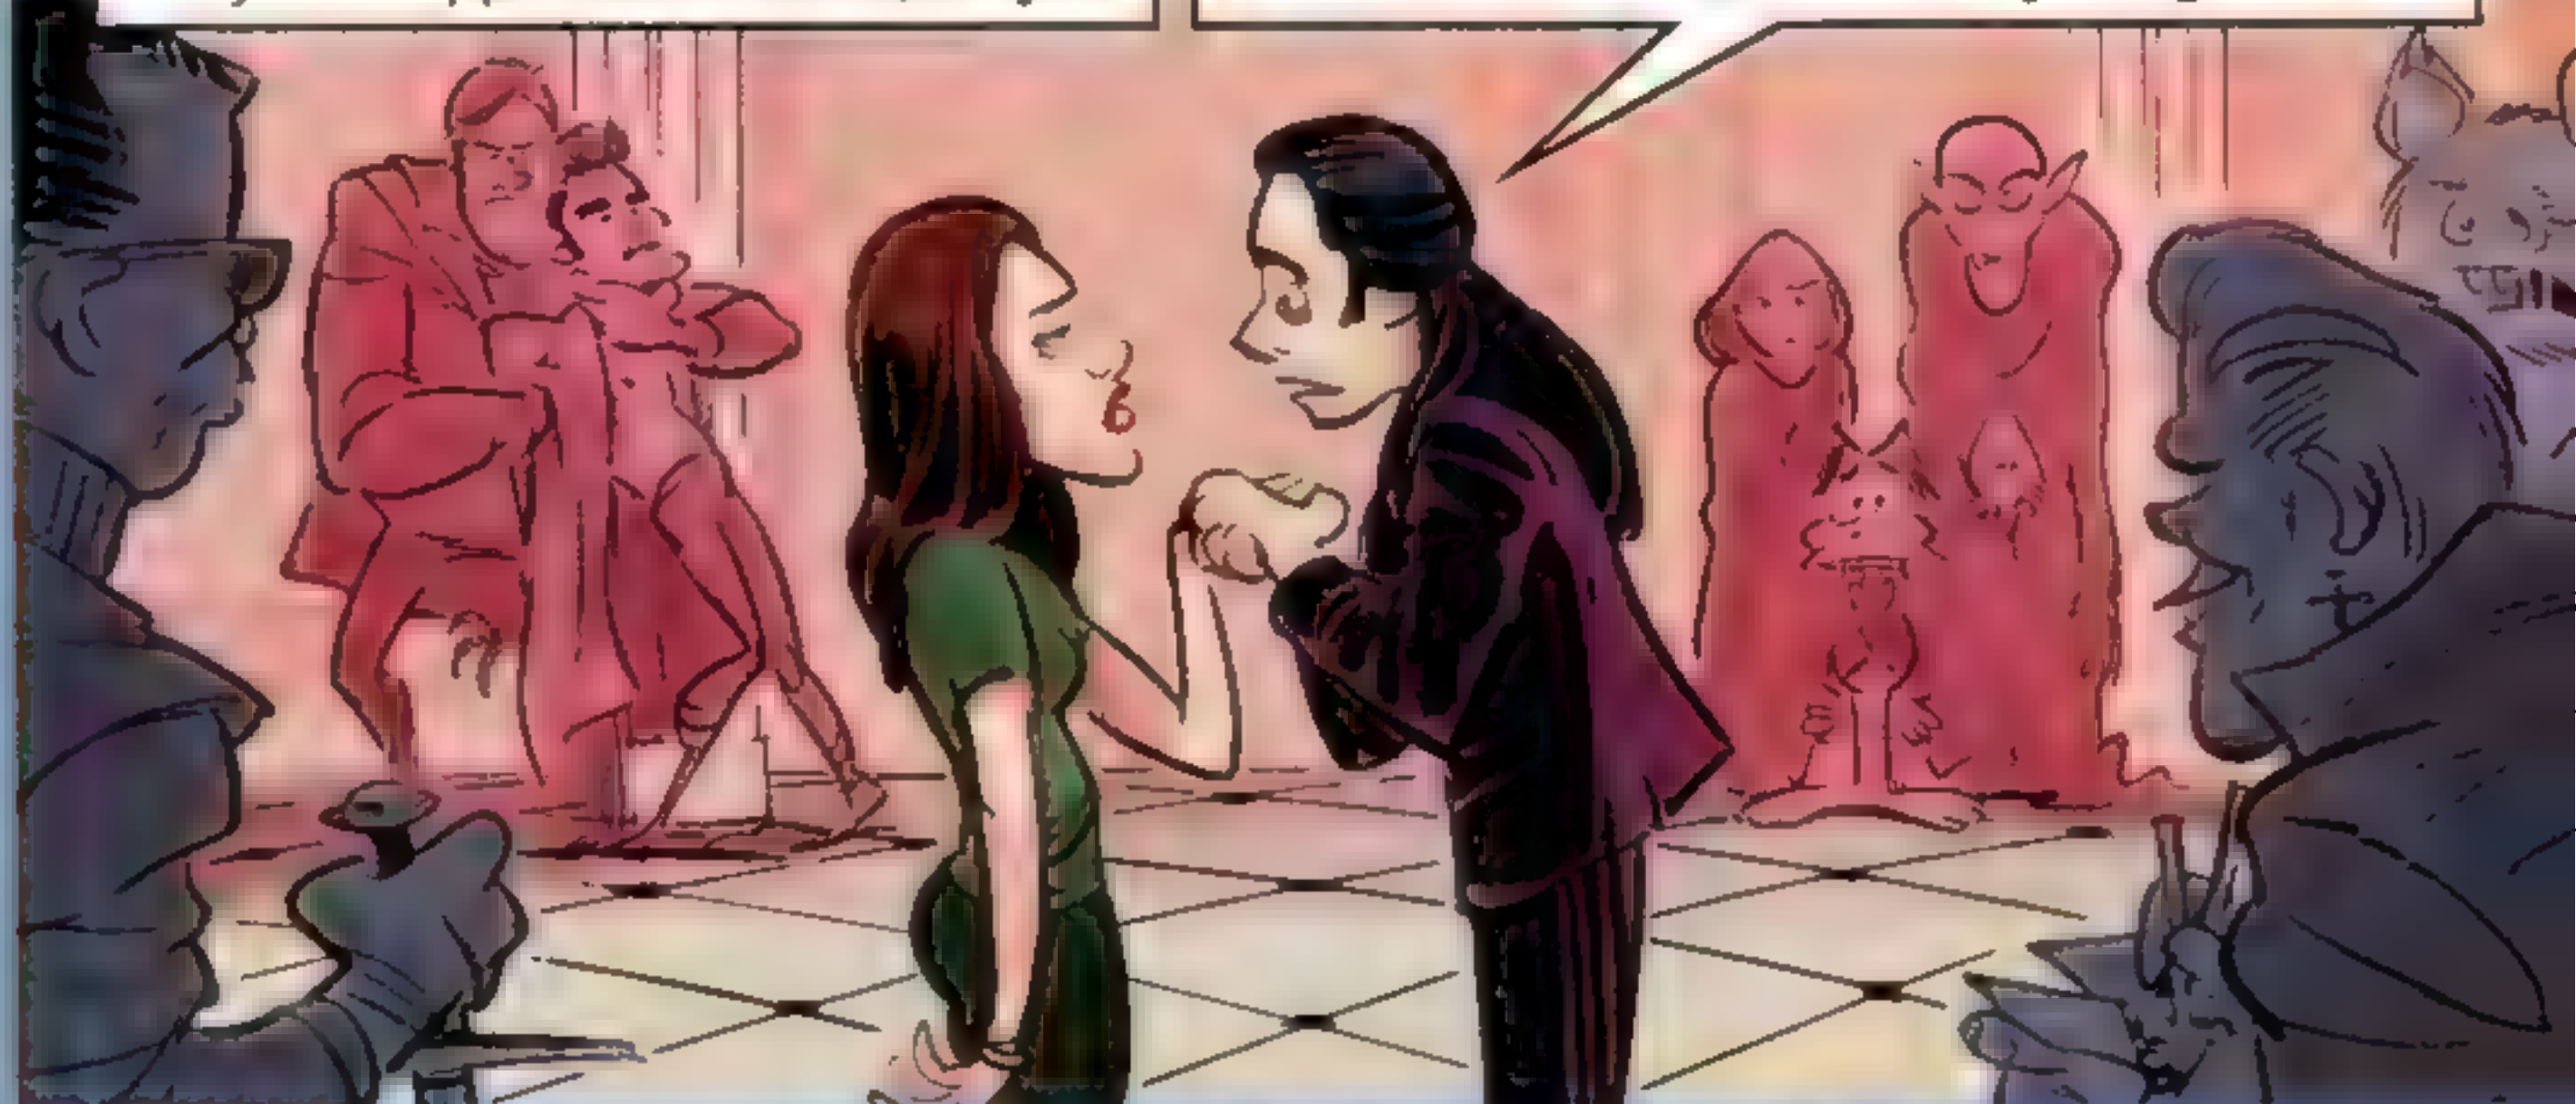

Where...where am I?

For the past 30 minutes, I've been giving you intense mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and a robust heart massage, after getting you out of those dripping wet clothes. You started breathing normally 29 minutes ago, true. But it never hurts to be thorough!

We are...the Zamboni. The supreme high council has lived long and seen much. Of the old, judgmental dudes wearing robes here in Italy, we're the ones who only BITE children! Please, allow me to me read your thoughts, my dear appetizer...I mean, lady!

Fascinating! Your mind is absolutely blank to me. This has only occurred once before, with Miley Cyrus! If I have seemed vexed, do forgive me. My prostate's been acting up since 1743! Please, remain with us as our guests for dinner. As you would expect, we have excellent Italian food. Try the gondolier!

I'll never let you go, even though I just did! After I decided to never see you again, I couldn't bear not seeing you again! Since you've met my family, you've been in constant danger. So, will you marry me?

Before I answer your question, answer mine. If the Zamboni are so concerned with hiding their existence, why do they slaughter entire tour groups? When you thought I was dead, why didn't you use your mind-reading ability to check the details? Or make a phone call? And why travel all the way to Rome to kill yourself instead of just, you know, killing yourself?

Love conquers all, including logic! And it won't get any better! Needless contradictions, ponderously slow pacing and flat, one-note characters will continue to define...

the toilet saga weakscripts

Once I have created a fresh vampire army, then we will hunt and destroy Deadwood Sullen! But keep an eye out for witnesses. The police have noticed that people have been disappearing.

Quick strategy question: instead of doing this in the same small area where the Sullen family lives, and where everybody sees everything, maybe we should be creating vampires in a large city, and then bring the army here?

Shut up and bite!

You cannot marry him! Half of all vampire marriages end in divorce. And another 10% end in werewolf maulings!

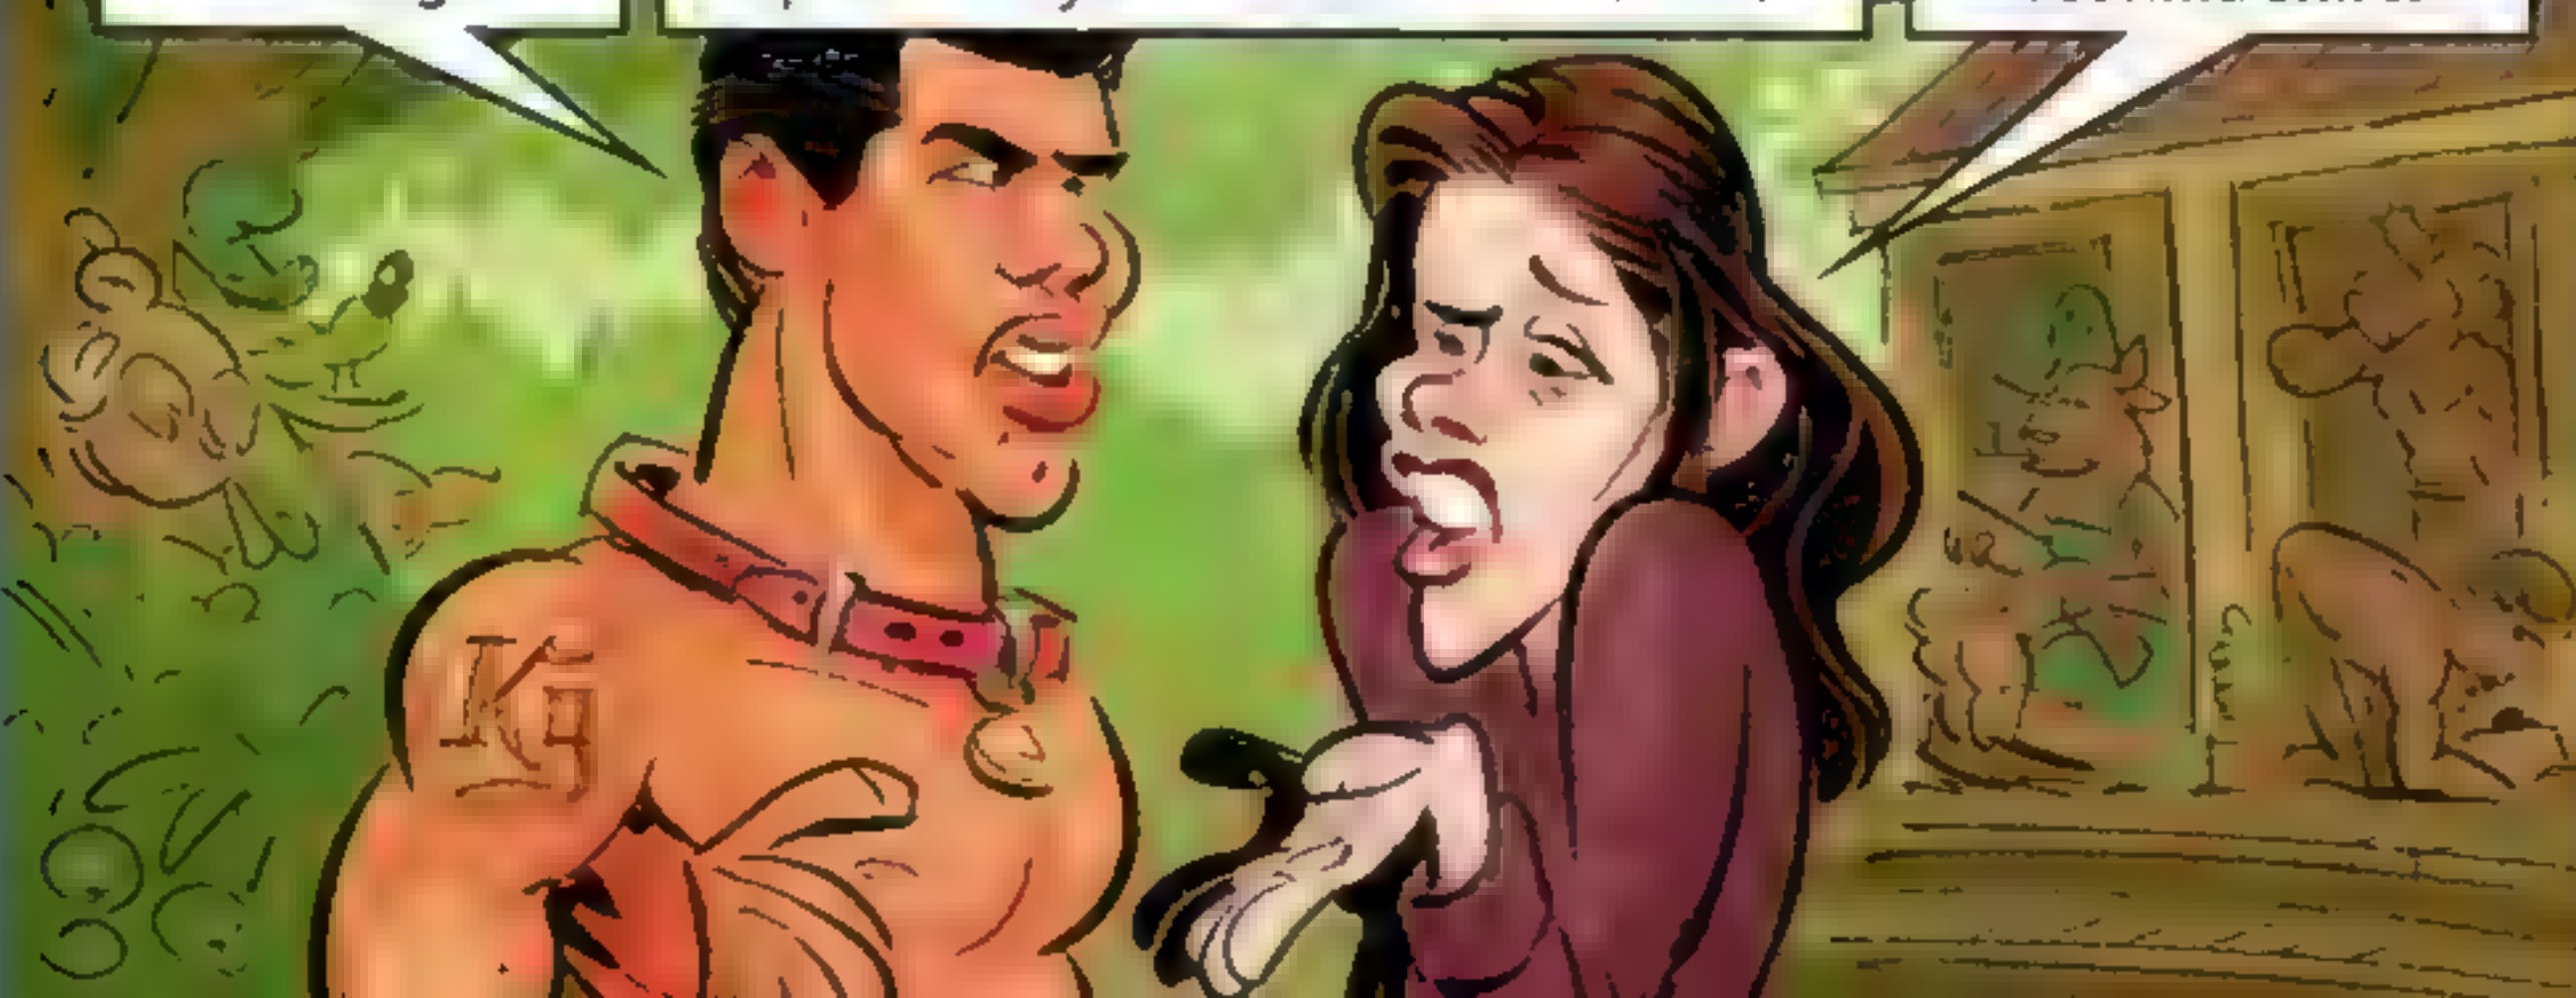

You don't know Deadwood like I do. He stalks me, he spies on me, he makes me obey orders, he vandalizes my things, he holds me prisoner, he withholds his feelings, he deceives me, he makes me suicidal, he comes between me and my father, he dominates every aspect of my life. What's not to love?

I admit he's a catch. But what hurts most is knowing there's something I can never have. That can never be a part of me!

Yeah...a shirt!

Jackwad, don't! Control yourself!

I AM controlling myself! I'm half wolf. Normally, I'd be sniffing your butt by now!

Errr, ahem...well. You're over 18 years old now. It's time you need to learn that there's something called "sex." And it can be dangerous. With the wrong boy, you could pick up a disease.

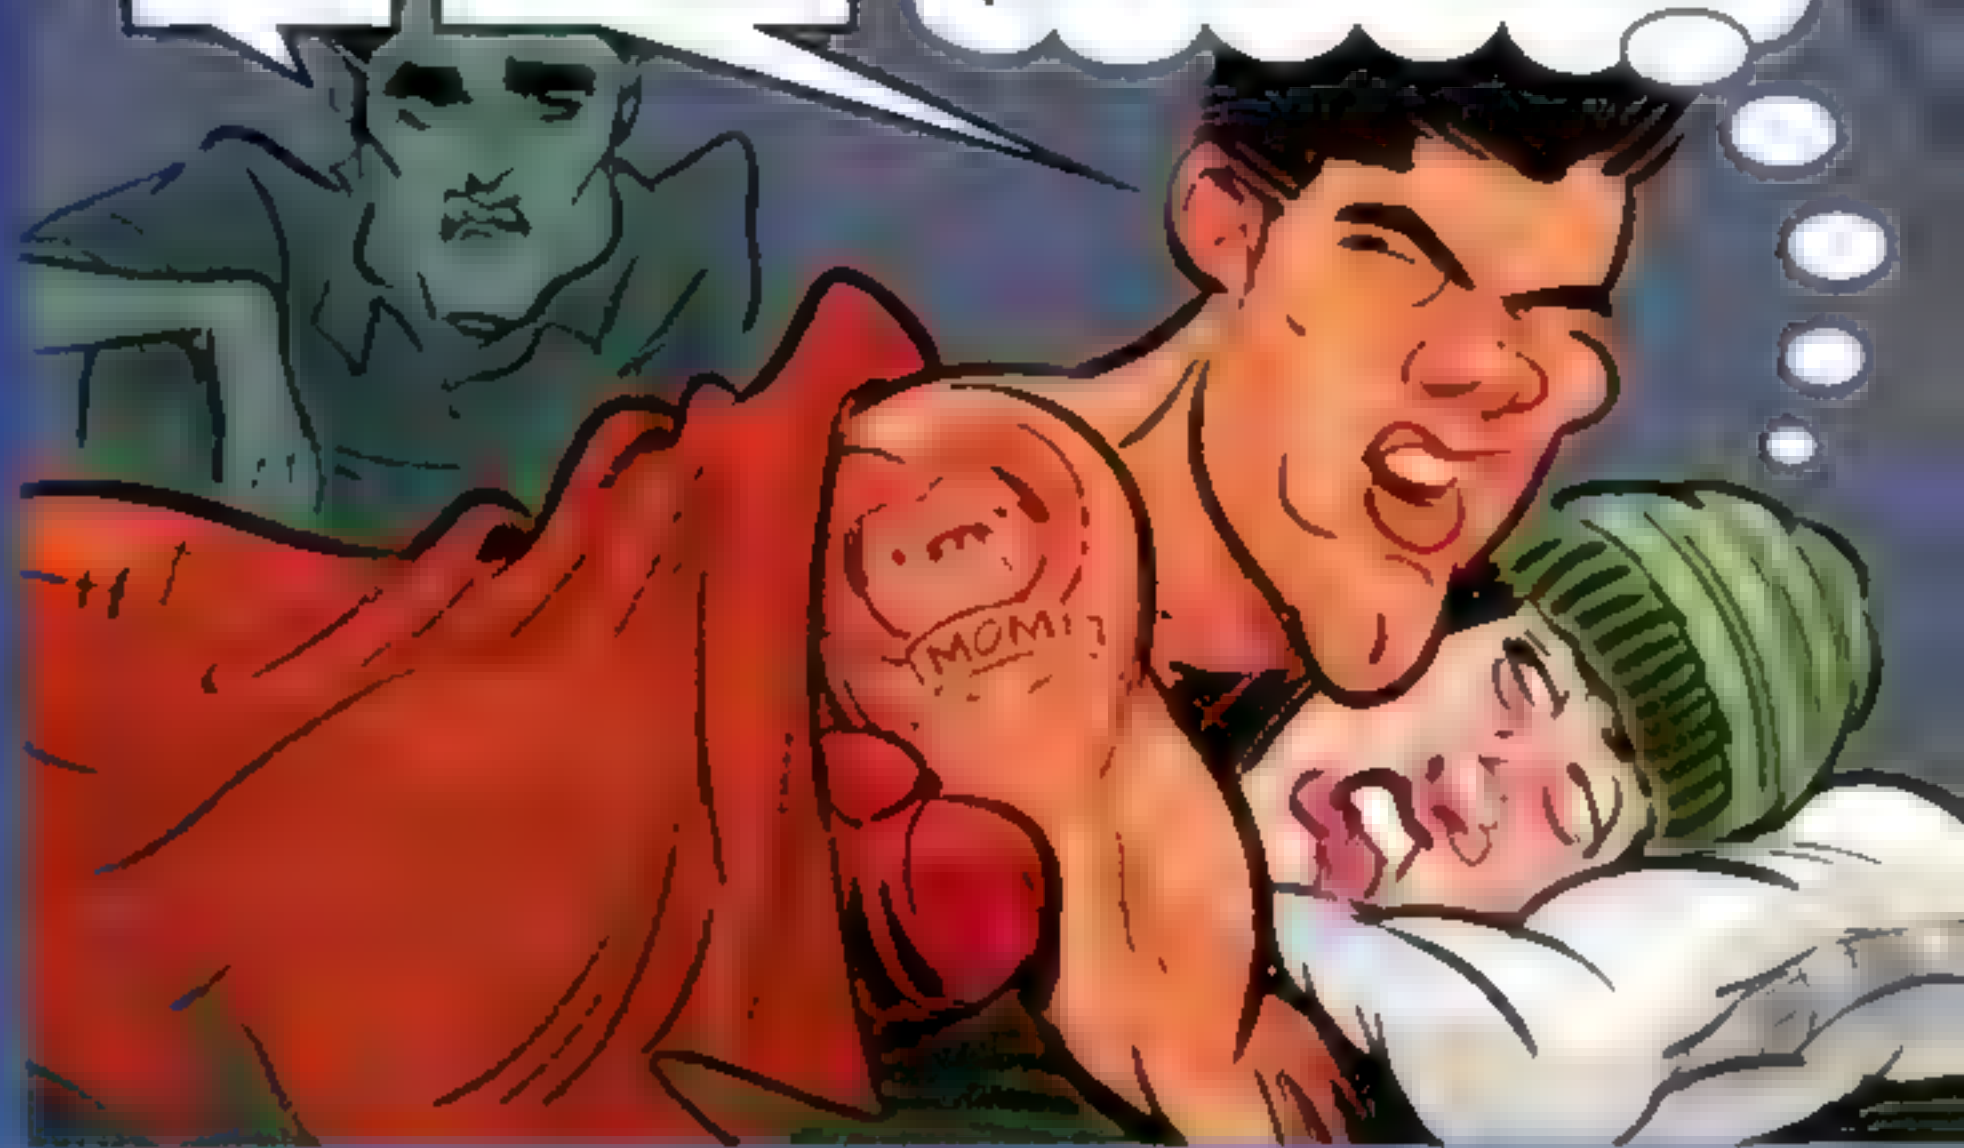

Don't worry, Daddy. The vet says that Jackwad is completely free of mange, heartworm and ear mites! Besides, my heart truly belongs to Deadwood. You'll be glad to know we haven't gotten physically intimate. Mostly because his body temperature is ice cold. If I put my mouth on him, my tongue might freeze like a flagpole on a winter's day!

As a matter of fact, yes I do.

You think you have an advantage over me, just because you can read minds?

I can tell Deadwood is consumed with worry and jealousy. So much so that he's forgotten he has super vampire speed, and could be back here with blankets and a space heater in 15 seconds!

Bite my kibbles if you must, but don't touch my bits!

A backflip, a spin, a tuck and roll, a shoulder block, another spin, a running clothesline, a hip throw and a judo chop! Because, you know...vampires.

We spent months getting this fighting army ready, yet we've been wiped out in three minutes, and without inflicting a single casualty! Vive la France!

Drat! Vindictiva and Whiny tracked us down! Maybe we should have picked a hideout more than four minutes away from the battle site!

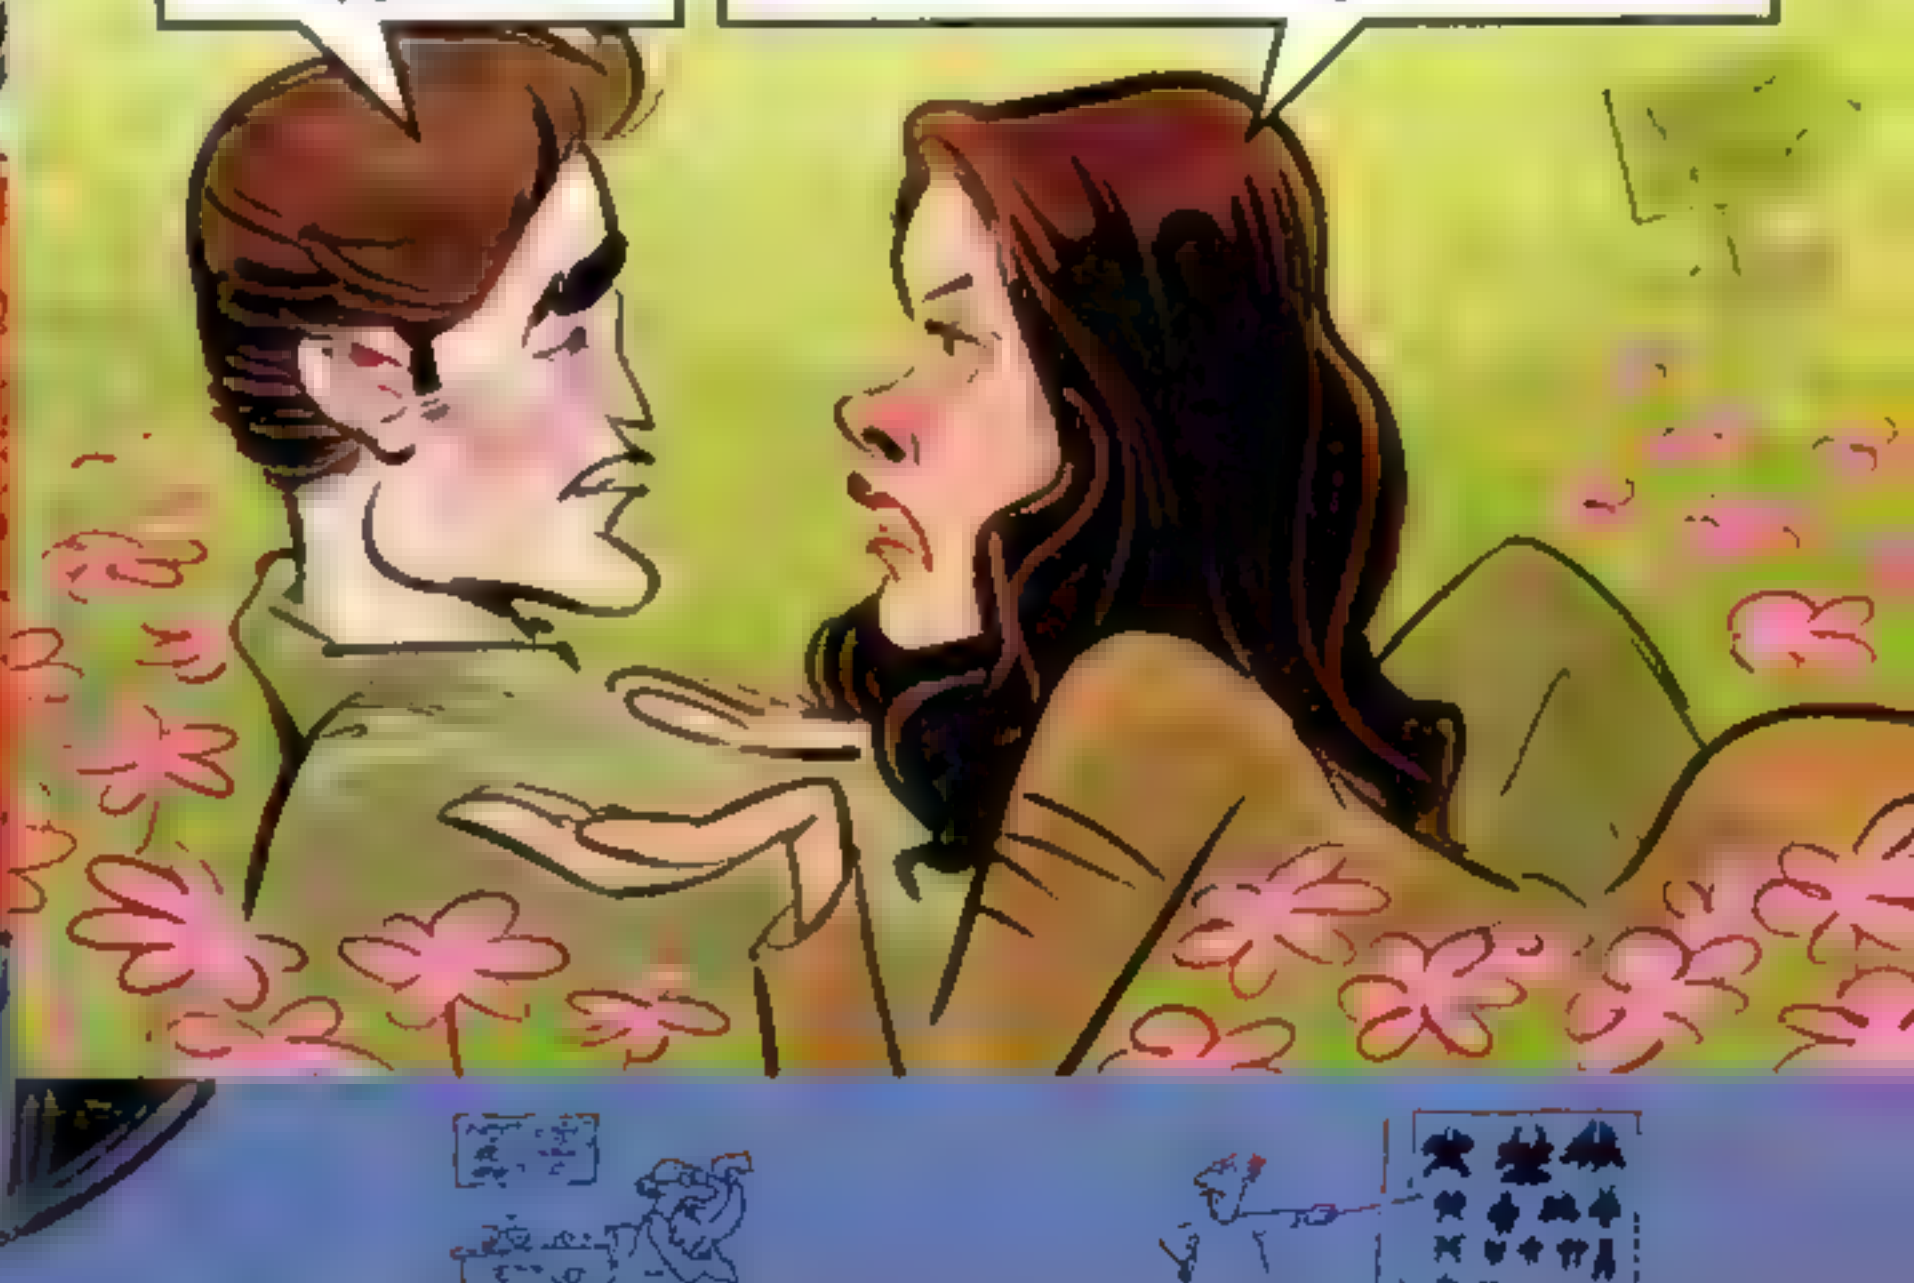

It's okay. I spent the whole movie amassing a vampire army just to kill you, then I forgot to bring my vampire army! Sometimes I think I'd forget my own head if it weren't attached!

Problem solved!

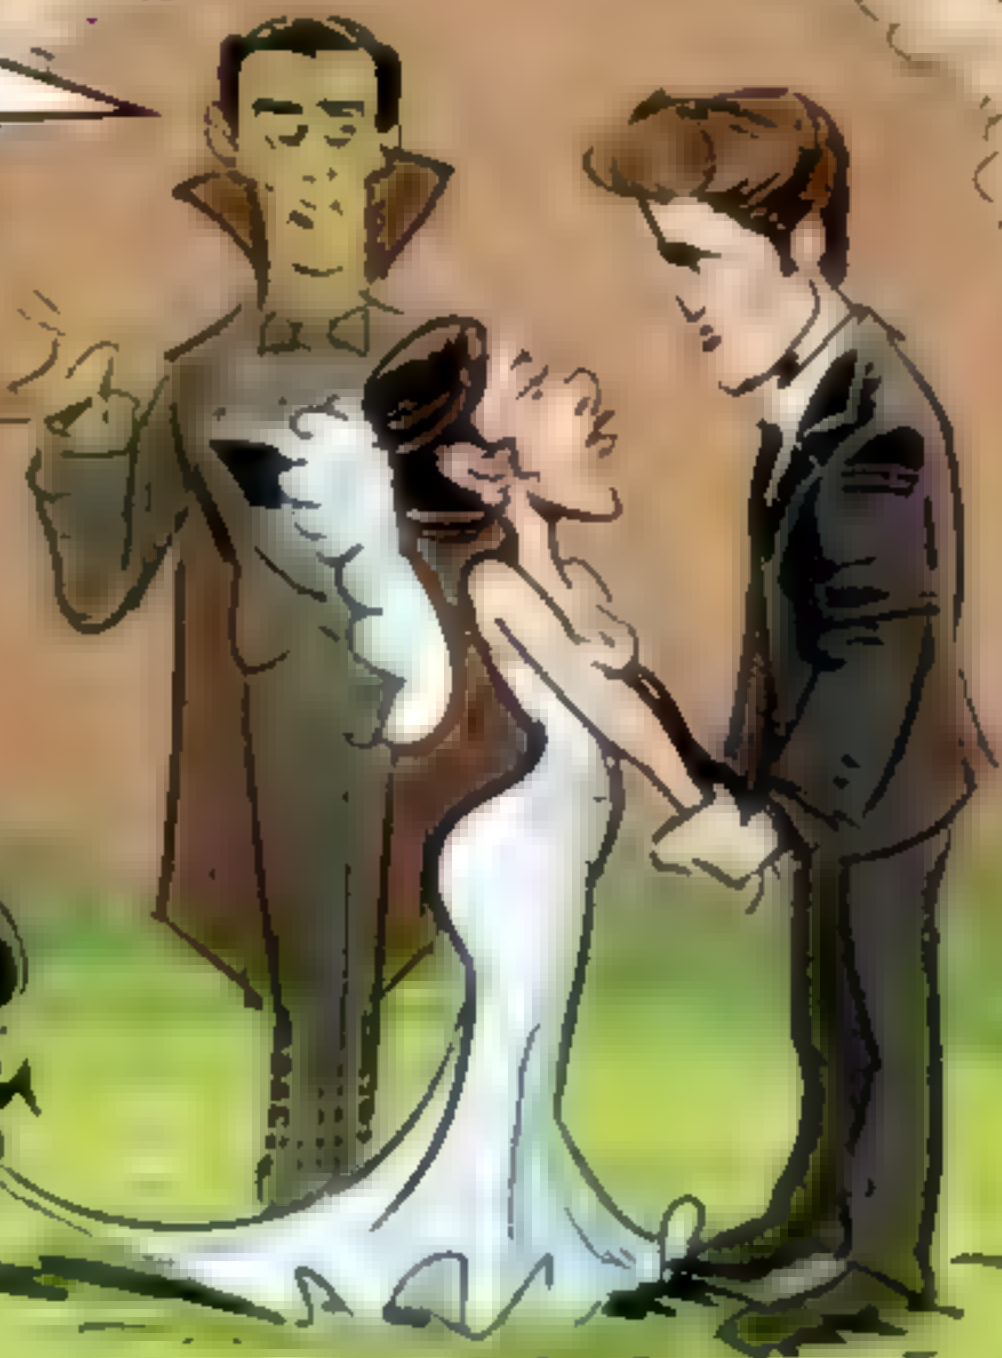

We were lucky to get this quiet spot. Normally, it's used to shoot Tampax commercials. We need to talk about what's happened.

Happened? HAPPENED? We still need to get married, Jackwad still wants to stop us, we still haven't gone past first base, I still need to change into a vampire and the Zamboni are still keeping an eye on us! Absolutely NOTHING has changed. The whole movie has been a 2-hour-long trailer for...

the toilet saga
sulking yawn
part 1

Joined together, Deadwood and Rubella shall be one life, one heart, one soul. And maybe five-ninths of a personality, on a good day. You may now gnaw the bride!

I always cry at weddings! Or rather, I would, if vampires had bodily fluids! That low, hissing sound is air, being blown out of my tear ducts!

Who could help crying and sniffing, sitting here in this rain forest of plants and flowers? The pollen count has to be through the roof! Speaking of which, is that shredded asbestos hanging from the ceiling?

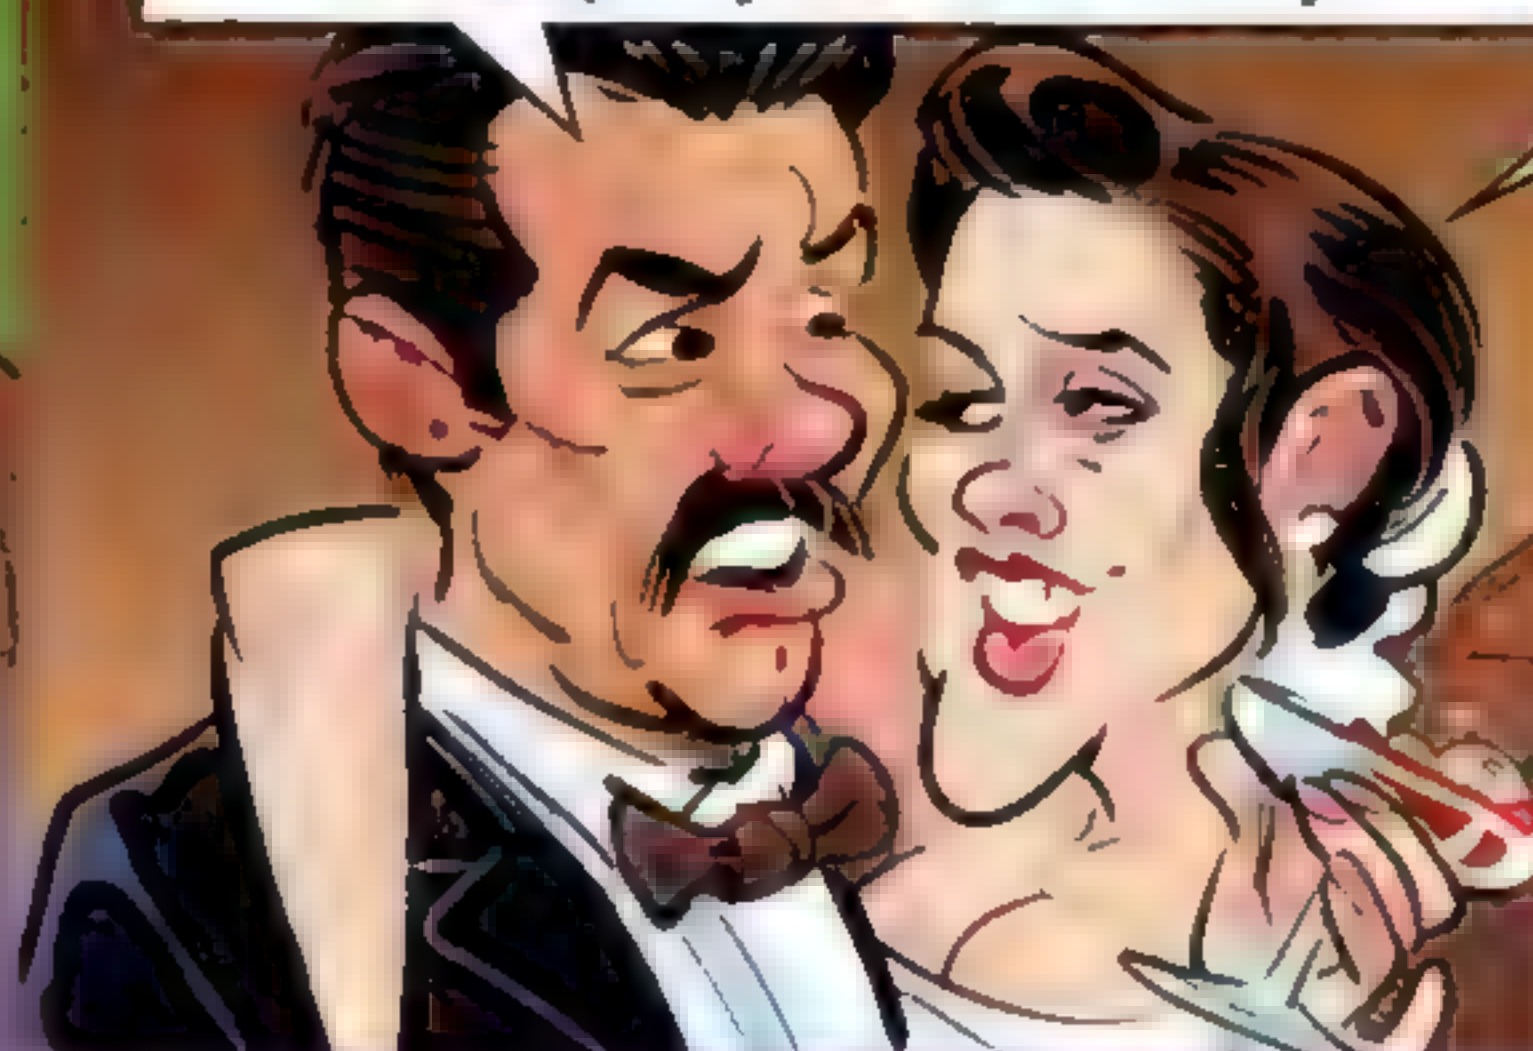

Here. These drops should help. I use them myself. Every day.

Brrrr! It's the spooky TV doctor who never blinks, from the Restasis ads! I may be an undead man-demon who feasts on human blood...but THAT lady gives me the creeps!

Since you came to Sporks, you've been hospitalized, clinically depressed, broken your leg and hand, gashed your arm, and survived hypothermia, a treacherous fall, and half a dozen murder attempts. Seems like I did a better job protecting you during the 17 years when you were living 1,500 miles away! And now you're going to live in the woods? Does this sparkly bum even have a job?

Oh, Daddy. There's no time for sensible concerns. I'm married and we're off to Sex Island!

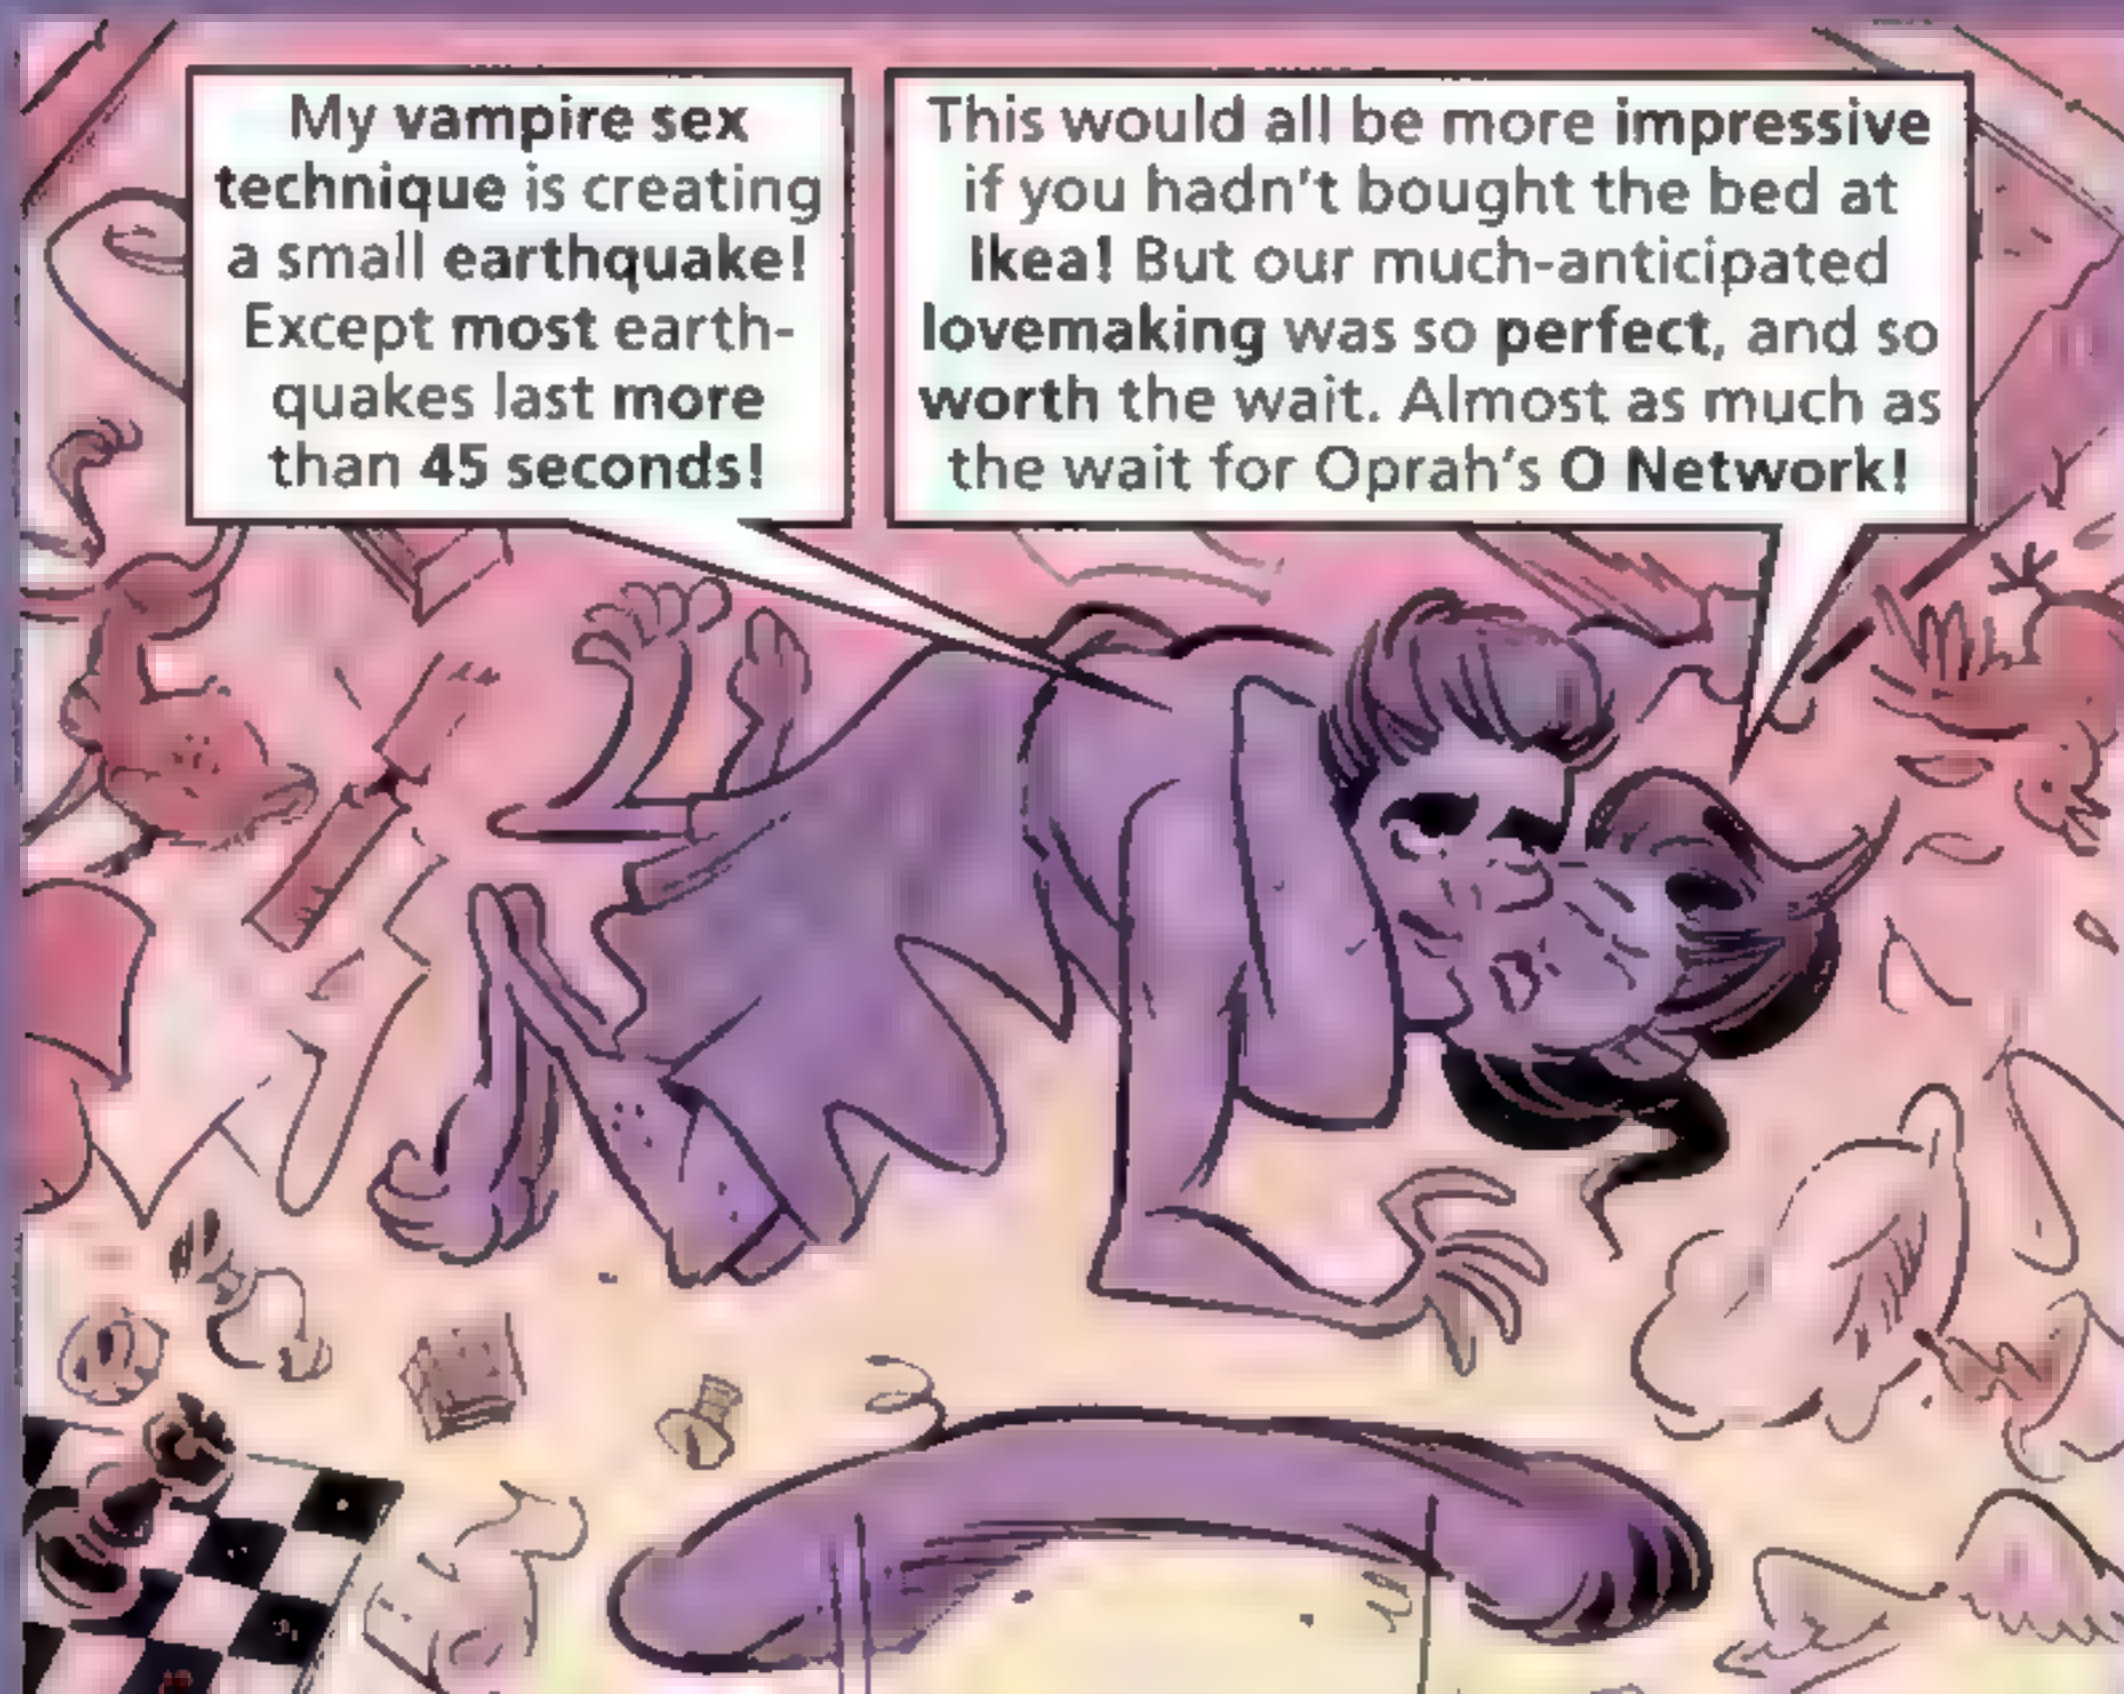

At last, we finally know who her choice is, and it's a good lesson for the women out there. When you're torn between two equally hot guys, always pick the one who doesn't drink out of the toilet!

HONK!
HONNK!

My vampire sex technique is creating a small earthquake! Except most earthquakes last more than 45 seconds!

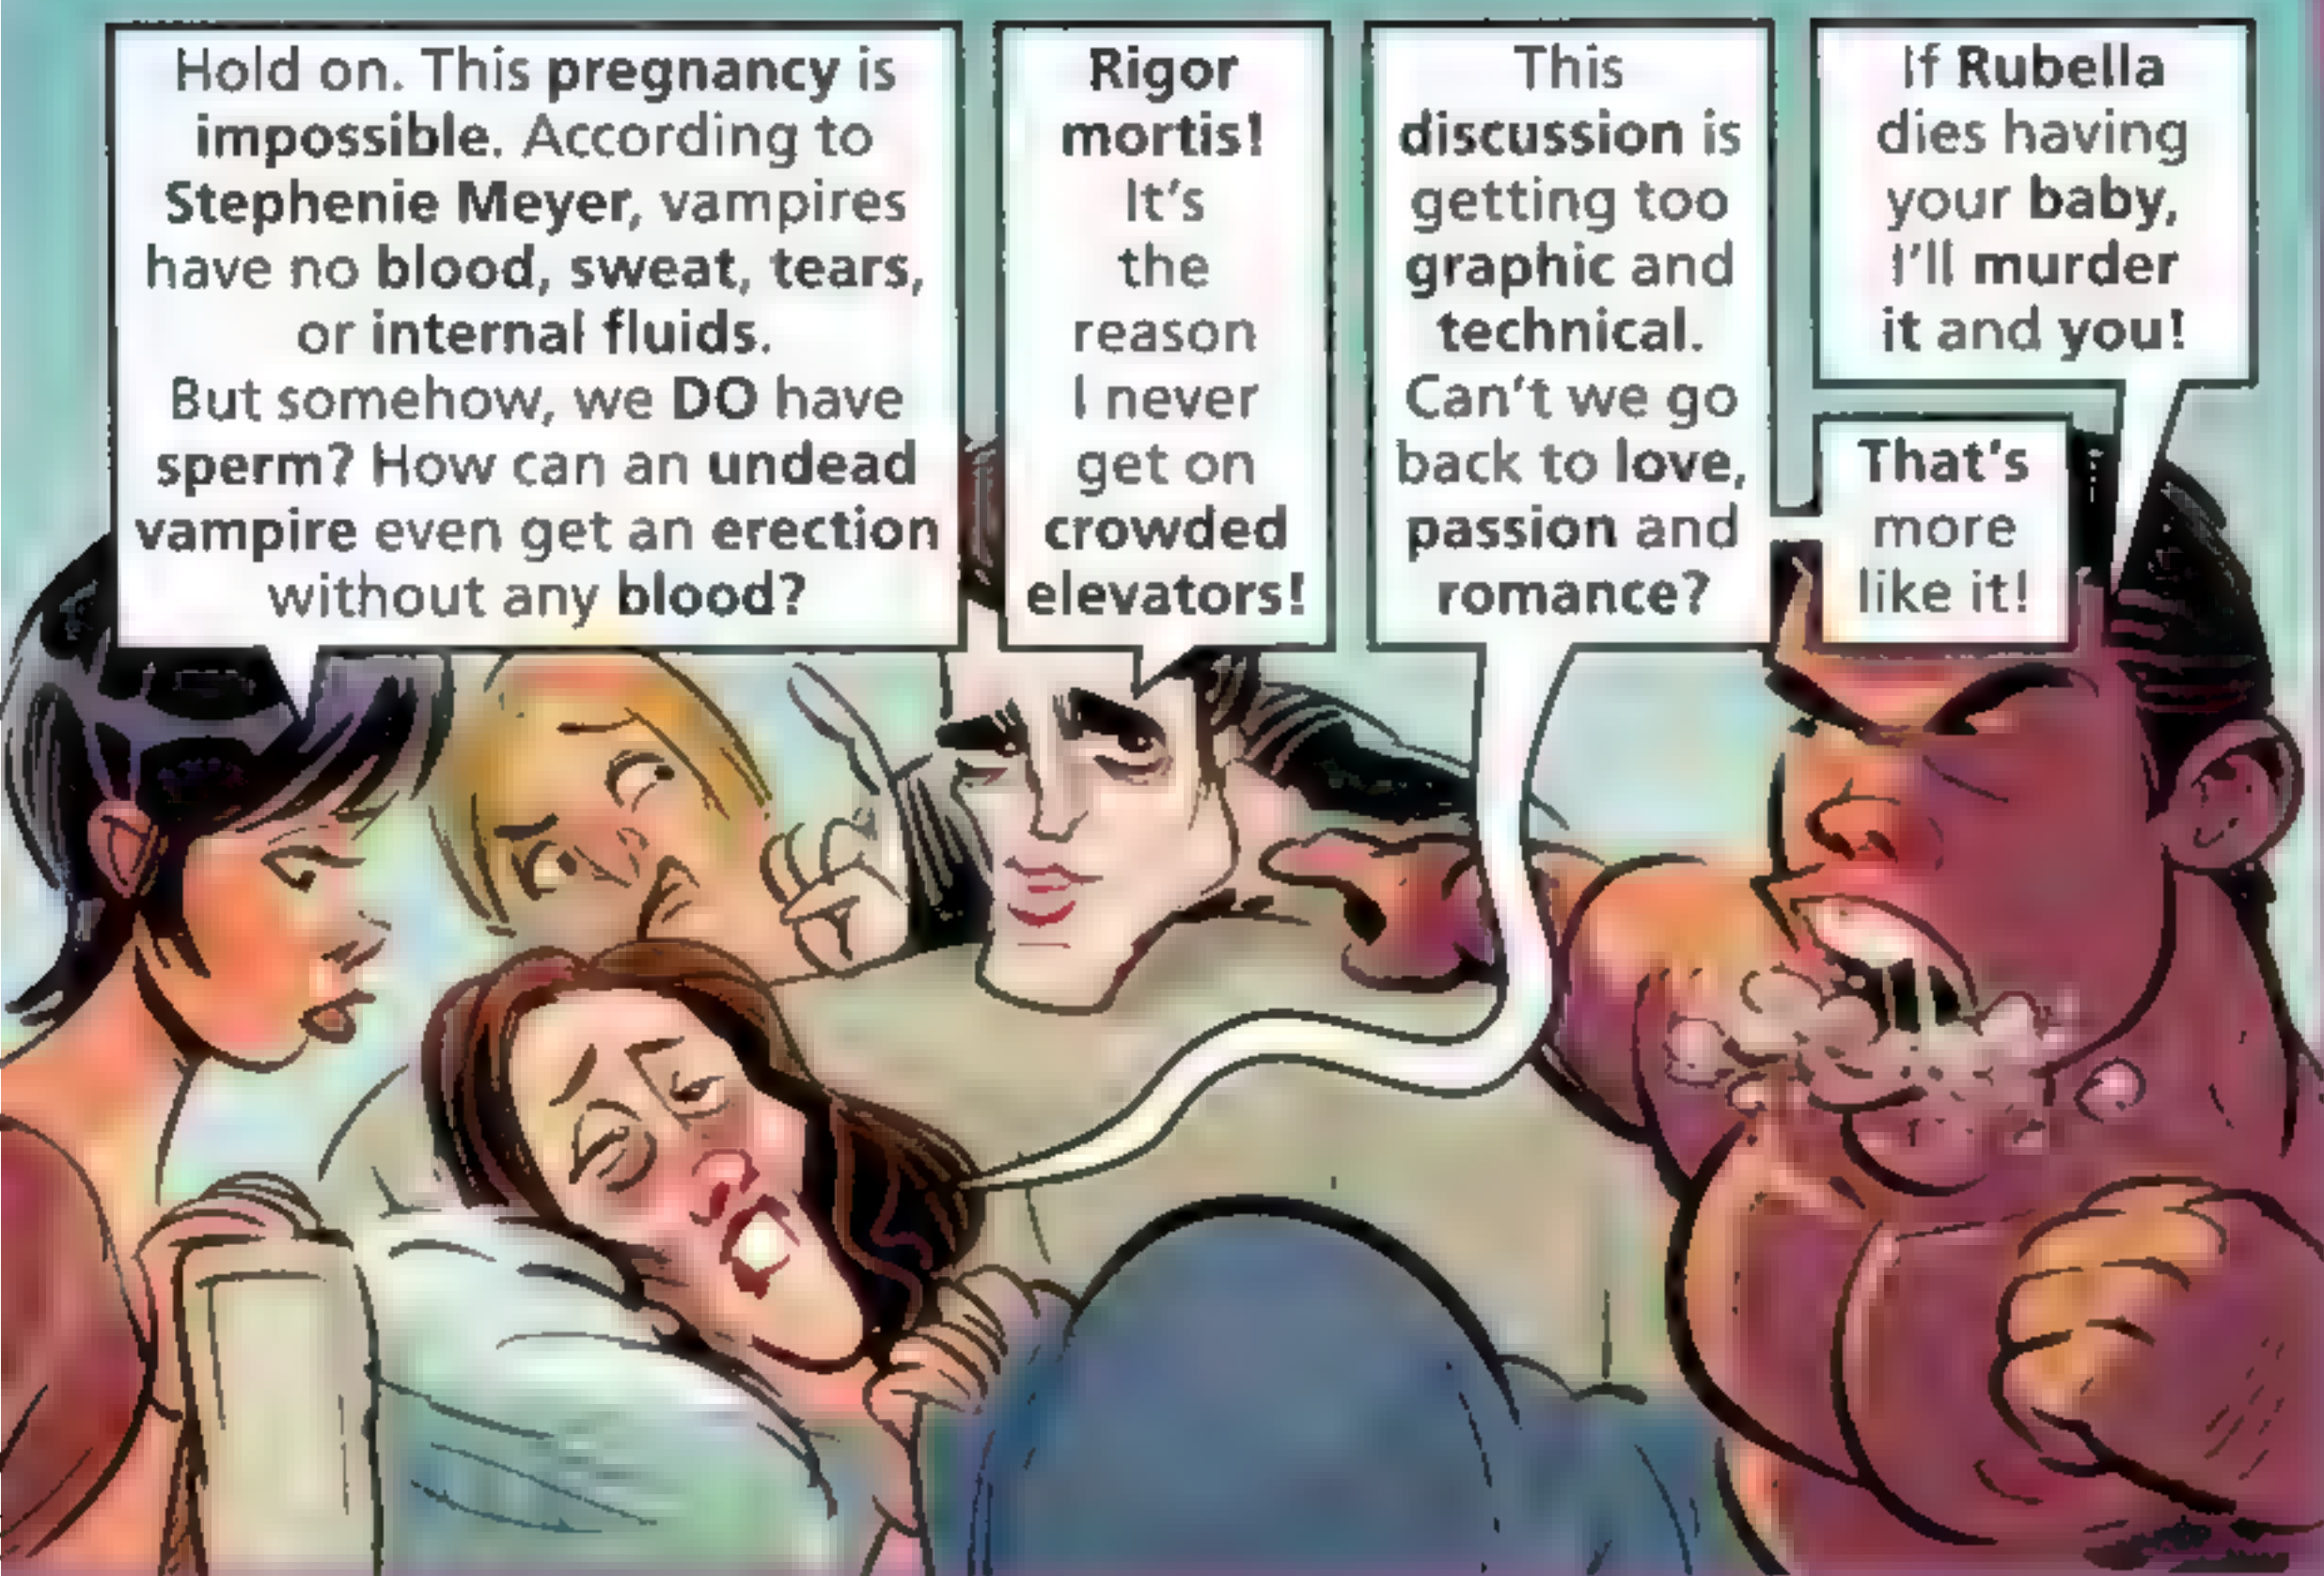

This would all be more impressive if you hadn't bought the bed at Ikea! But our much-anticipated lovemaking was so perfect, and so worth the wait. Almost as much as the wait for Oprah's O Network!

Pregnant? Are you sure?

Just look at the test stick's little plus sign! Until now, from the sky to the woods to my home, it was one of the only things that wasn't already a dreary, ashen blue! I had a feeling I was pregnant, though. I've been having severe mood swings. I'm careening from ennui to listlessness to a dull funk!

Hold on. This pregnancy is impossible. According to Stephenie Meyer, vampires have no blood, sweat, tears, or internal fluids. But somehow, we DO have sperm? How can an undead vampire even get an erection without any blood?

Rigor mortis! It's the reason I never get on crowded elevators!

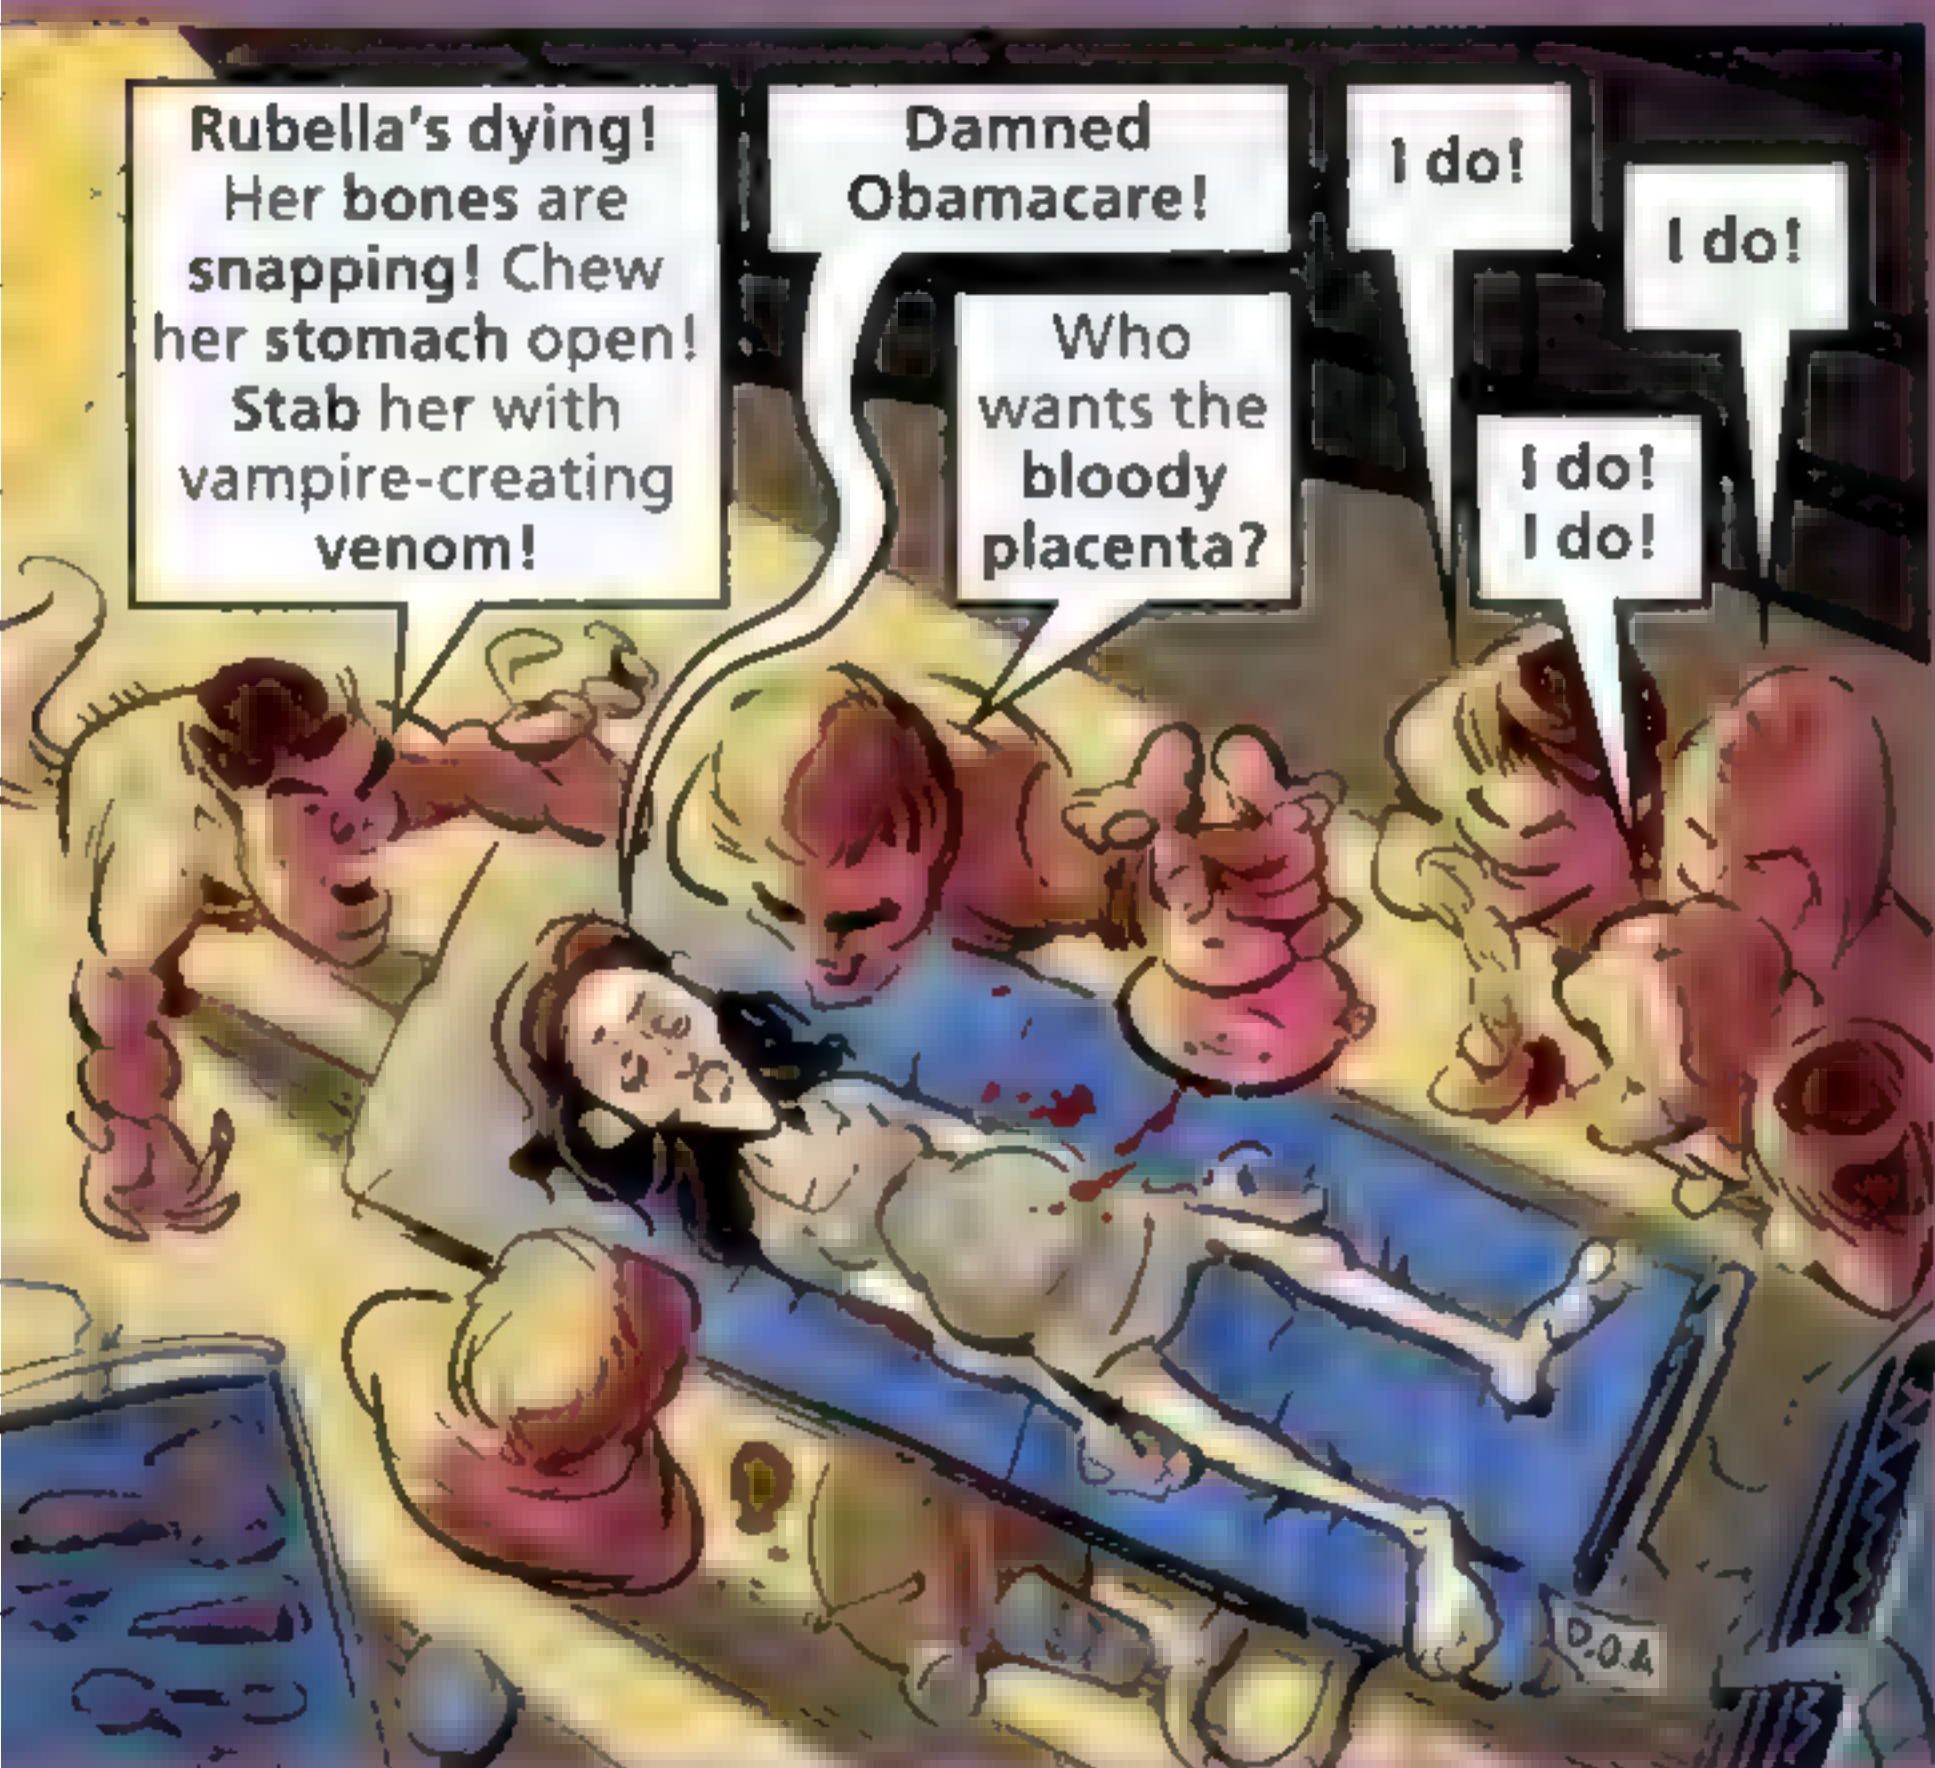

This discussion is getting too graphic and technical. Can't we go back to love, passion and romance?

If Rubella dies having your baby, I'll murder it and you! That's more like it!

I have an idea. Let's hide inside a giant glass house!

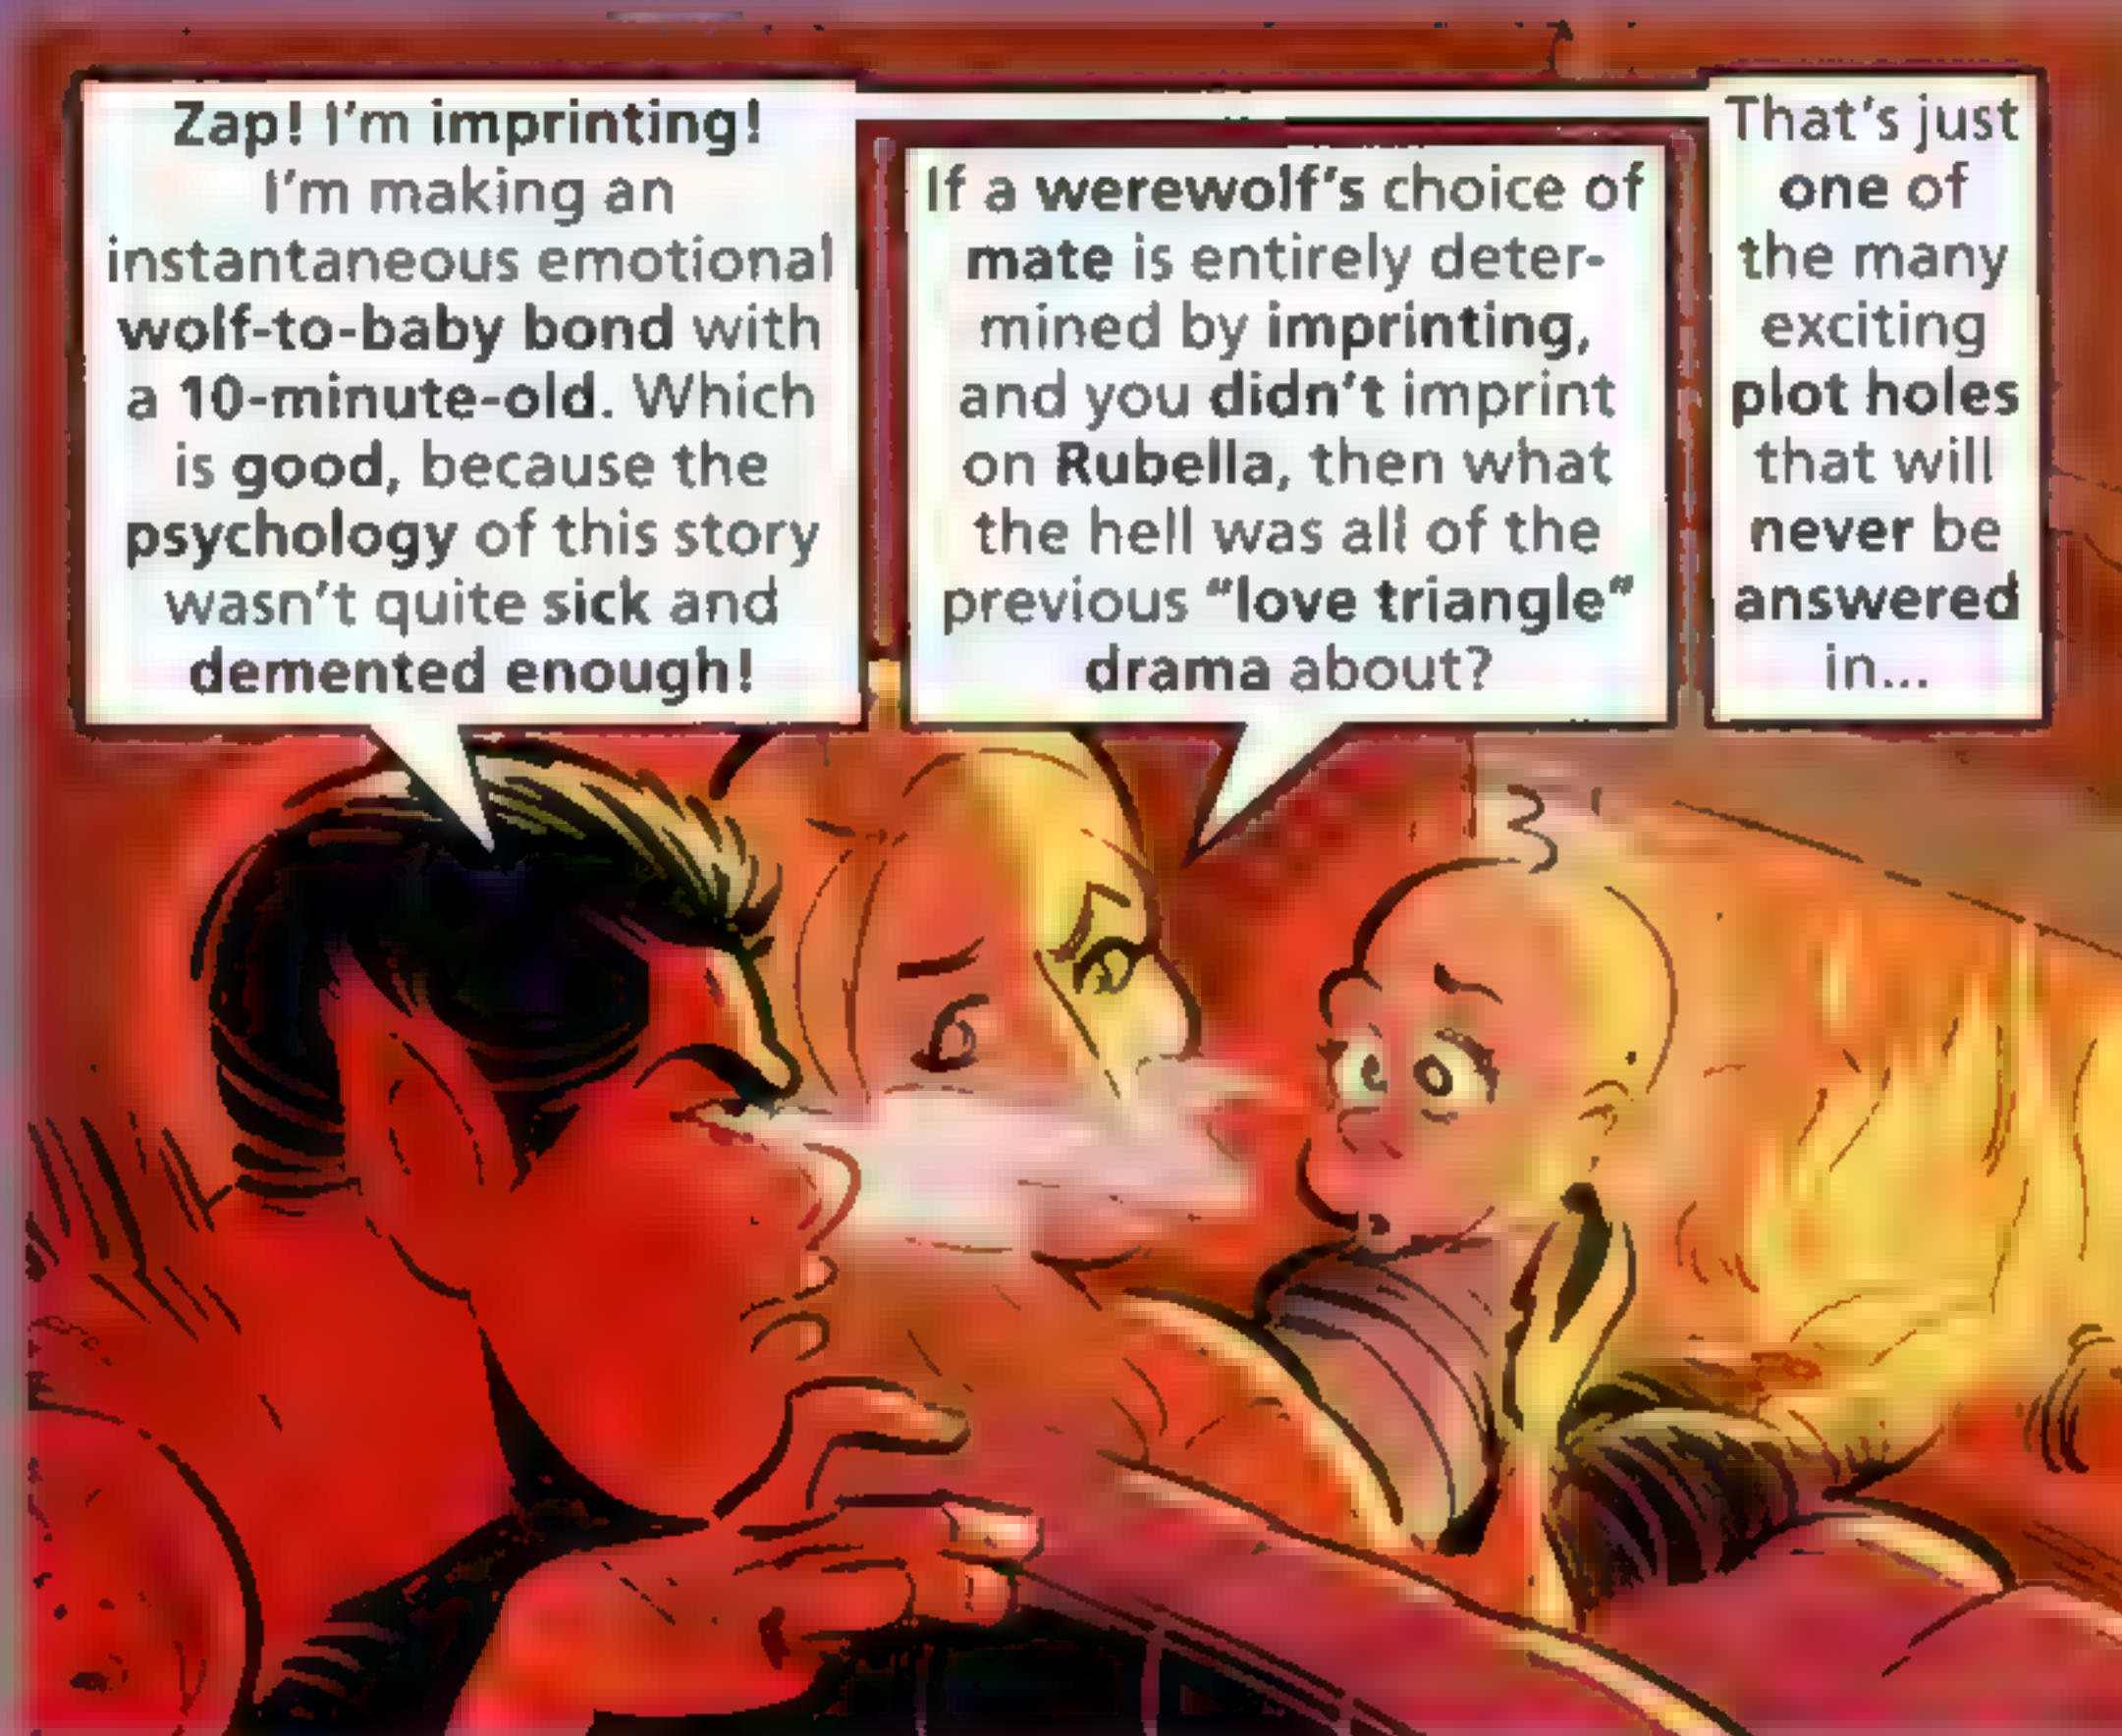

I can top that. Bella's on the verge of giving birth, and we're running low on our blood supply. So why don't we send our only doctor out to retrieve some?

Rubella's dying! Her bones are snapping! Chew her stomach open! Stab her with vampire-creating venom!

Damned Obamacare! Who wants the bloody placenta?

I do! I do! I do! I do!

Zap! I'm imprinting! I'm making an instantaneous emotional wolf-to-baby bond with a 10-minute-old. Which is good, because the psychology of this story wasn't quite sick and demented enough!

If a werewolf's choice of mate is entirely determined by imprinting, and you didn't imprint on Rubella, then what the hell was all of the previous "love triangle" drama about?

That's just one of the many exciting plot holes that will never be answered in...

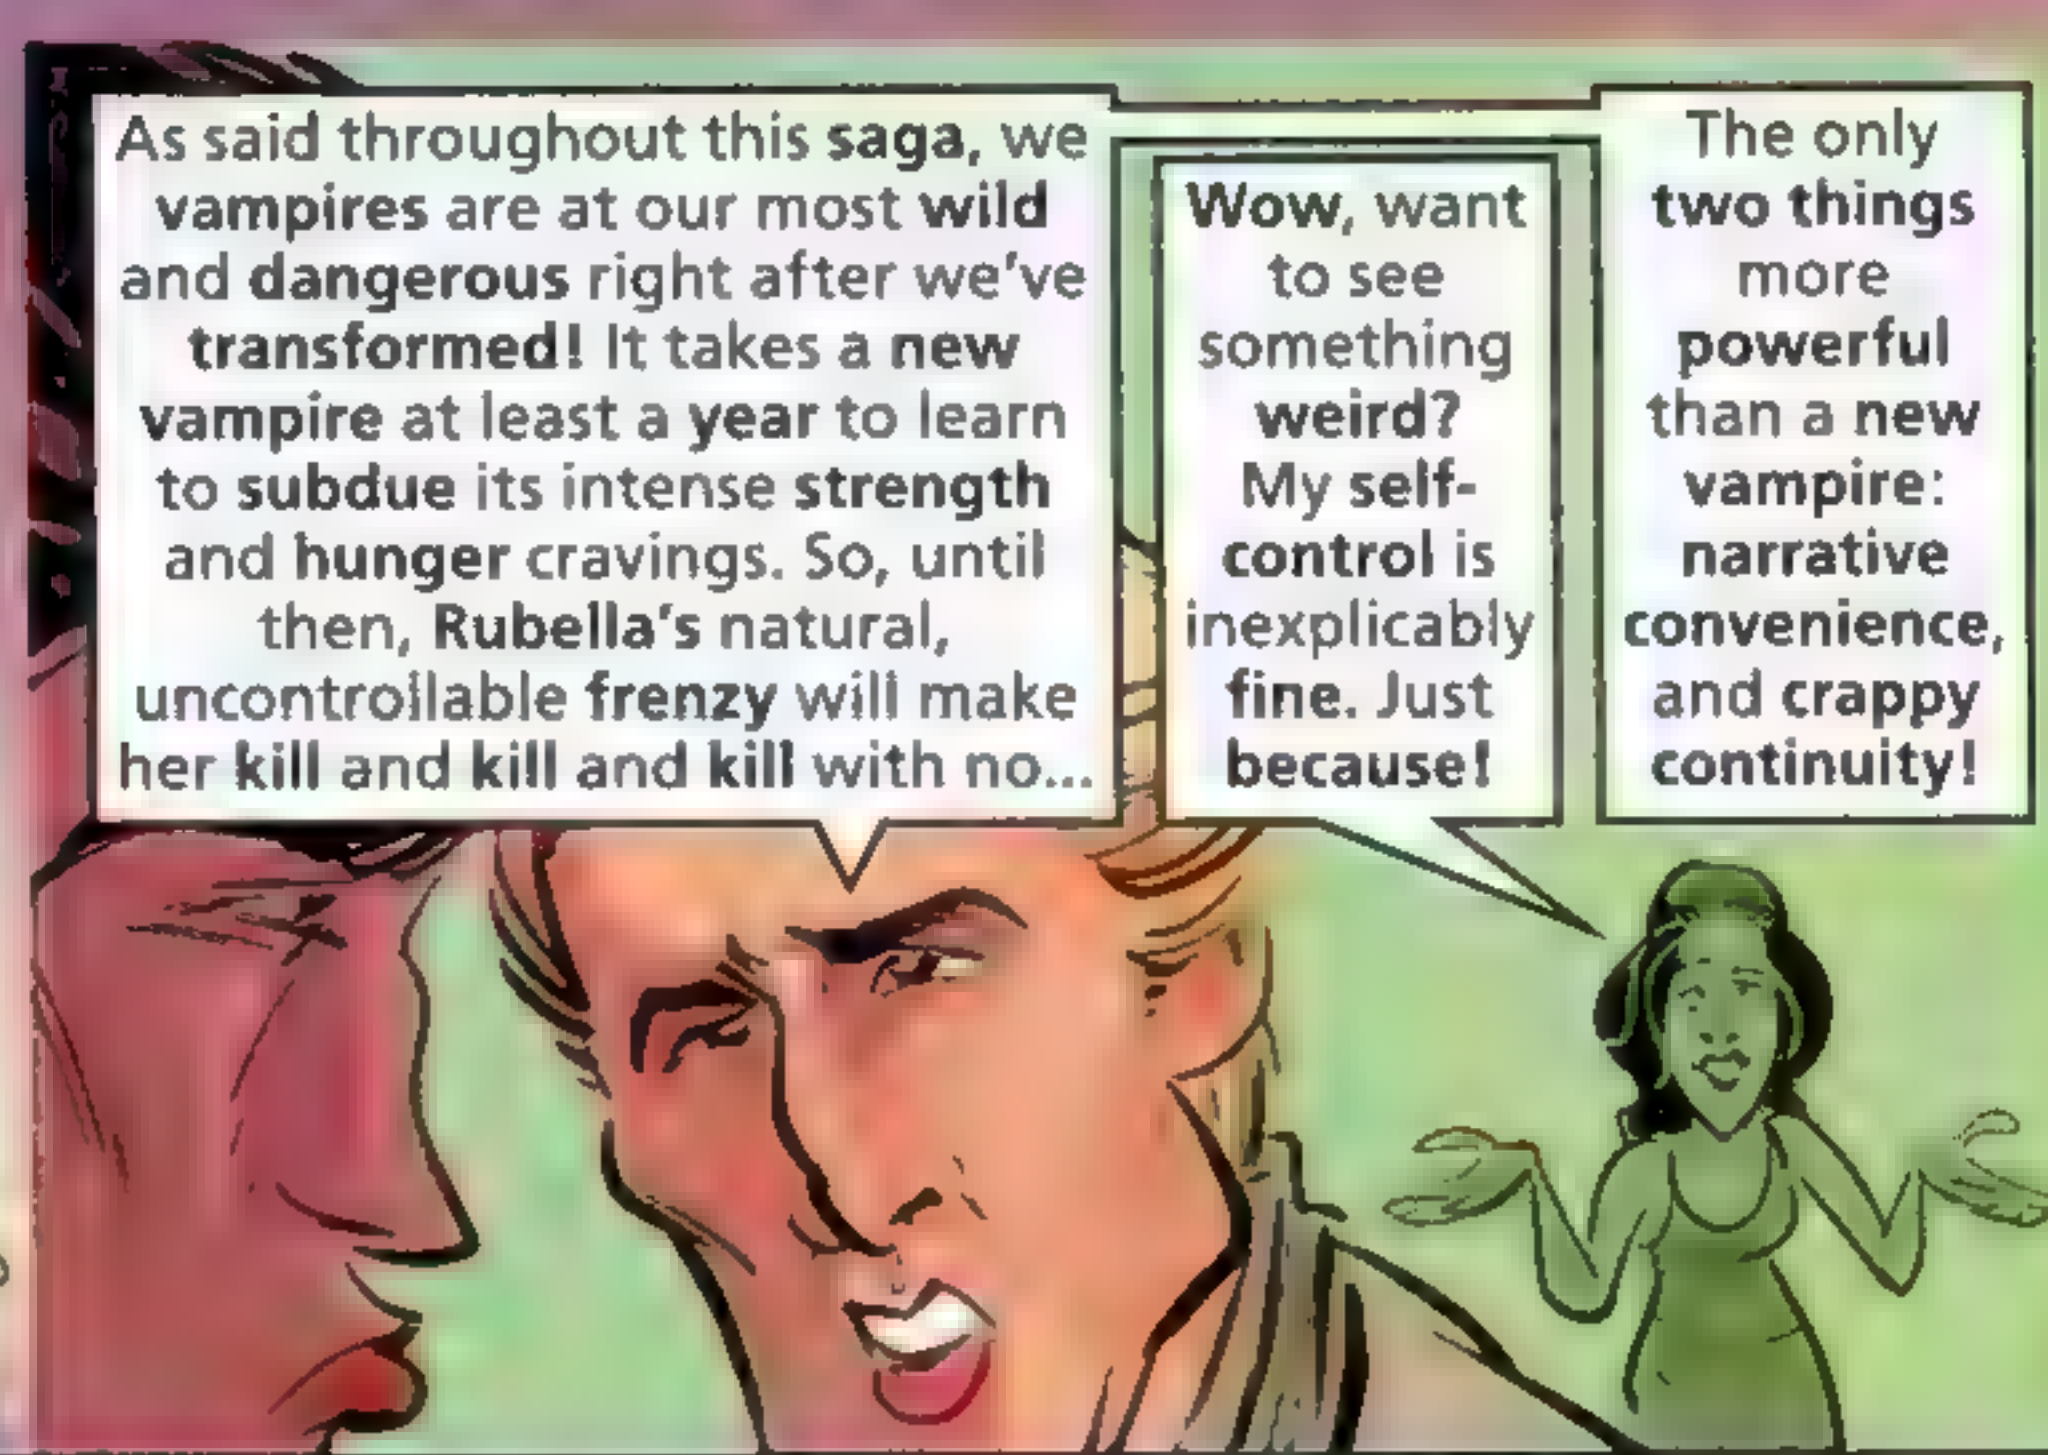

the toilet saga bleak and dumb

part 2

Oh, good! We're starting at exactly the point where the previous movie ended! Except that my broken, emaciated, scarred and ravaged body was inexplicably fixed, even though vampires are supposed to be forever frozen at the moment they transform!

I am the Count, and I LOVE to count! One! One book! Two! TWO books! Three books! FOUR books, ah ha ha! Four books... yet, somehow, FIVE movies!

As said throughout this saga, we vampires are at our most wild and dangerous right after we've transformed! It takes a new vampire at least a year to learn to subdue its intense strength and hunger cravings. So, until then, Rubella's natural, uncontrollable frenzy will make her kill and kill and kill with no...

Wow, want to see something weird? My self-control is inexplicably fine. Just because!

The only two things more powerful than a new vampire: narrative convenience, and crappy continuity!

So where'd the extra movie come from? Easy as 1-2-3! From the same scam they used for the most recent Harry Potter and Pirates of the Caribbean movies, and that they'll use for The Hobbit and The Hunger Games: Mockingjay. Split the last film into two parts, and make your suckerbait fans pay twice! And they call US bloodsuckers!

I can't believe my keen new vampire super-senses. Suddenly, my whole world smells like hair gel and wet dog!

Don't you think Repressme is too young to go on a bloodhunt, to watch us slaughter a living creature for food?

But it's Take Your Daughter to Work Day!

EXIT STAGE RIGHT

Here she is. We're just coming back from a romantic playdate for two at Gymboree!

Kids! They grow up so fast. So freakishly fast.

I can sense that the Zamboni have become aware of Repressme's human/vampire status. In my mind's eye, I see a hazy vision of them approaching us. Also, they've all changed their Facebook status to "Off to behead Rubella's hybrid daughter"! I probably shouldn't have clicked "Like"!

Half the vampires here have secret superpowers! It's like the Justice League of Transylvania!

How come we were able to reach you in two days when we traveled to Italy, but it took you three months to reach us?

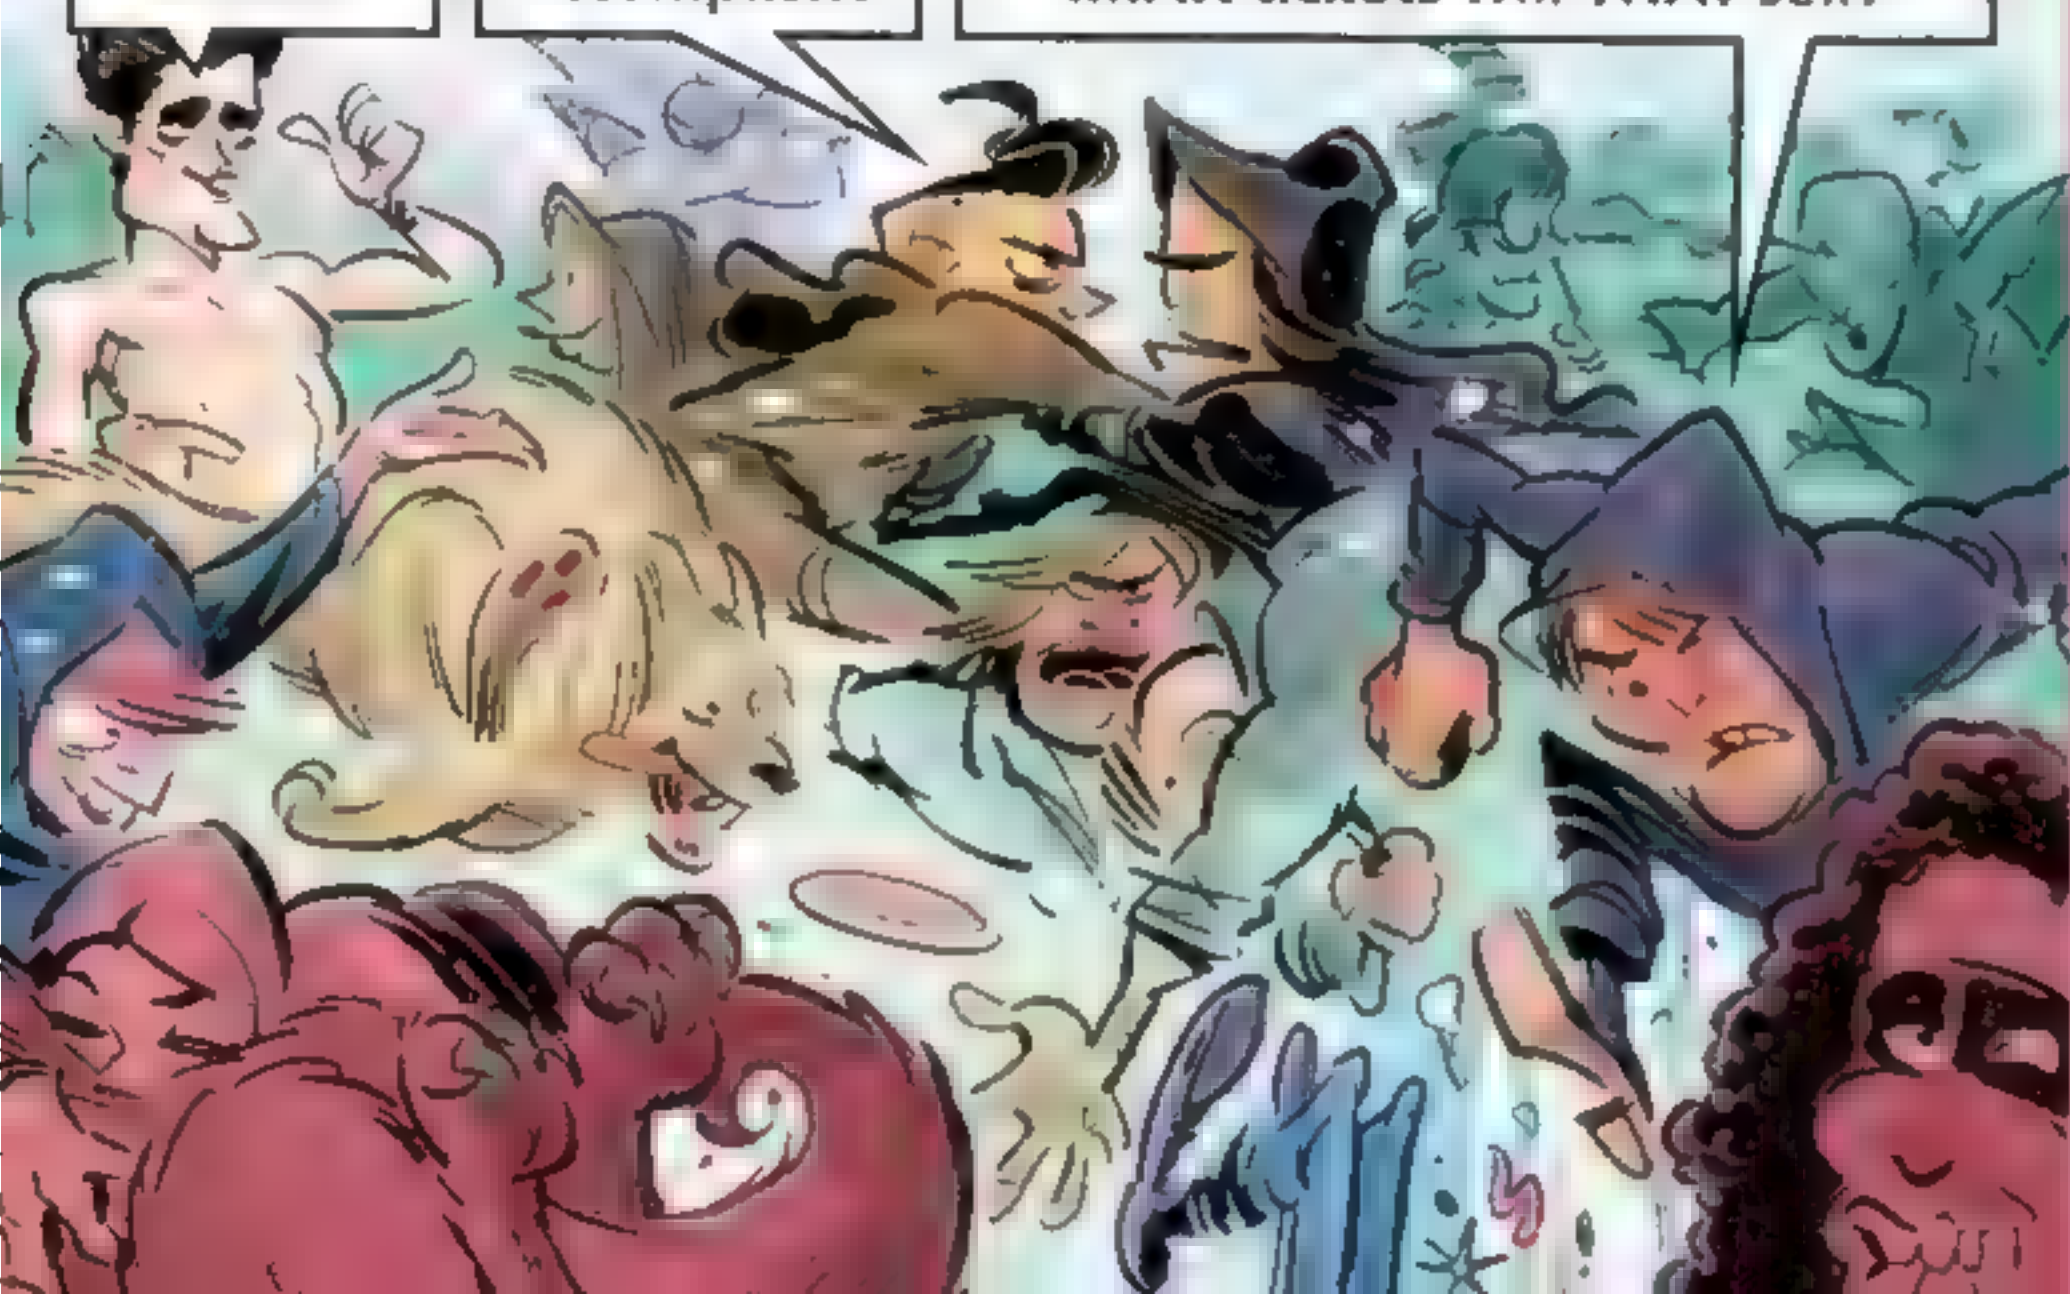

Oy! TSA body search delays, those a-holes at Priceline... don't ask! Plus, I had to make a stop at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland to borrow Michael Jackson's clothes!

Luckily, I built up my abs from lugging around these eye-brows!

Why must we snarl, lunge, and try to kill each other? What does this violence accomplish?

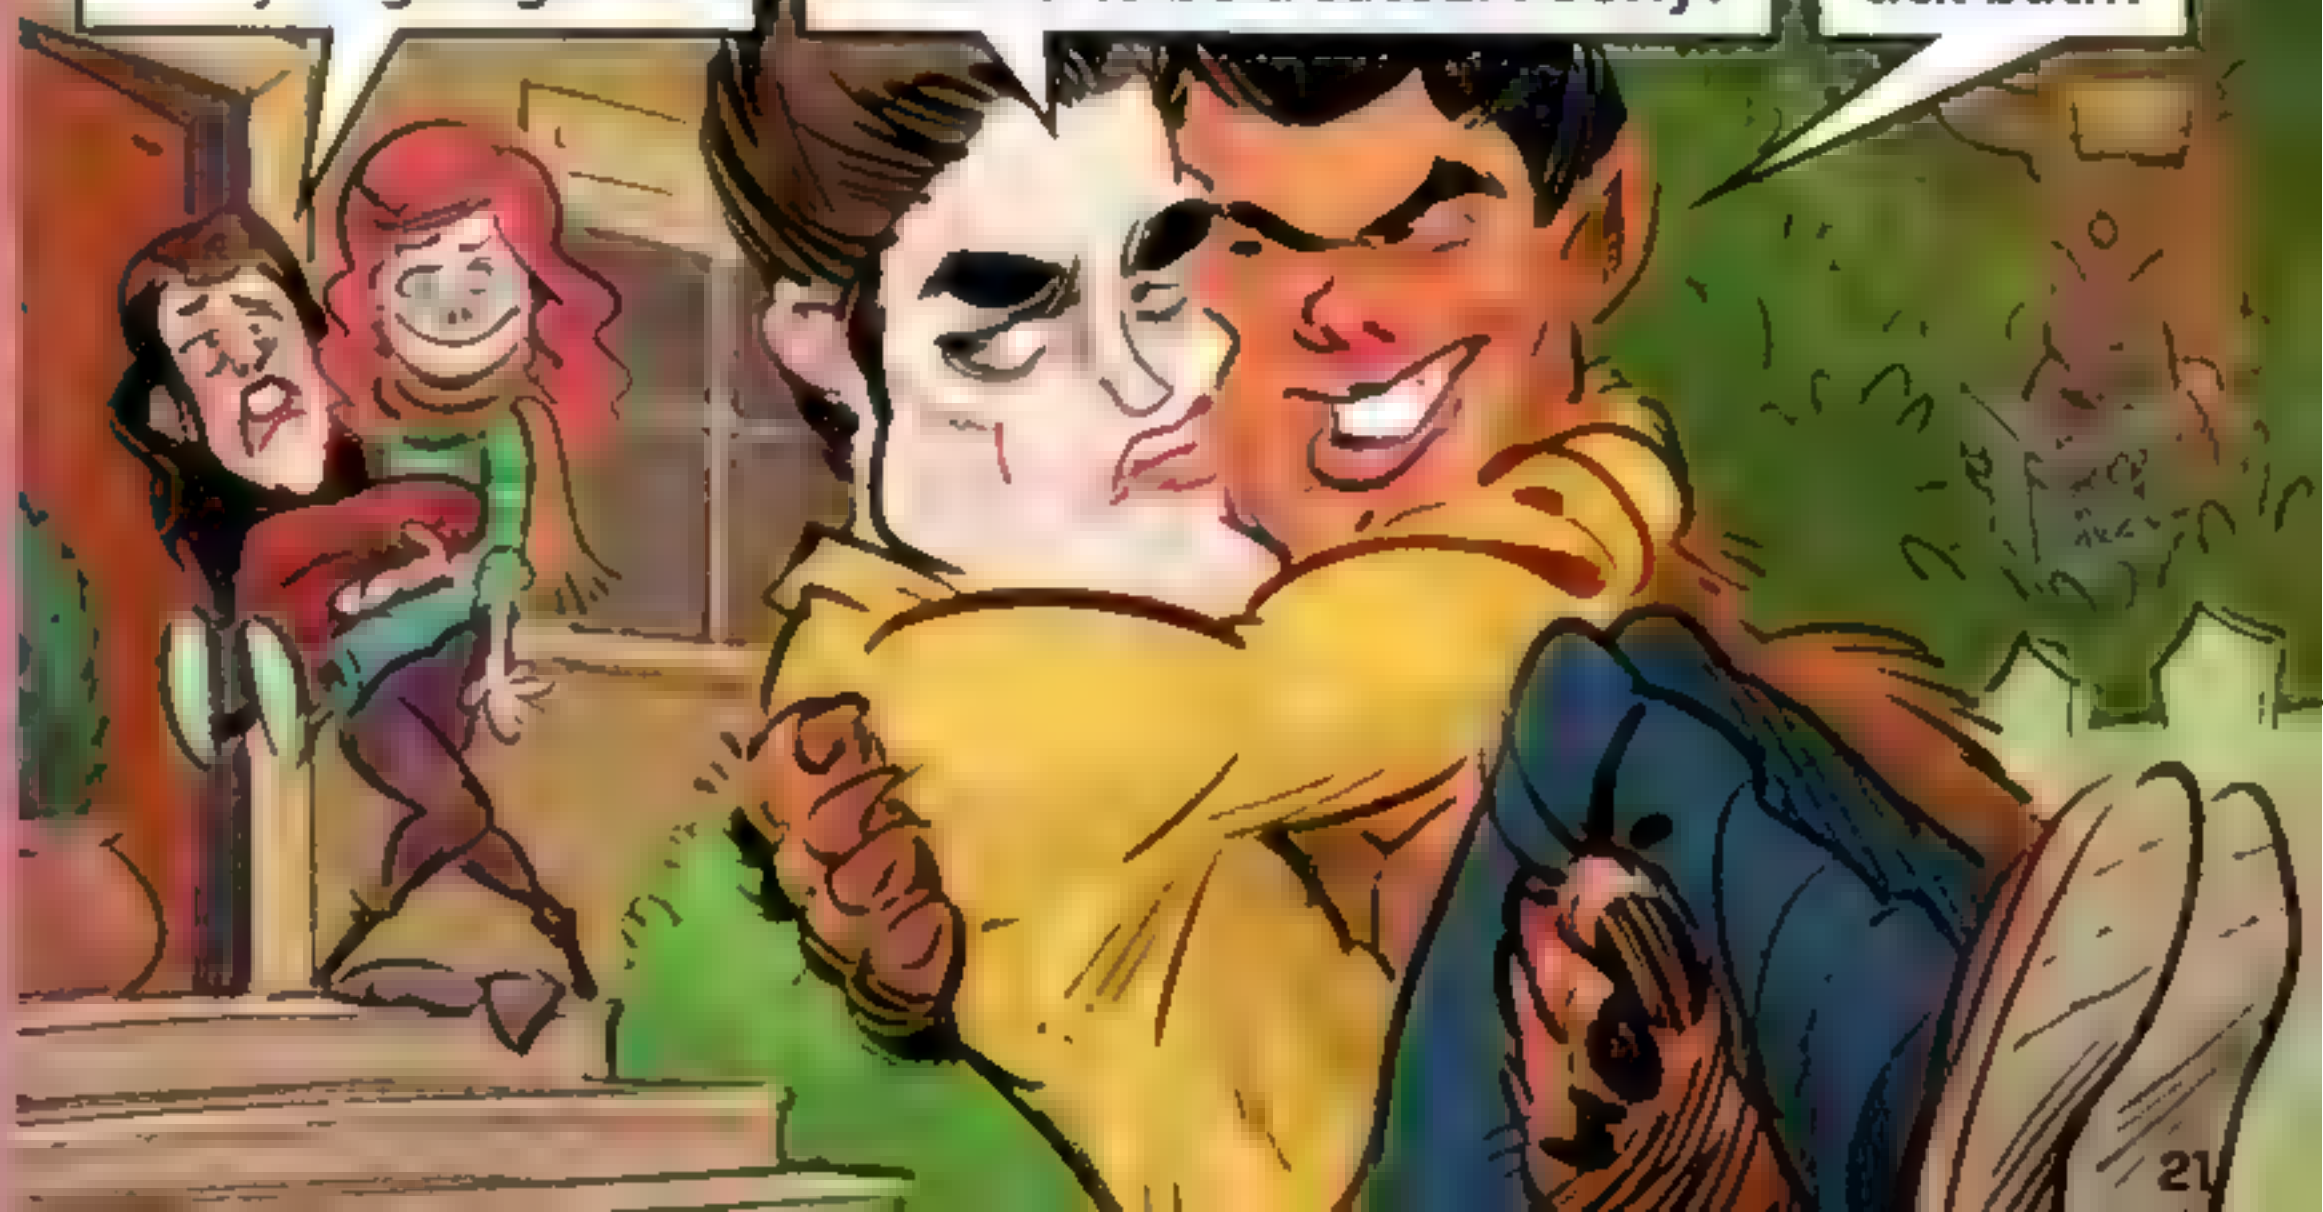

Did you READ the totally inert ending of Breaking Dawn? They build up to the ultimate showdown, then everyone just stands around for a while, talking, and then they go home? How many IMAX tickets will THAT sell?

It's all over! A tranquil home life, at last! I'm so happy you changed me, and now you can change our 85-pound baby. Hey! Where are you going?

I'm sorry, Rubella, but our entire relationship was based on frustration, mind games and abuse! This "happily ever after" thing will never work! So I'm leaving you for someone who will treat me the way I need to be treated. Poorly!

Close your pointy mouth, Blood Boy, and get ready to give me a tick bath!

Are you an Activist or a Slacktivist?

Are you the type of person who's committed to making a difference? Do you generously give to social causes? Do you gladly take part in walk-a-thons and other fundraising events? If so, you are a proud activist! Or is the closest you come to expressing your deeply-held beliefs skipping a Top Chef rerun on your DVR in order to skim over the day's Occupy footage to see if anyone got pepper-sprayed, and then reviewing your collection of "I'd rather go naked than wear fur" PETA ads? You, then, are a bona fide apathetic slacktivist! If you still don't understand, the following examples will help you answer the question...

An activist...

protests consumerist over-consumption by taking part in Buy Nothing Day.

A slacktivist...

protests consumerist over-consumption by taking part in Buy Nothing Day, but not before going on a major shopping spree the day before.

An activist...

collects $100 donations.

A slacktivist...

writes a 100-word blog entry wondering why people aren't donating enough money.

An activist...

takes action against the coordinated right-wing campaigns that are scrubbing voter registration rolls, pushing one-sided I.D. restrictions and otherwise threatening free democracy.

A slacktivist...

is also outraged by these tactics because, who knows, someday they might feel like voting themselves.

An activist...

will join the fight against leukemia by wearing an eye-catching green rubber bracelet, or protest human rights abuses with an orange bracelet or promote HIV/AIDS research with a red bracelet.

A slacktivist...

chooses whichever bracelet goes best with her shoes.

A slacktivist...

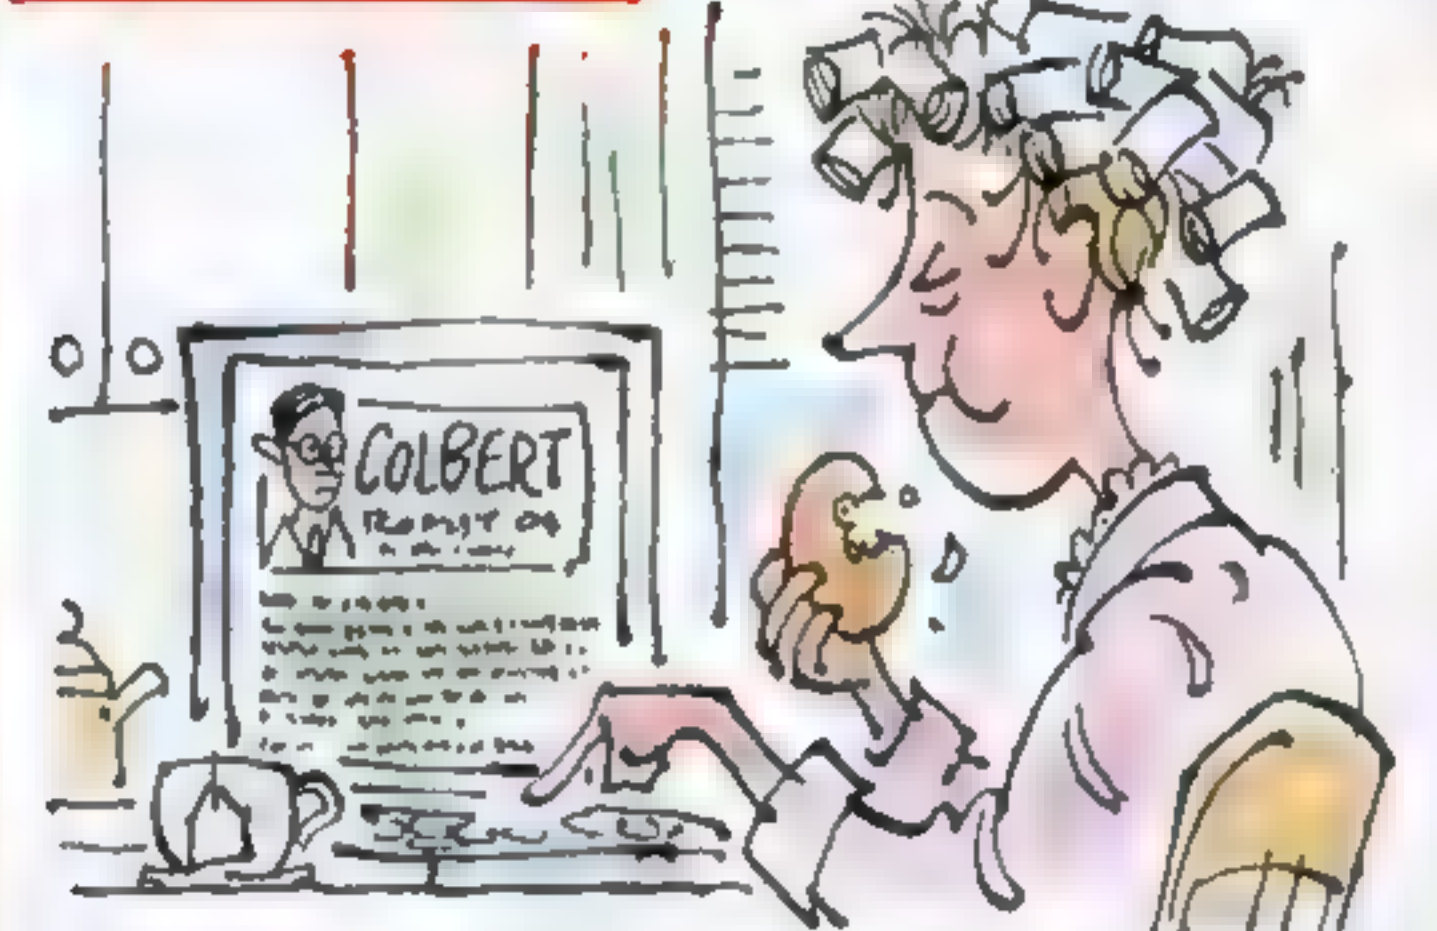

vegges out as soon as any social crisis requires him to pay attention to more than 140 characters.

An activist...

pounds the pavement and engages the public, trying to create new converts and change old minds.

A slacktivist...

sends out Colbert Report video links every morning to all her friends, most of whom already watch the show.

An activist...

realizes that there's always more than one issue that requires immediate attention, and tries to devote a portion of her energy to each.

A slacktivist...

combines four or five deeply-felt causes at once, to save time.

An activist...

believes that we are all, each of us, a small part of the interconnected living organism called Earth, and must sacrifice accordingly.

A slacktivist...

selflessly vows never to eat endangered owl, manatee or coral.

An activist...

understands that when it comes to saving the environment, numbers generate power.

A slacktivist...

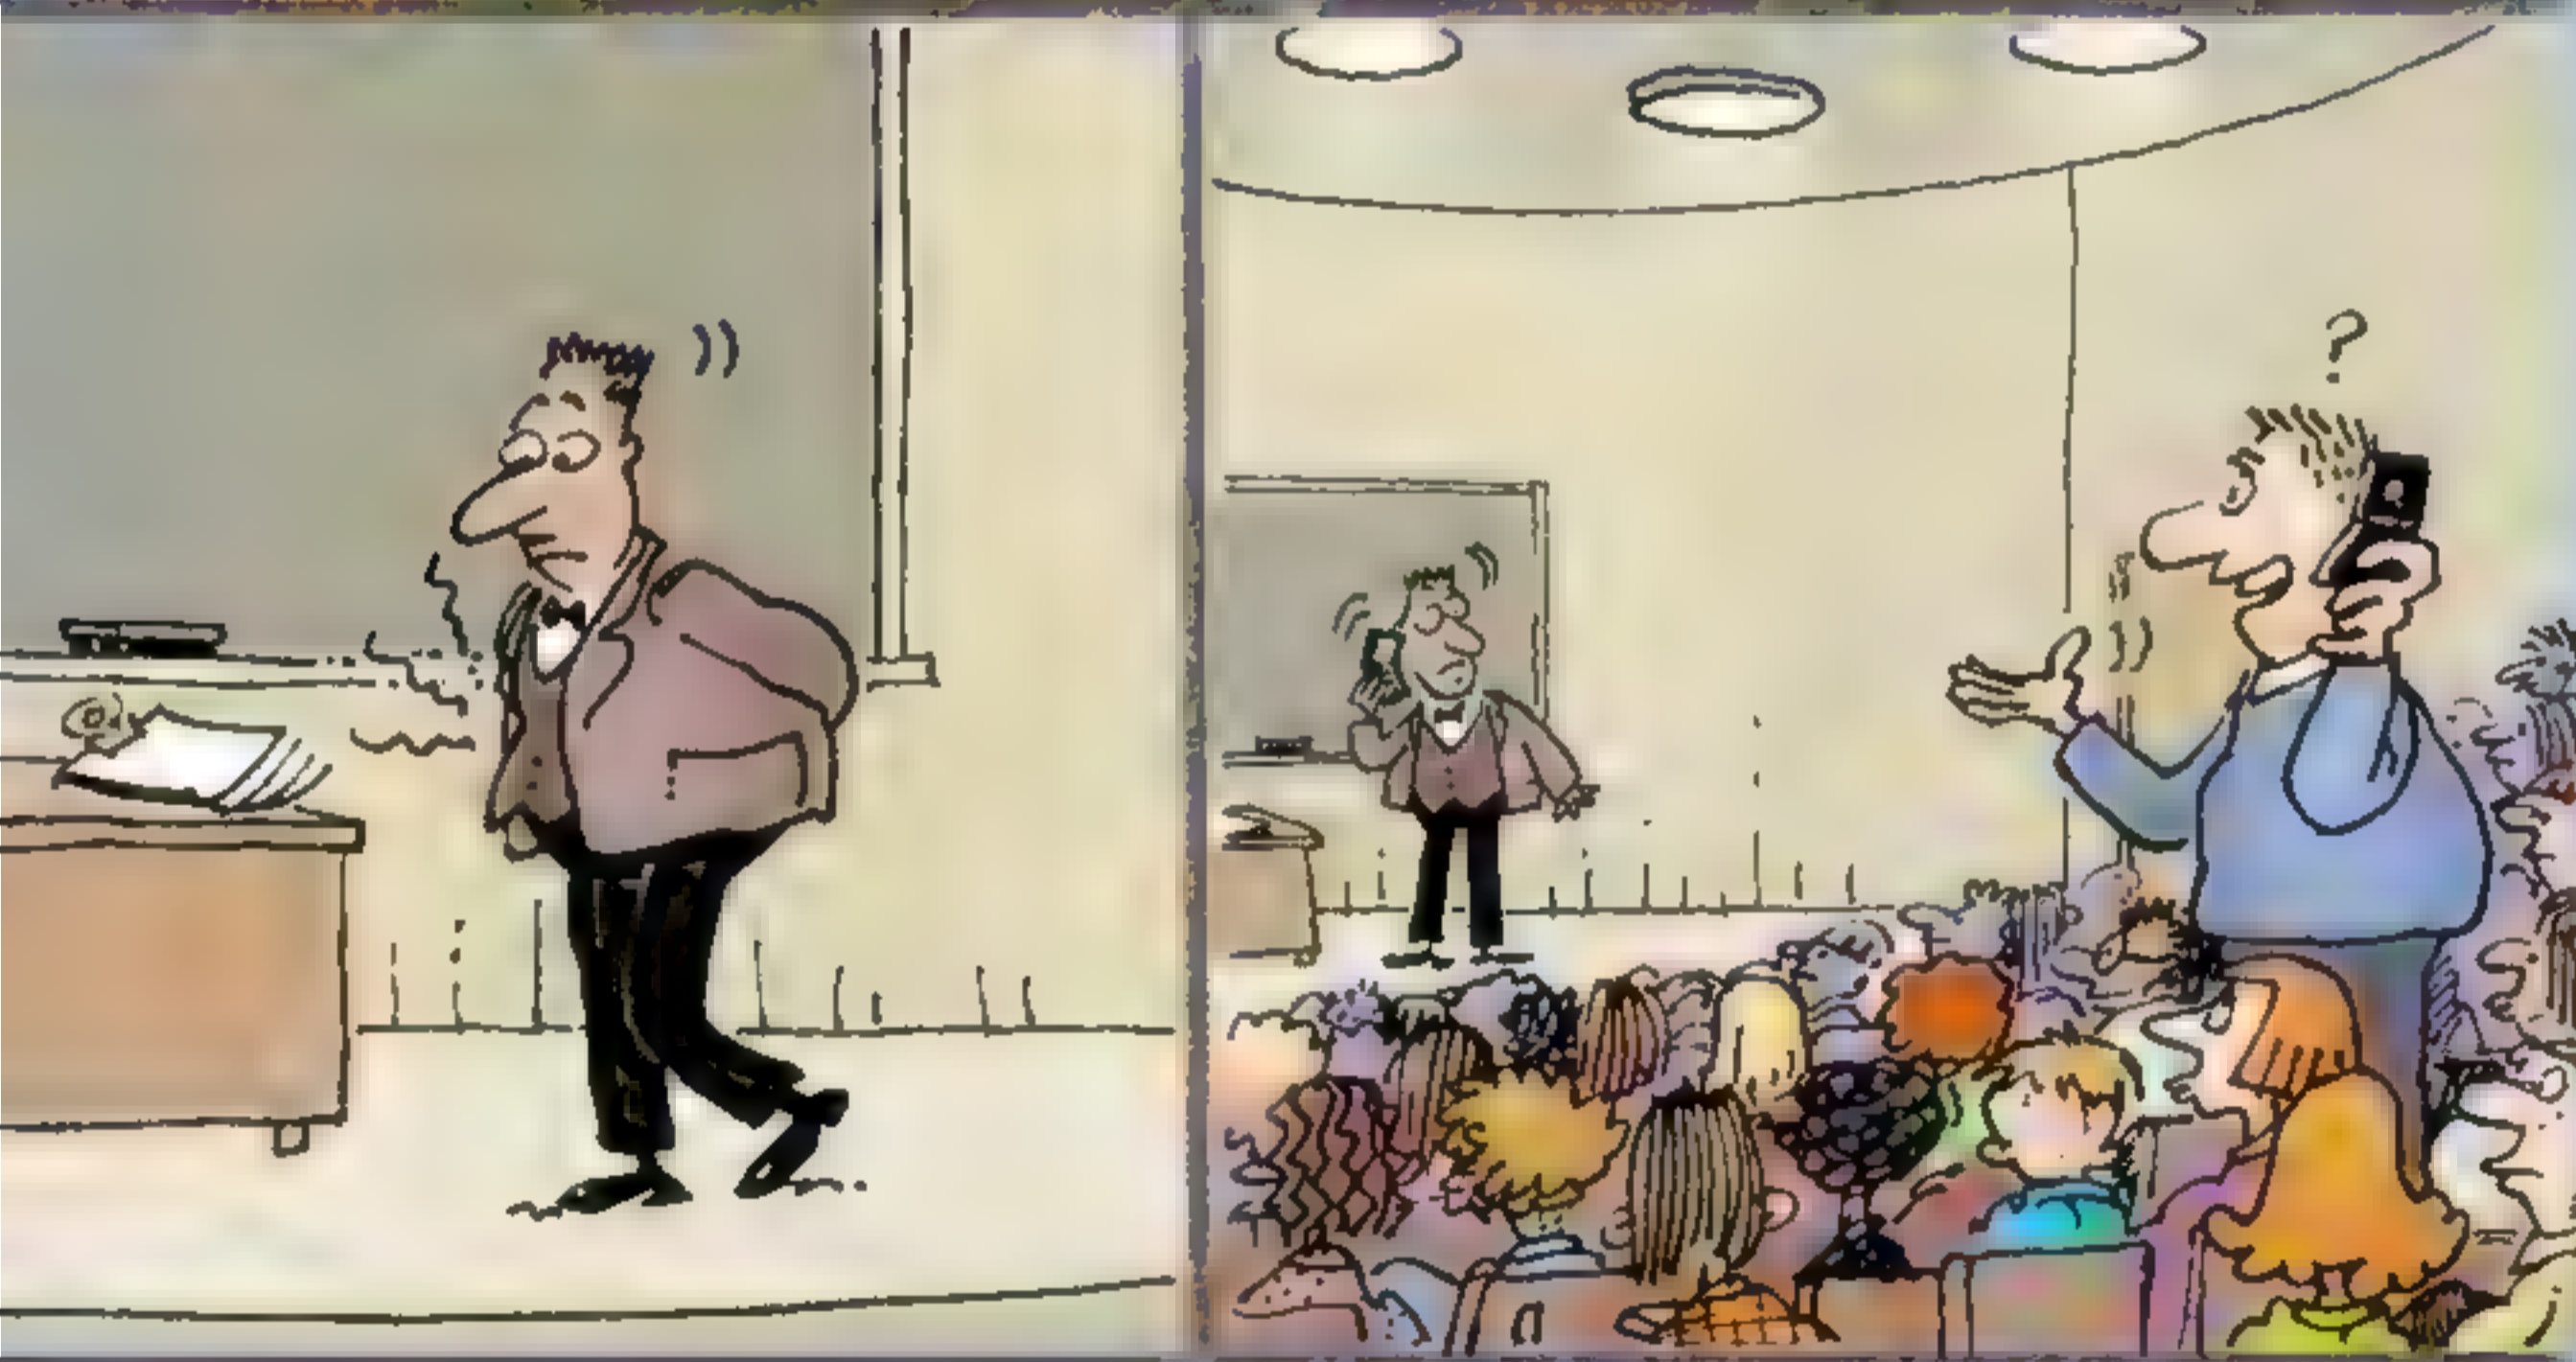

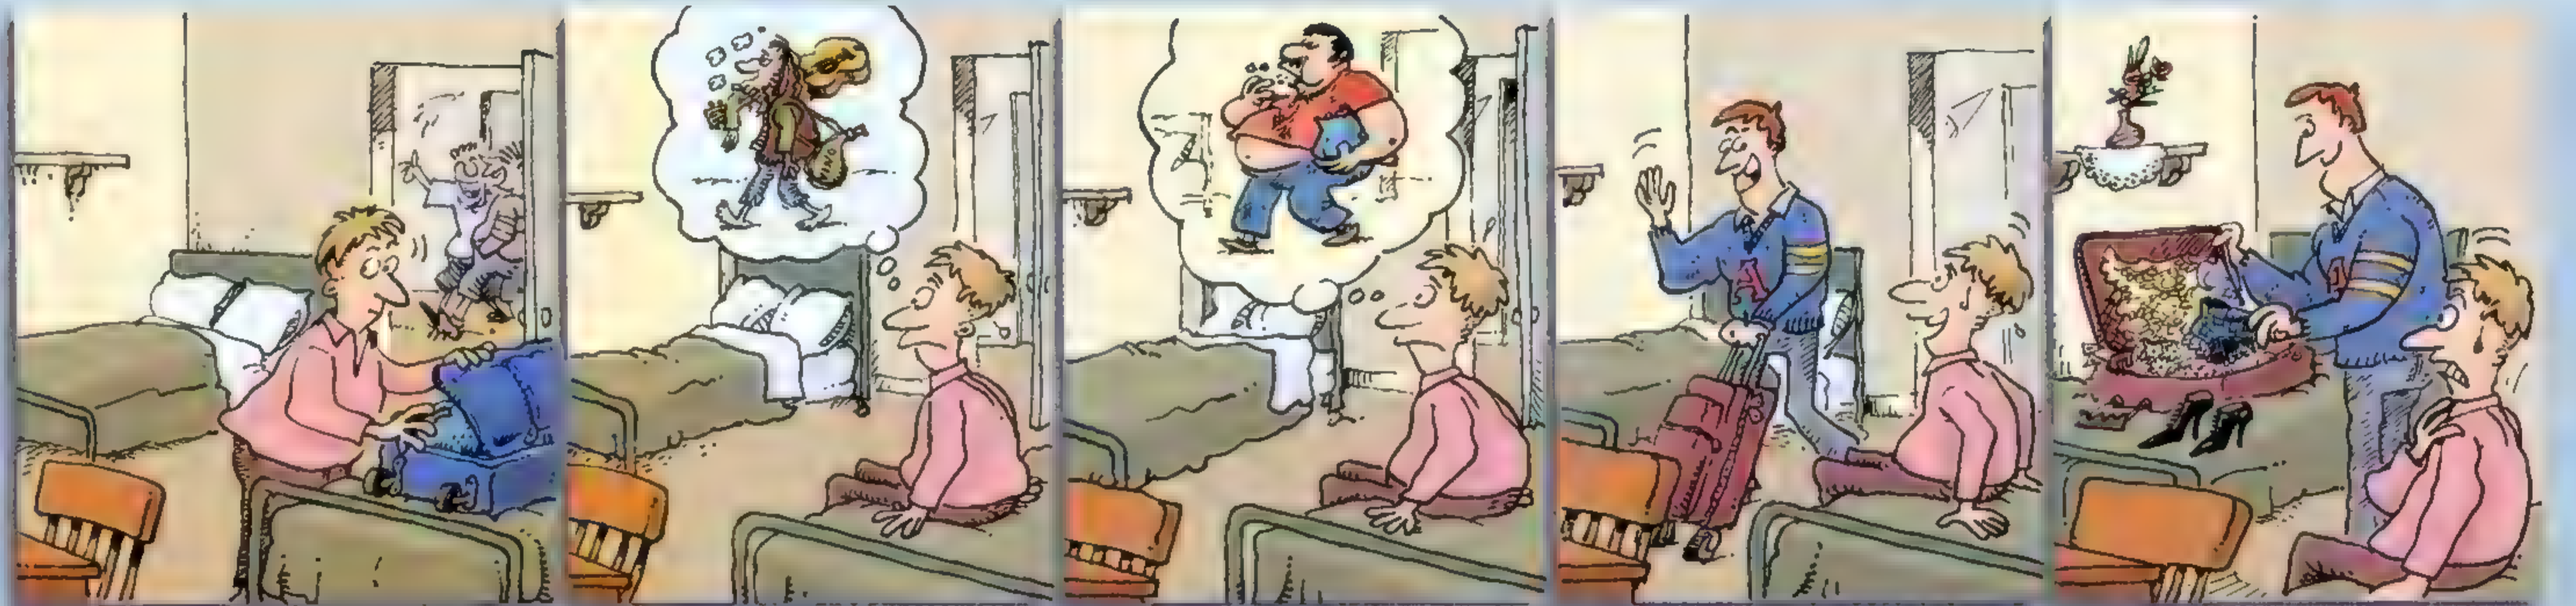

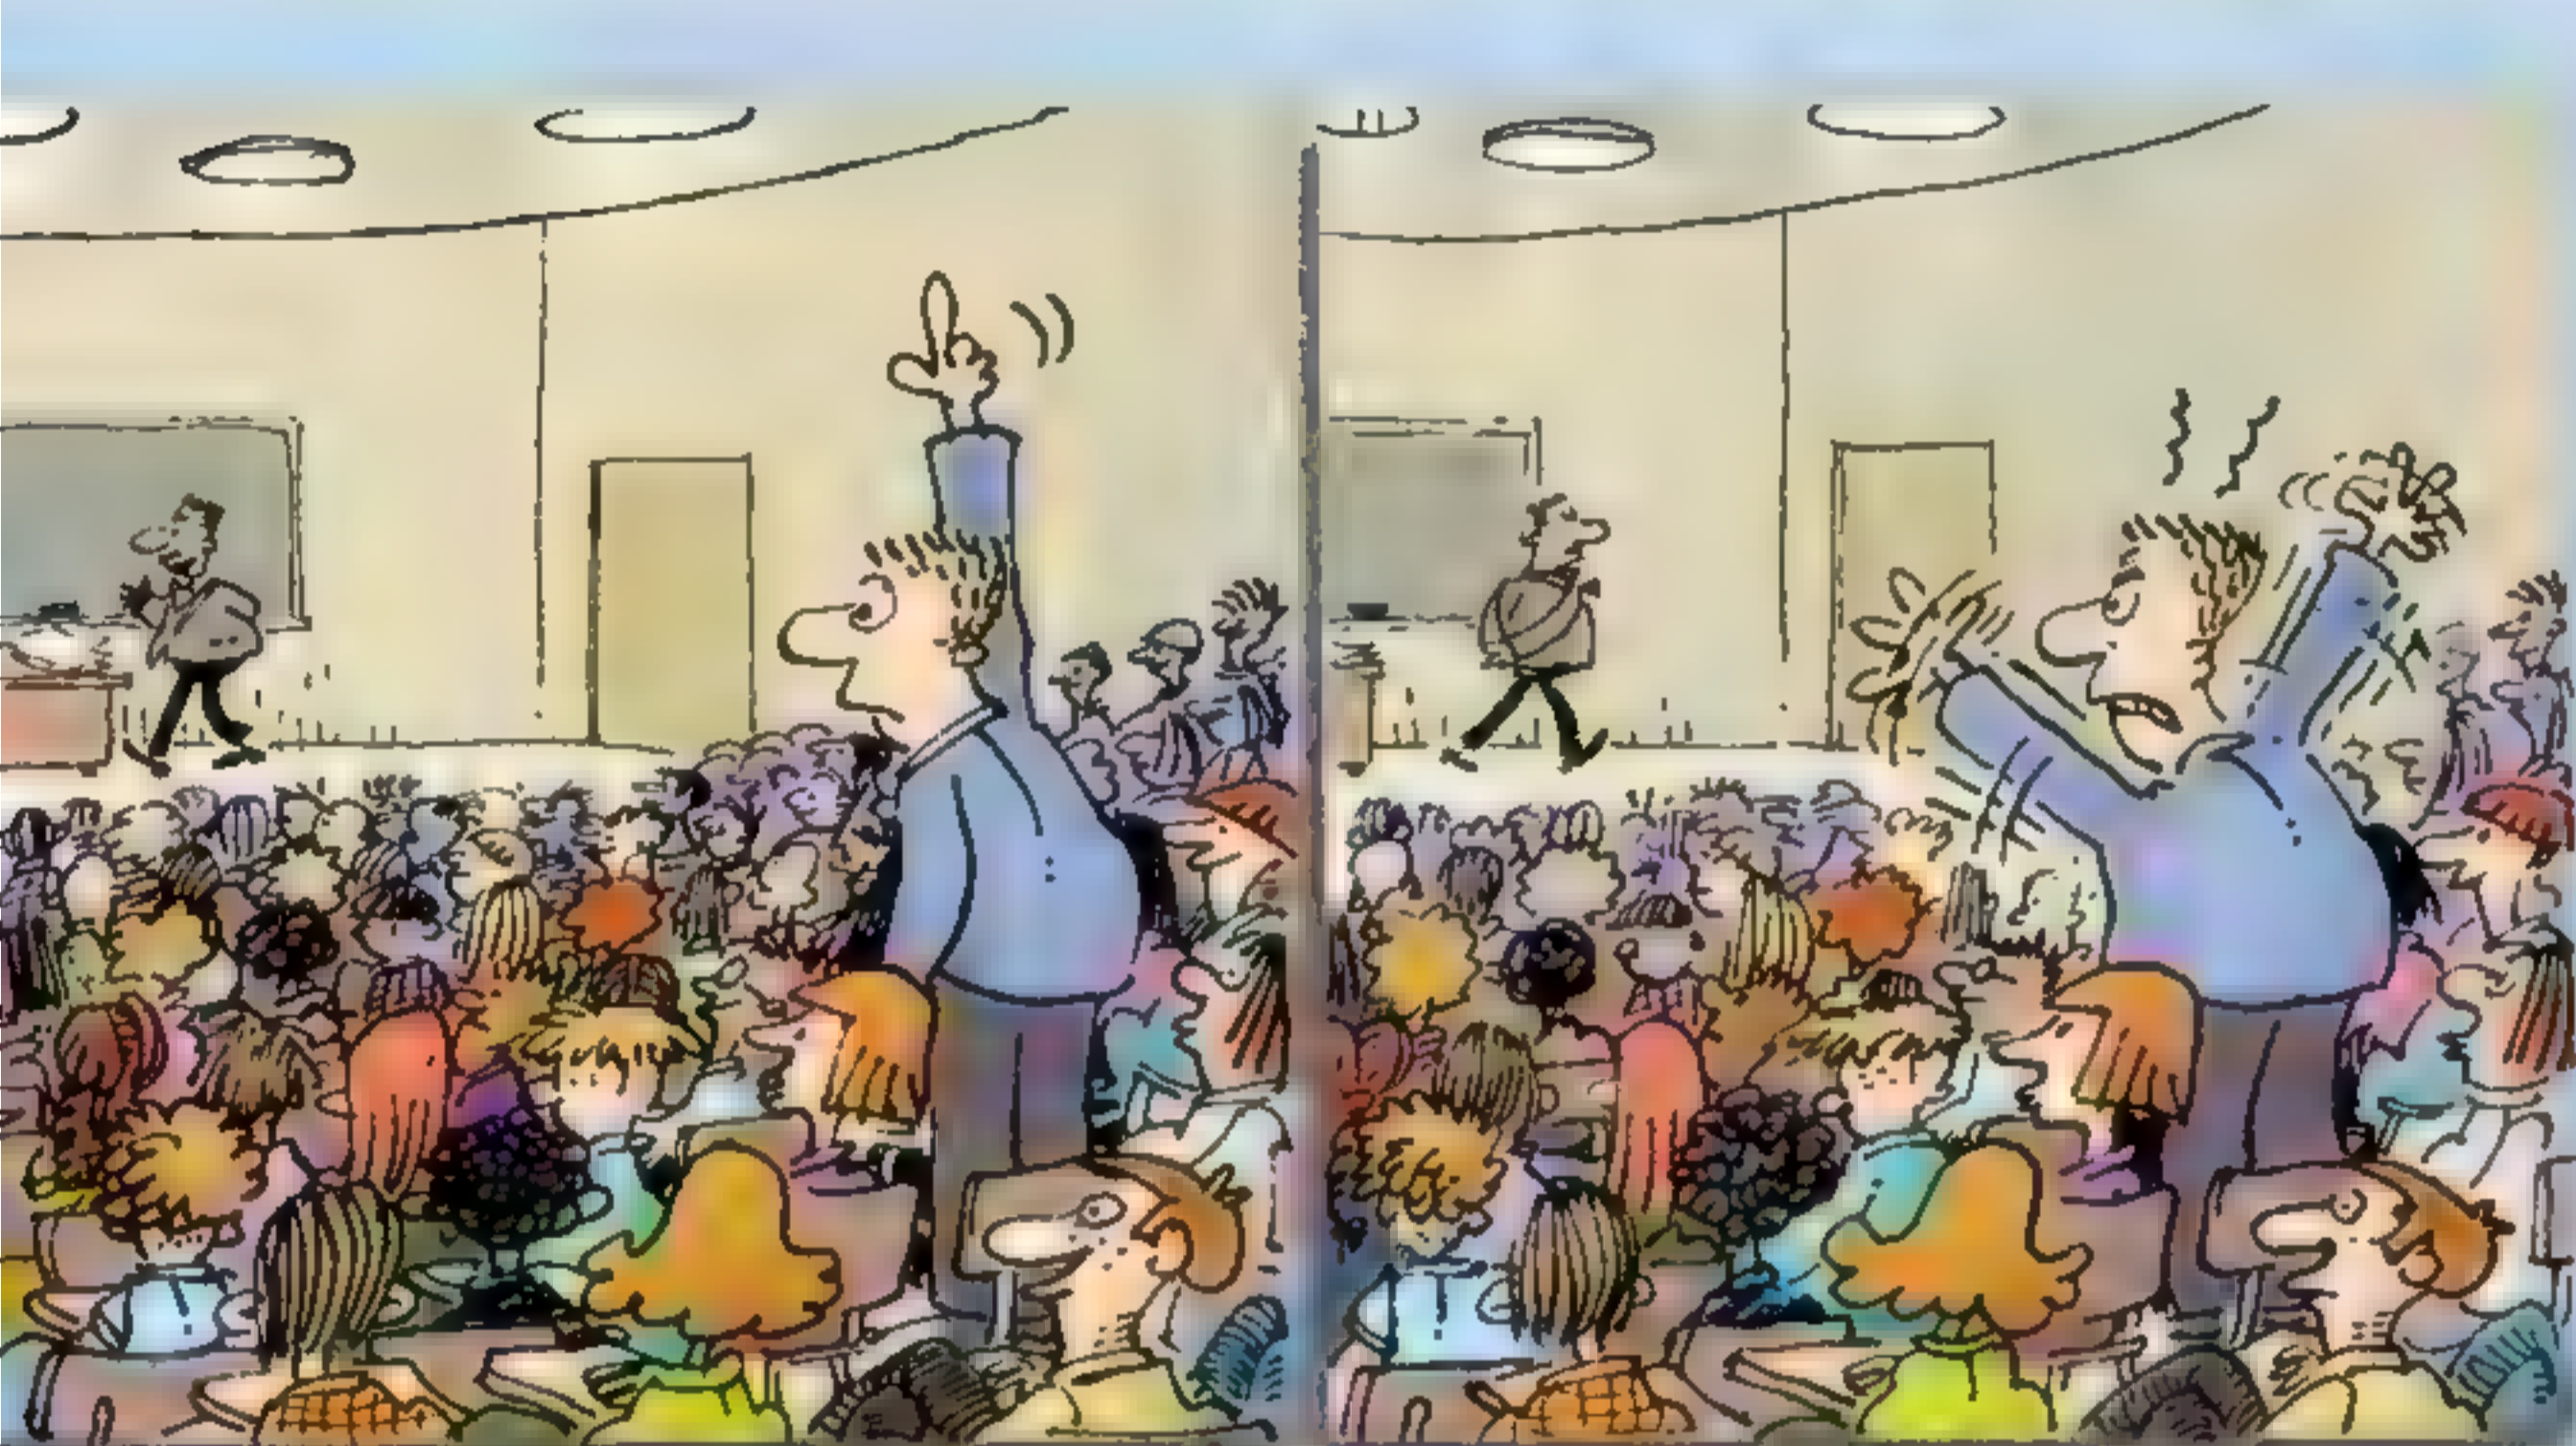

likes the idea of saving the environment, but emailing businesses uses up electricity...and protest signs kill trees...and traveling to Washington burns fuel...so he pretty much just stays home and plays hacky-sack.

For the past three and a half years, Barack Obama's authenticity as an American citizen has been called into question. Theories about Obama being a Kenyan citizen who's controlled by socialism-spreading terrorists continue to be espoused by Donald Trump and others. Rather than dismiss these people as paranoid, right-wing whack jobs, we decided to gather all the evidence available and present it to you so you can make an informed decision...before blowing off voting this election day.

IS BARACK OBAMA A REAL AMERICAN?

THE CASE FOR AND AGAINST

Worked his way up from nothing, without complaining that he was owed something by society. NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Fudged his experience on his old job to get his current job. A REAL AMERICAN.

Speaks in clear, understandable, polished English. NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Managed to spend years sitting in his own church without once paying attention to the sermons. A REAL AMERICAN.

During deep freezes and blizzards, never scoffs, "Hey, where's that 'global warming' now?" NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Took forever to find his birth certificate. A REAL AMERICAN.

Didn't plaster the presidential limo with bumper stickers about how his kids are honor students. NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Talks endlessly about how to fix the economy, without having any clue about the subject. A REAL AMERICAN.

Stays fit with regular exercise and vegetables from the garden in his yard. NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Lives in a house that he could never afford without government assistance. A REAL AMERICAN.

As far as we know, never used his position as President to get babes. NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Conducts himself with class while visiting other countries. NOT A REAL AMERICAN.

Can't pay the bills without endless credit. DEFINITELY A REAL AMERICAN.

October 12, 2012

Today, these signs went up all over the school:

Our high school team is the Lakeville Sharks. I'm not sure why, because it's not like there are sharks in any of our lakes. It makes almost as little sense as our middle school team, the Lakeville Pirates. I feel like whoever came up with our team names doesn't get how lakes work.

Anyway, at our football games, someone gets to dress up in a shark costume and dance around on the sidelines; the guy who did it last year graduated, so the job is open. I've decided to try out, because it seems like a great way to impress people. For one thing, everyone pretty much has to cheer for you, so that'll automatically make them like you more. And for another, you get to spend the whole game hanging out with the cheerleaders on the sidelines. What could be wrong with that?

October 13, 2012

I've been doing re-search into mascots to get ready for my audition. I think the mascot that weards me out the most is Mr. Met.

To me, it seems like if you have a baseball for a head, the last place you're going to want to hang out is a ballpark full of men holding bats.

October 14, 2012

I'm surprised that when you go to the Wikipedia page for "Wikipedia", it doesn't just say, "This."

October 15, 2012

I spent a lot of time in my room this afternoon getting ready for Wednesday's audition. I was jumping around and growling, and my little sister Sophie asked what I was doing, and I told her, "I'm getting ready to try out to be a shark." And she said, "Sharks don't growl." And I said, "Well, what noise do they make?" And she said, "They don't. They live underwater."

I hate when Sophie is right about stuff. But I'm gonna growl anyway.

October 16, 2012

When I was a kid, I thought the reason you couldn't understand what Woodstock was saying in the "Peanuts" cartoons was that he was just swearing constantly. Which actually made the comic a lot more interesting.

October 17, 2012

Well, I went in for the mascot audition today, and it turns out, the competition wasn't that stiff. Only five guys showed up, and two of them were too tall for the costume, one of them was too short for it, and one of them couldn't do any games that fell on Saturdays because he has violin lessons then. And so they just gave me the job. I said, "Don't you want to see my shark moves?" And the head cheerleader, Alexandra McNeill, said, "Oh, we'll teach you all the routines you need to know."

Routines?

October 18, 2012

Ugggggggh. I just spent three hours after school with Alexandra and her cheerleading co-captains as they tried to teach me all the steps for the shark dance routines. I don't know how I never noticed this, but the shark doesn't just get to jump around and wave — there are, like, really elaborate dance moves involved in being the mascot. And while you'd think it'd be kind of fun to hang out with three cheerleaders, it's not actually that enjoyable when all they're doing is shouting at you because you aren't dancing right. I think they think I'm stupid. At one point, I heard Alexandra whisper to the others, "I can't believe he's this A-W-F-U-L." And I said, "I can understand when you spell words out."

October 19, 2012

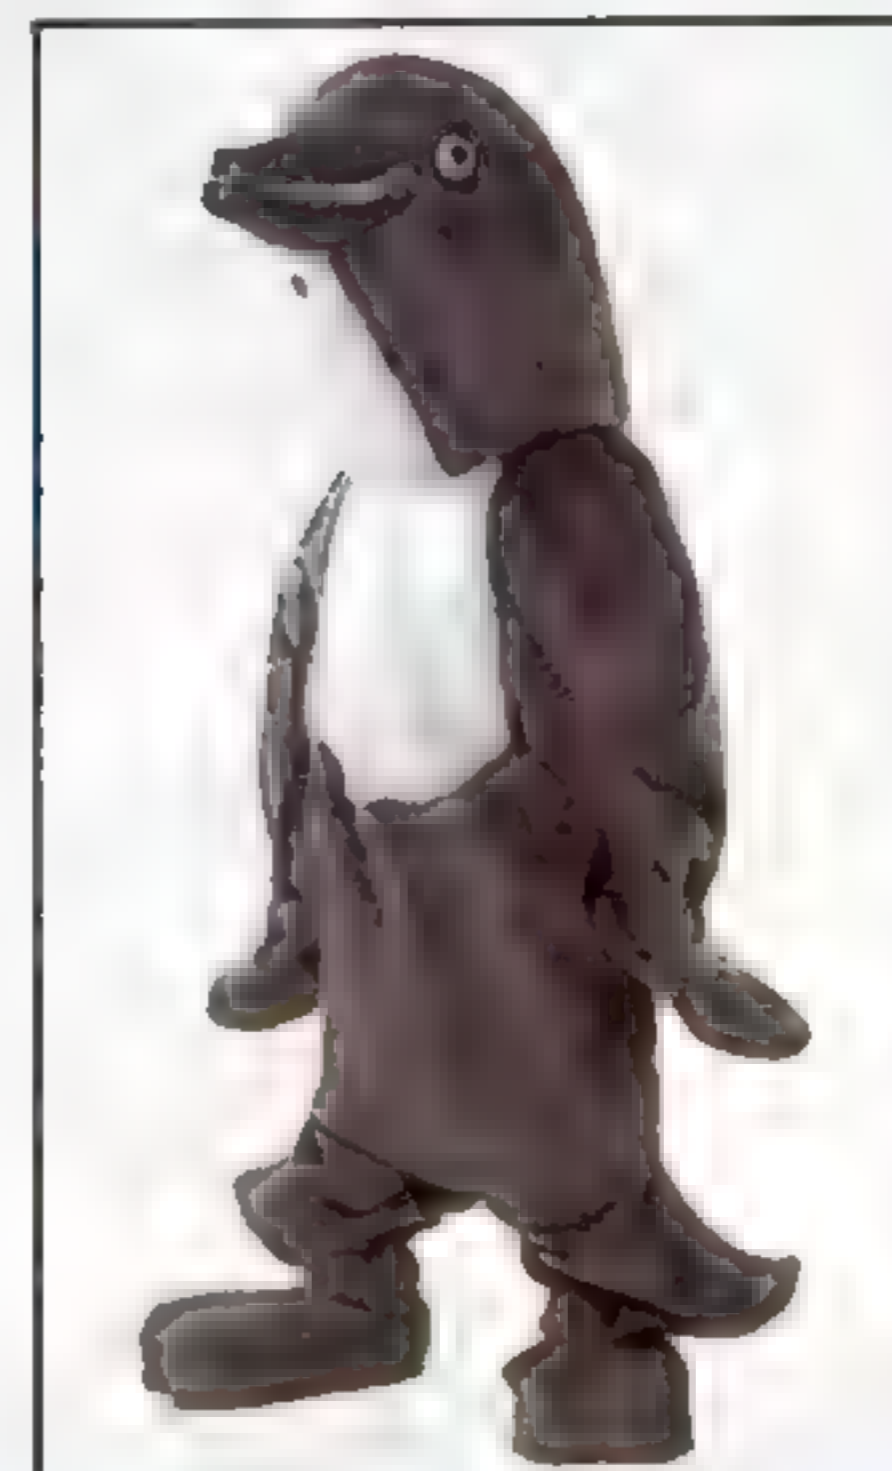

So, today was the big football game, and I realized pretty quickly that the shark costume has four big downsides:

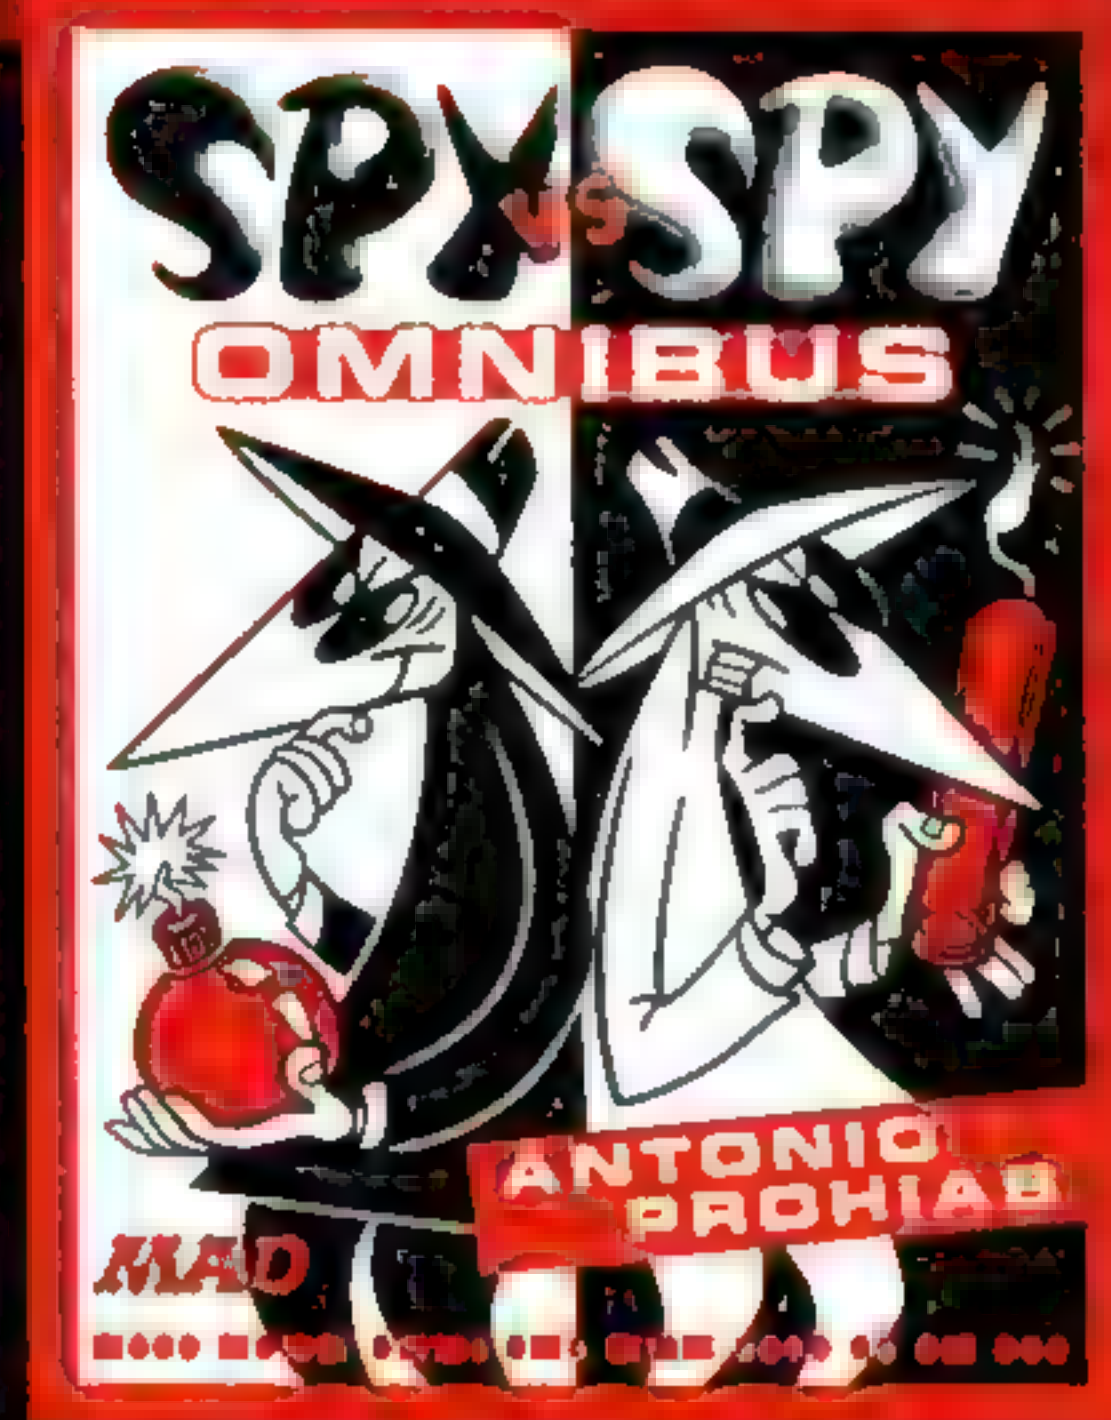

1. It's heavy and hard to see out of, which made it hard to do the dance moves. The cheerleaders kept getting angry with me for being "two steps behind", even though I pointed out that maybe the problem was that they were two steps ahead.
2. The costume gets super-hot on the inside, which makes you sweat a lot, which wouldn't be so bad, except that...
3. ...the costume isn't washed all that often, so it smells like other people's sweat. It was like spending a day inside a giant gym sock. I heard one person say after I walked past, "An actual dead shark would smell better."
4. It's a shark costume, so little kids are terrified of it. They kept bursting into tears when I came near, and even when I tried to open the jaws so they could see that I was a person inside the suit, that just made them cry more. I think they may've thought that I was someone the shark had eaten who was stuck in his throat.

By the end of the game, I was pretty miserable. But then, as we went into the locker room, I ran into the East Lakeville Dolphin. (Like I said, they really don't understand how lakes work in my town.) And a girl's voice from inside it said, "Hi! I hope those cheerleaders weren't too mean to you." And we talked for a little bit, and she seemed really nice, and she offered to meet up and give me some mascot pointers. So I'm going on a date with the East Lakeville Dolphin tomorrow! We're meeting up at the mall food court at 2!

Oh, crap. I just realized, I have no idea what she looks like. Unless she shows up dressed like this:

I may be just a Stock Room Boy now—but one of these days, I'm gonna work my way up and grab that Shipping Clerk's job!

I may be just a Shipping Clerk now—but one of these days I'll make that Chief Clerk move over and I'll grab his job!

I may be just a Chief Clerk now—but one of these days I'm gonna show up that Office Manager and grab his job!

I may be just an Office Manager now—but one of these days I'm gonna convince them I deserve the Vice President's job!

I may be just the Vice President now—but one of these days, he'll make a mistake, and I'll be President of this firm!

All this responsibility and aggravation and headaches and heartaches! Who needs it! I wish I were a Stock Room Boy again!

Gee, Boss, you look better than ever since you went on that diet!

Will you listen to that? Did you ever hear anything more disgusting? What an apple polisher!

My kid was saying just last night, "Gee, Uncle Boss is nice! When I see him again, I'm gonna give him a big kiss!"

I swear! Any second, I think I'll throw up!

I love your new suit! You sure do have good taste in clothes!

How much longer is that "Brass-Kisser" going to stay in there? I've been waiting to talk to the Boss all morning—

I've had a lot of Bosses in my time, but you're the fairest and the most understanding!

—and that dirty fink has said practically everything I planned to say!

What a day I had at the office—buying, selling, maneuvering, wheeling and dealing! Boy, my nerves are all tied up in knots!

I've got to unwind! I need a change of pace! Tonight, let's have an evening of fun and games so I can get my mind off business completely!

Is everything set up?

Yes, dear!

MONOPOLY

Good bye, Dear!

Don't kiss me! I've got a terrible cold! You don't want your whole office to catch it, do you?

Hmmph! I didn't notice she had a cold! Who's she kidding? She just didn't want to kiss me, that's all! She rejected me, that's what she did! And I'm hurt! And when I get hurt, I get mad! Real mad!!

What's going on here!? Just what in heck do you think I pay you for . . . to drink coffee? Get back to work . . . all of you!

You call this a letter? With two erasures? Why don't you learn to type? That's not typing you're doing, that's hunt-and-pecking!

Listen, Sturdley, I'll have no more of your stupid mistakes! Remember, you can be replaced easily—by an I.B.M. machine!

Hello, dear! I've been thinking! Wasn't that considerate of me not to kiss you this morning so your office wouldn't catch?

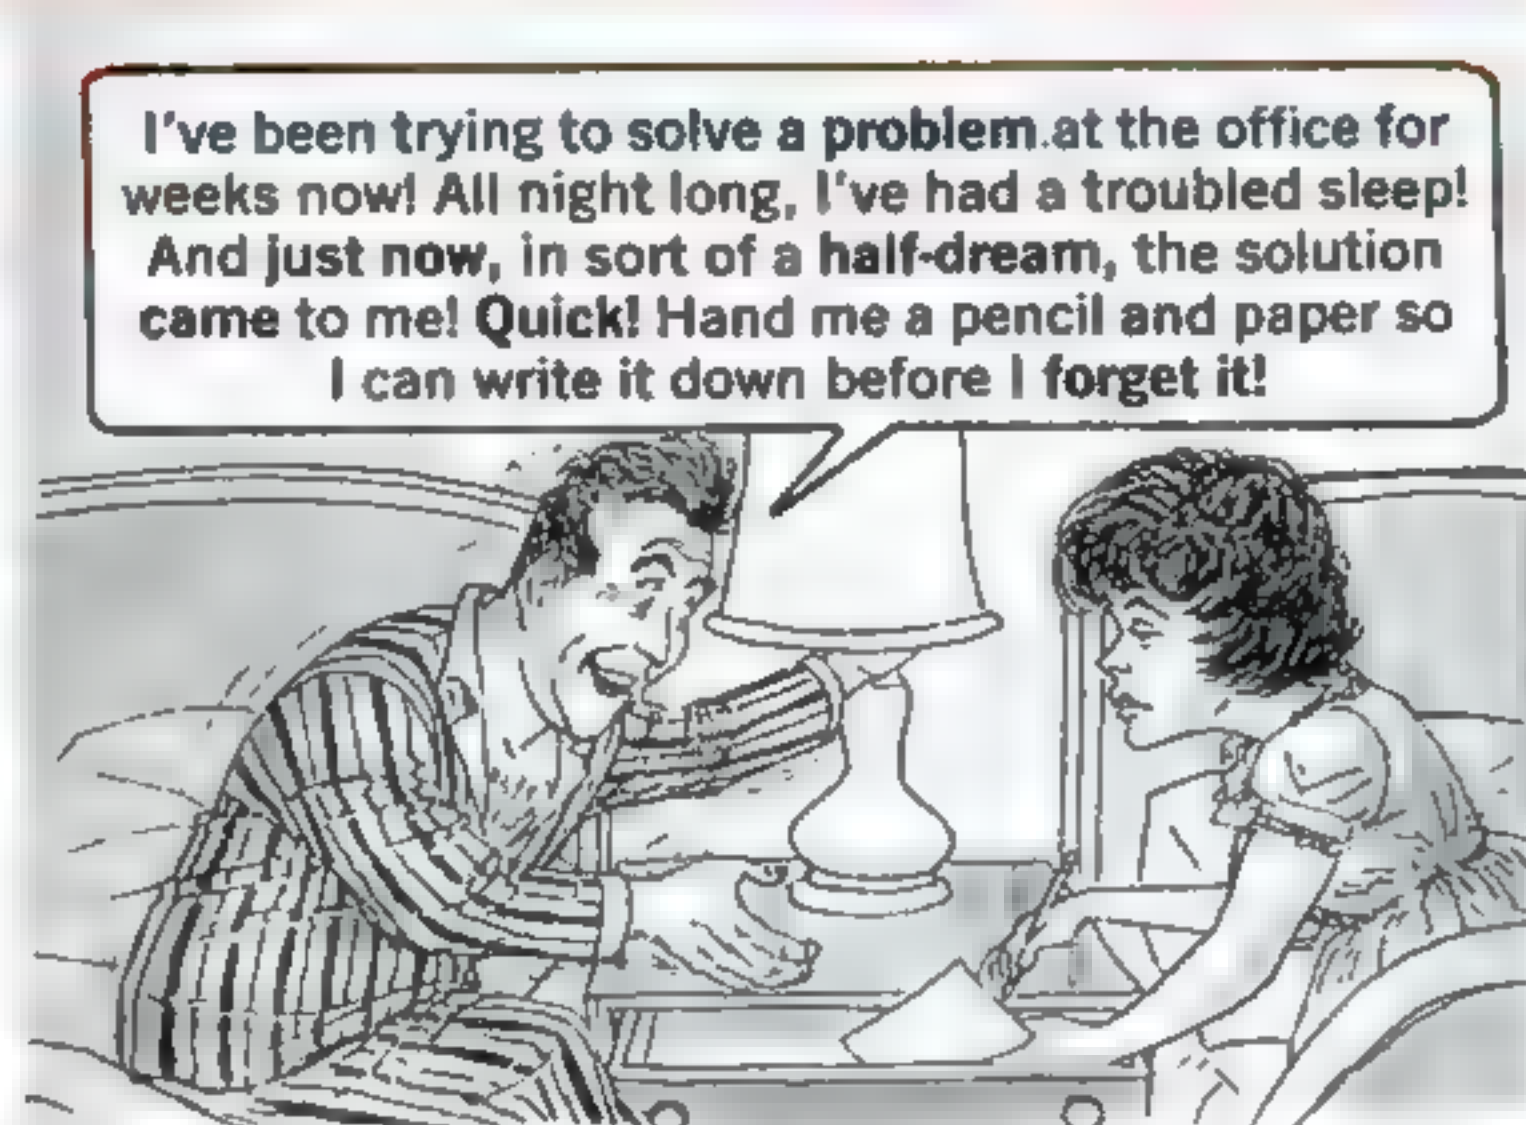

They caught it anyhow!

I'VE GOT IT! I'VE GOT IT!

What? What? What have you got? Pneumonia??

I've been trying to solve a problem at the office for weeks now! All night long, I've had a troubled sleep! And just now, in sort of a half-dream, the solution came to me! Quick! Hand me a pencil and paper so I can write it down before I forget it!

There! Now I can sleep in peace!

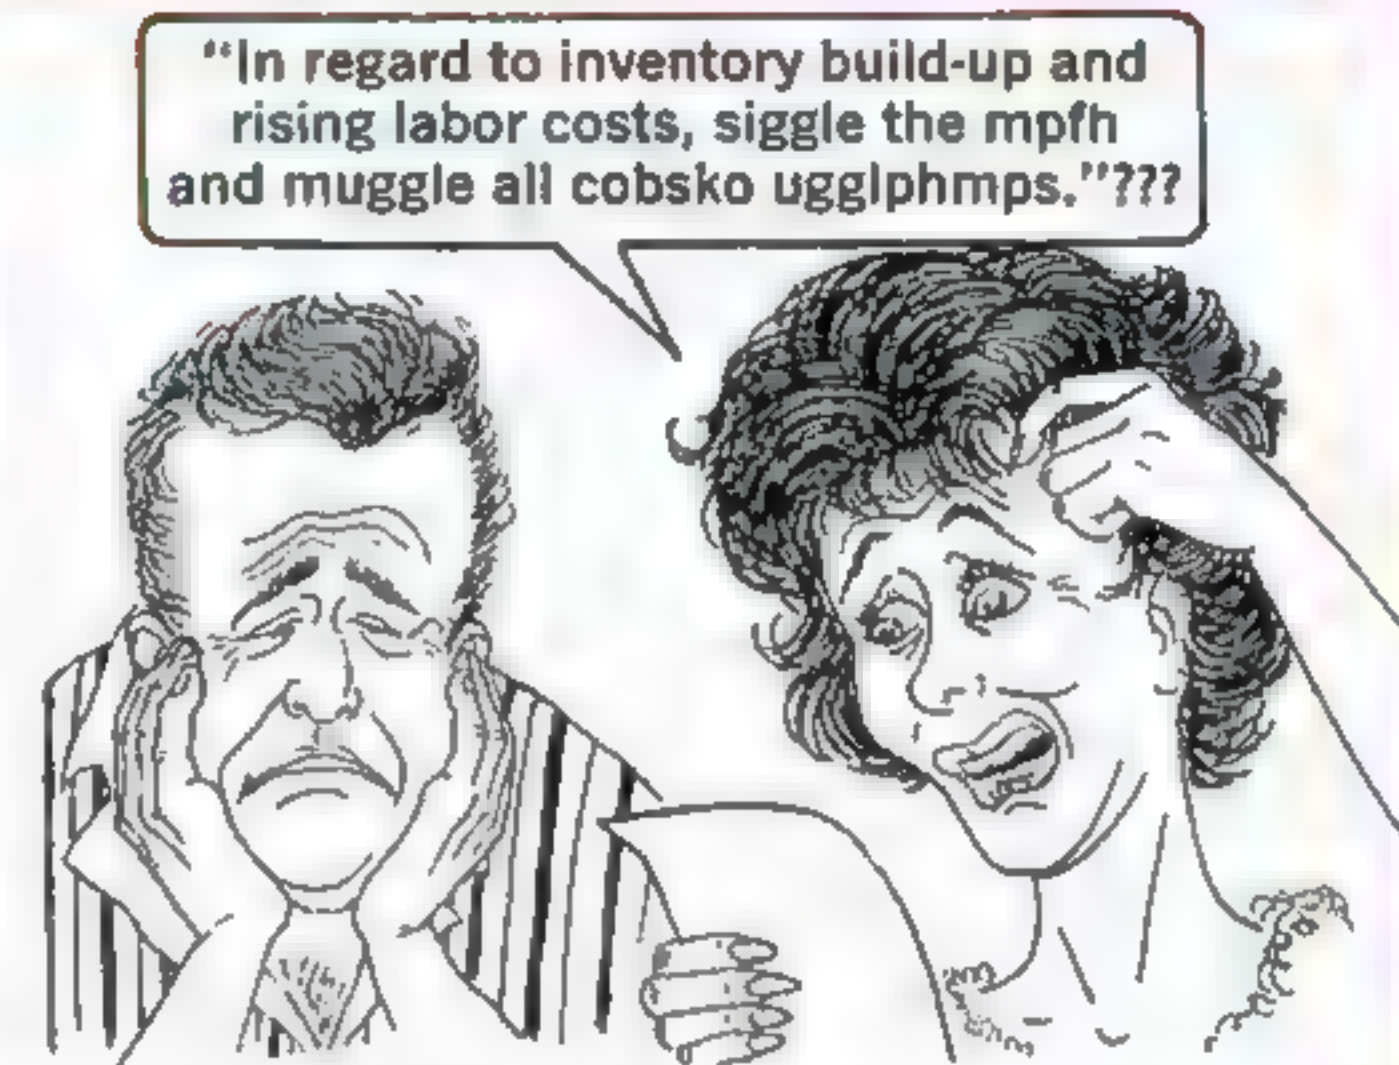

Ahhhh! The sun's in its heaven, my problem is solved, and all's right with the world! Where's that idea I wrote down?

Right where you left it!

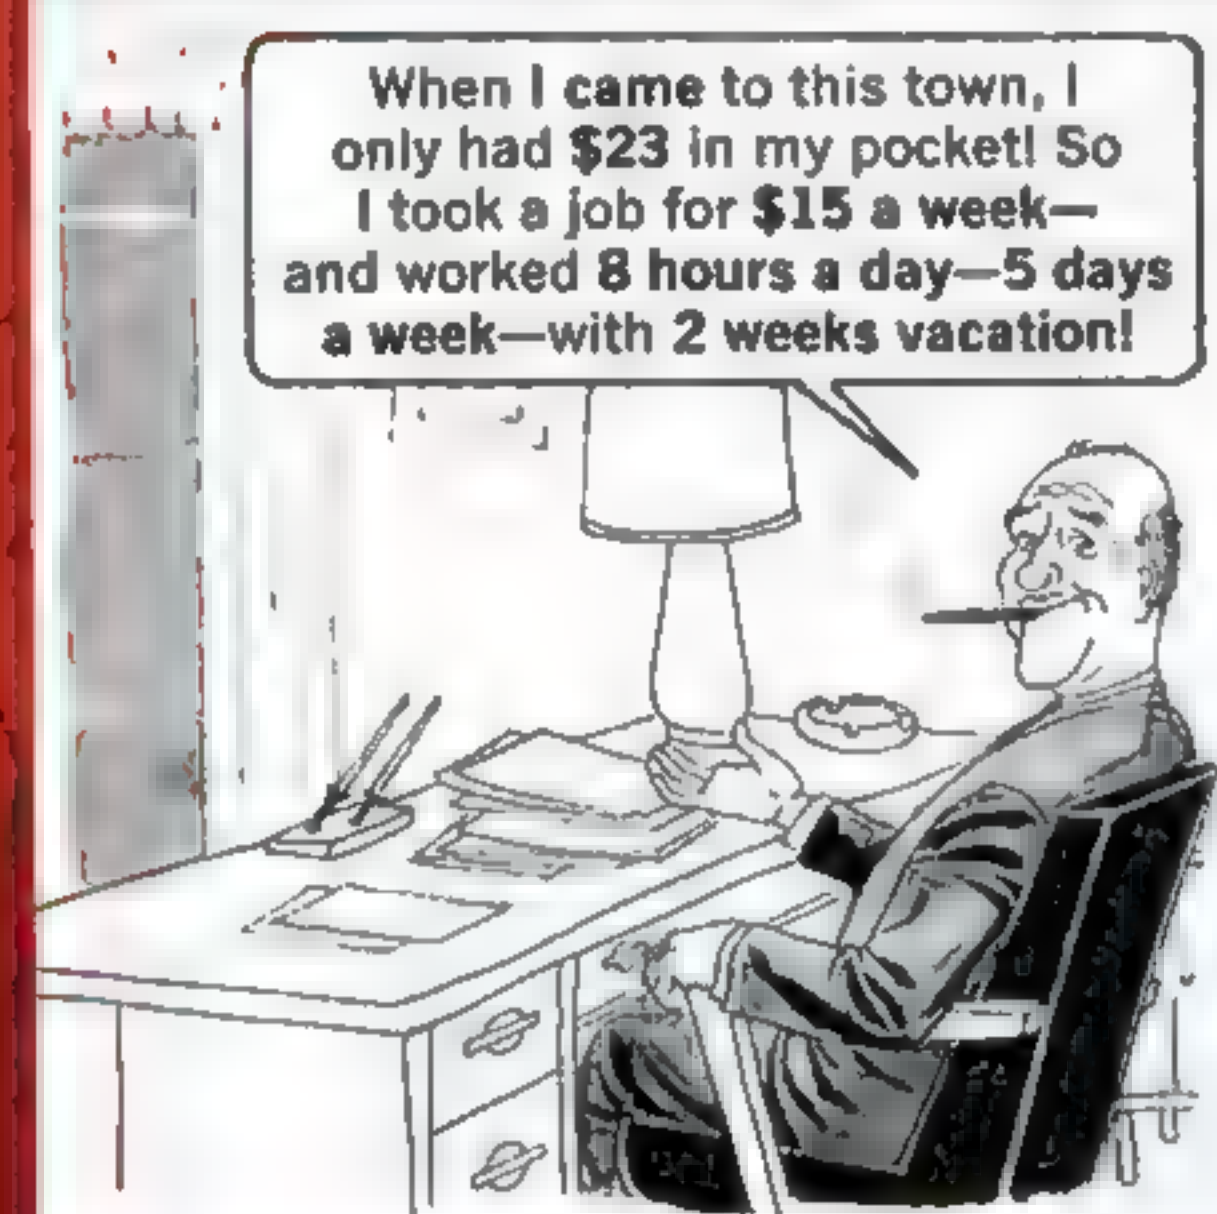

YAAAAHHHH!

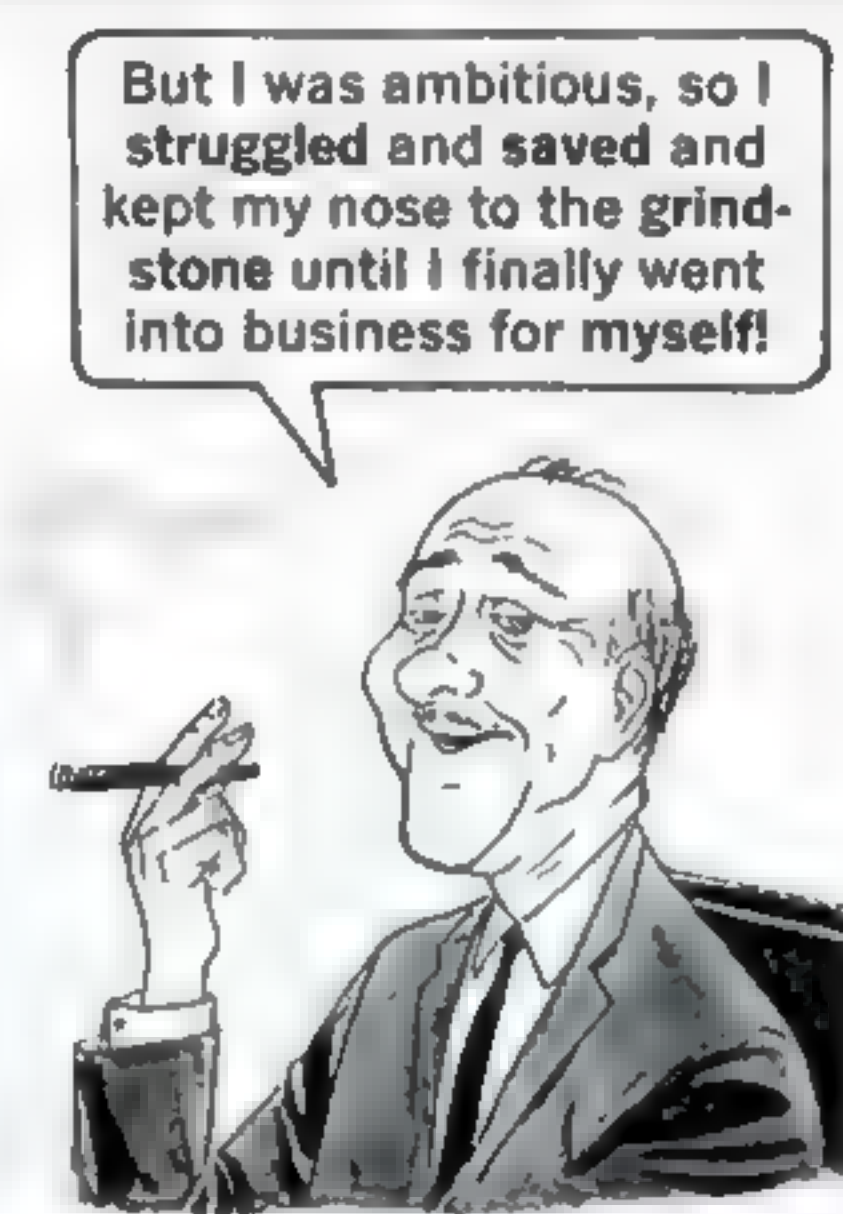

Now what's wrong!?

"In regard to inventory build-up and rising labor costs, siggle the mpfh and muggle all cobsko ugghpmps."???

When I came to this town, I only had $23 in my pocket! So I took a job for $15 a week—and worked 8 hours a day—5 days a week—with 2 weeks vacation!

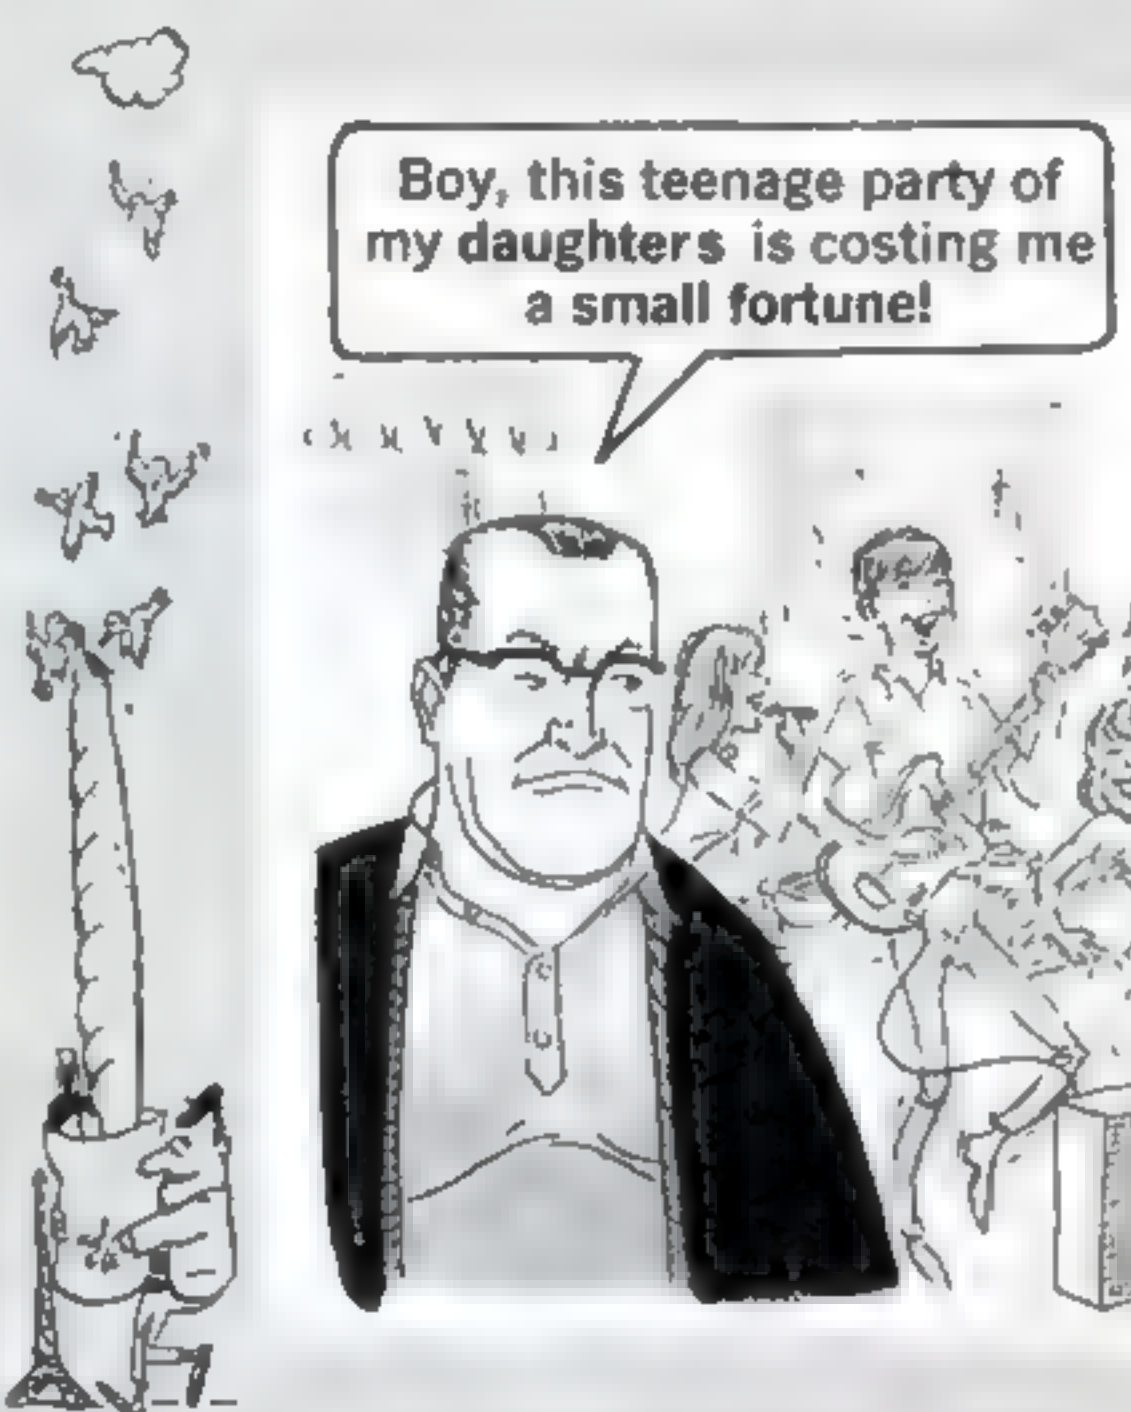

But I was ambitious, so I struggled and saved, and kept my nose to the grindstone until I finally went into business for myself!

Today, I'm the Boss! I'm a big success!

Now I work 18 hours a day—7 days a week—with no vacations—and I owe my creditors over $50,000!

Boy, this teenage party of my daughters is costing me a small fortune!

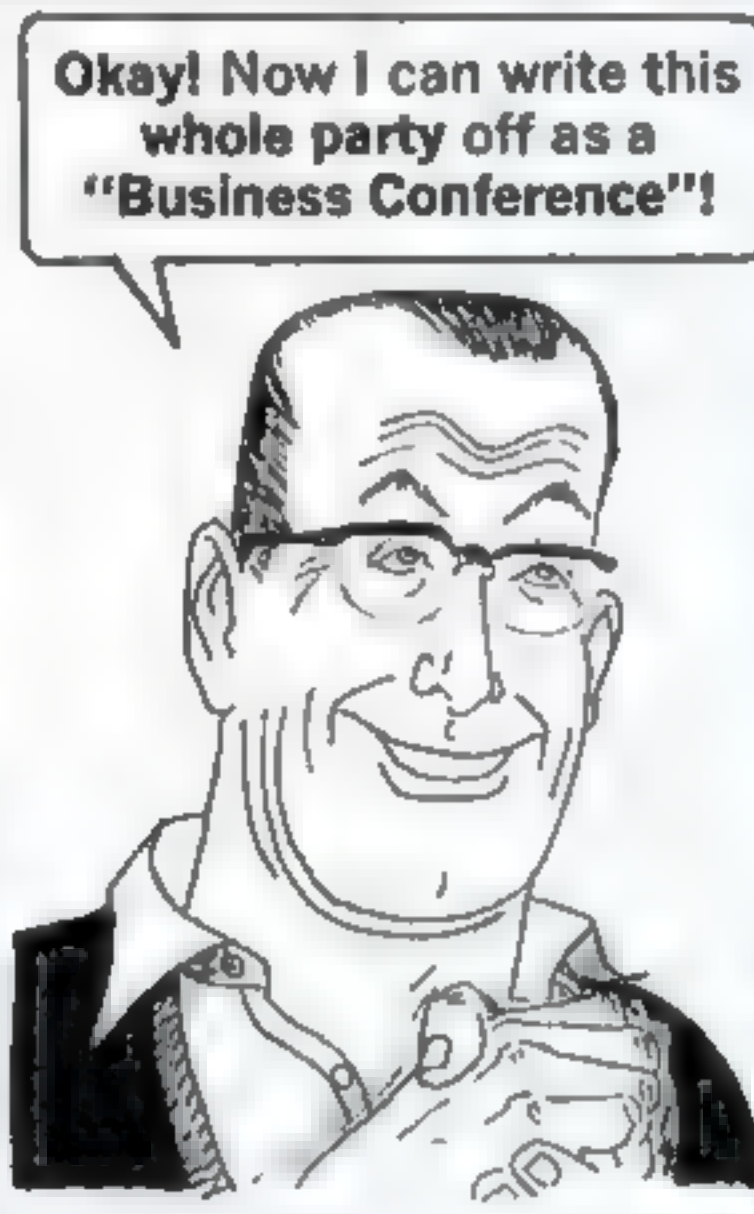

Hey, kid! Ask me how business is!

Sure . . .

How's business?

Ecccccchhh!

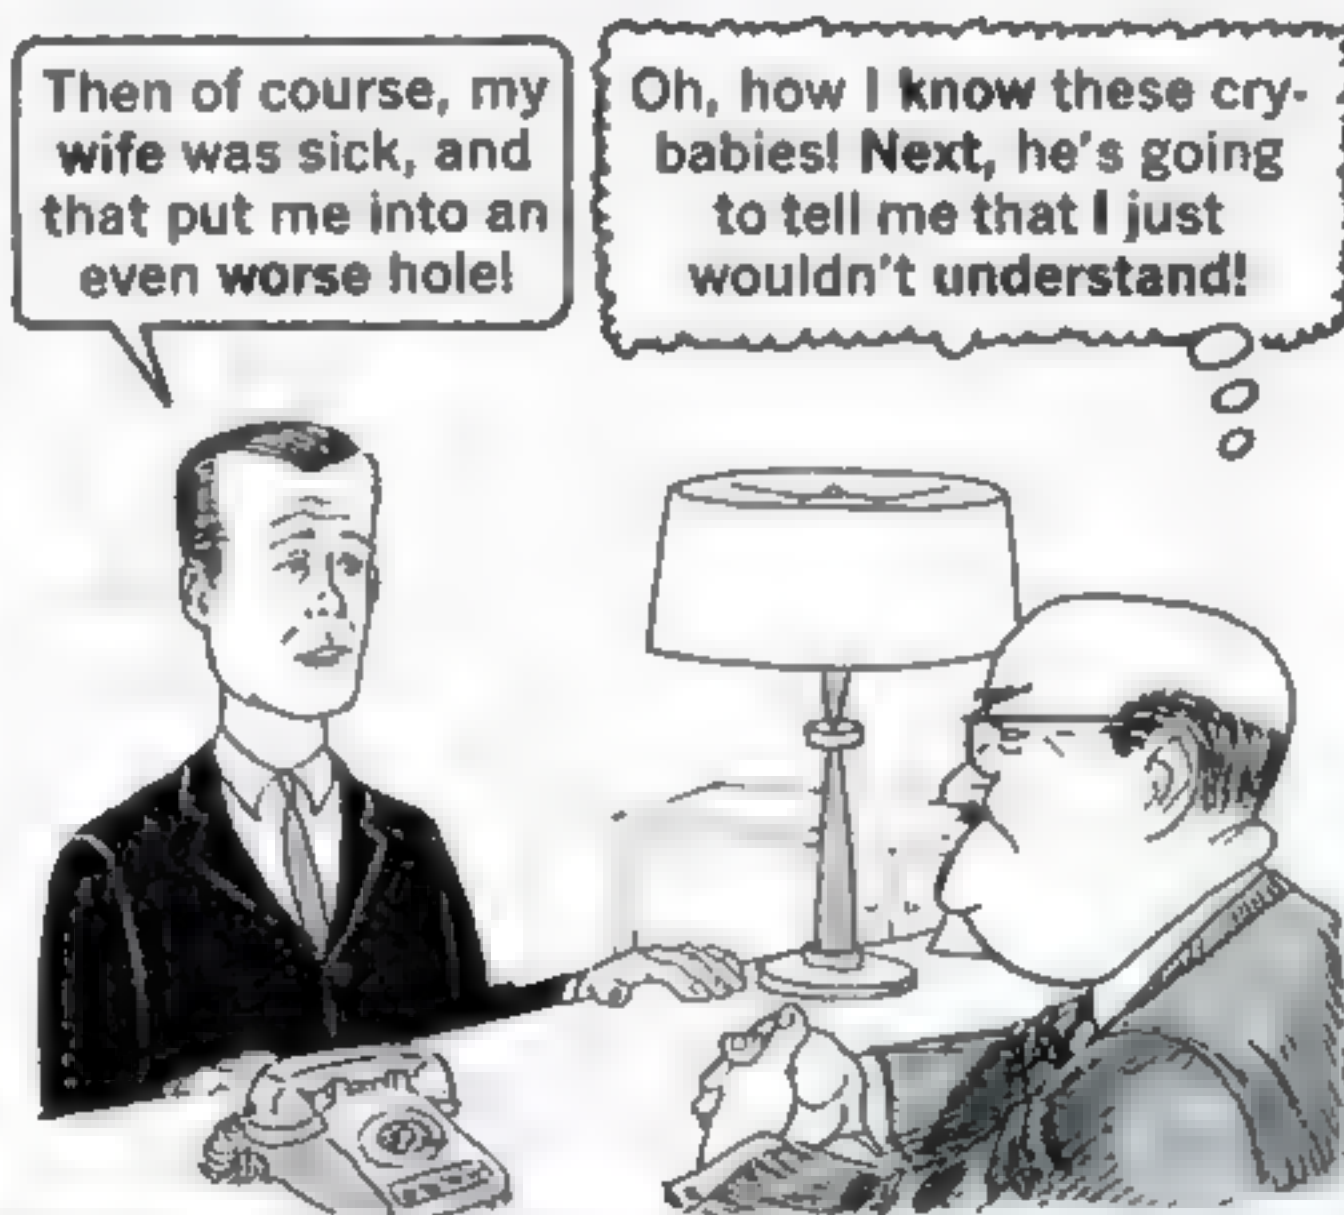

Okay! Now I can write this whole party off as a "Business Conference"!

Gee, Boss—I bit off a little more than I could chew when I bought the new house!

Ah-hah! Here it comes! He's hinting for a raise! Next, he'll tell me about his extra medical expenses!

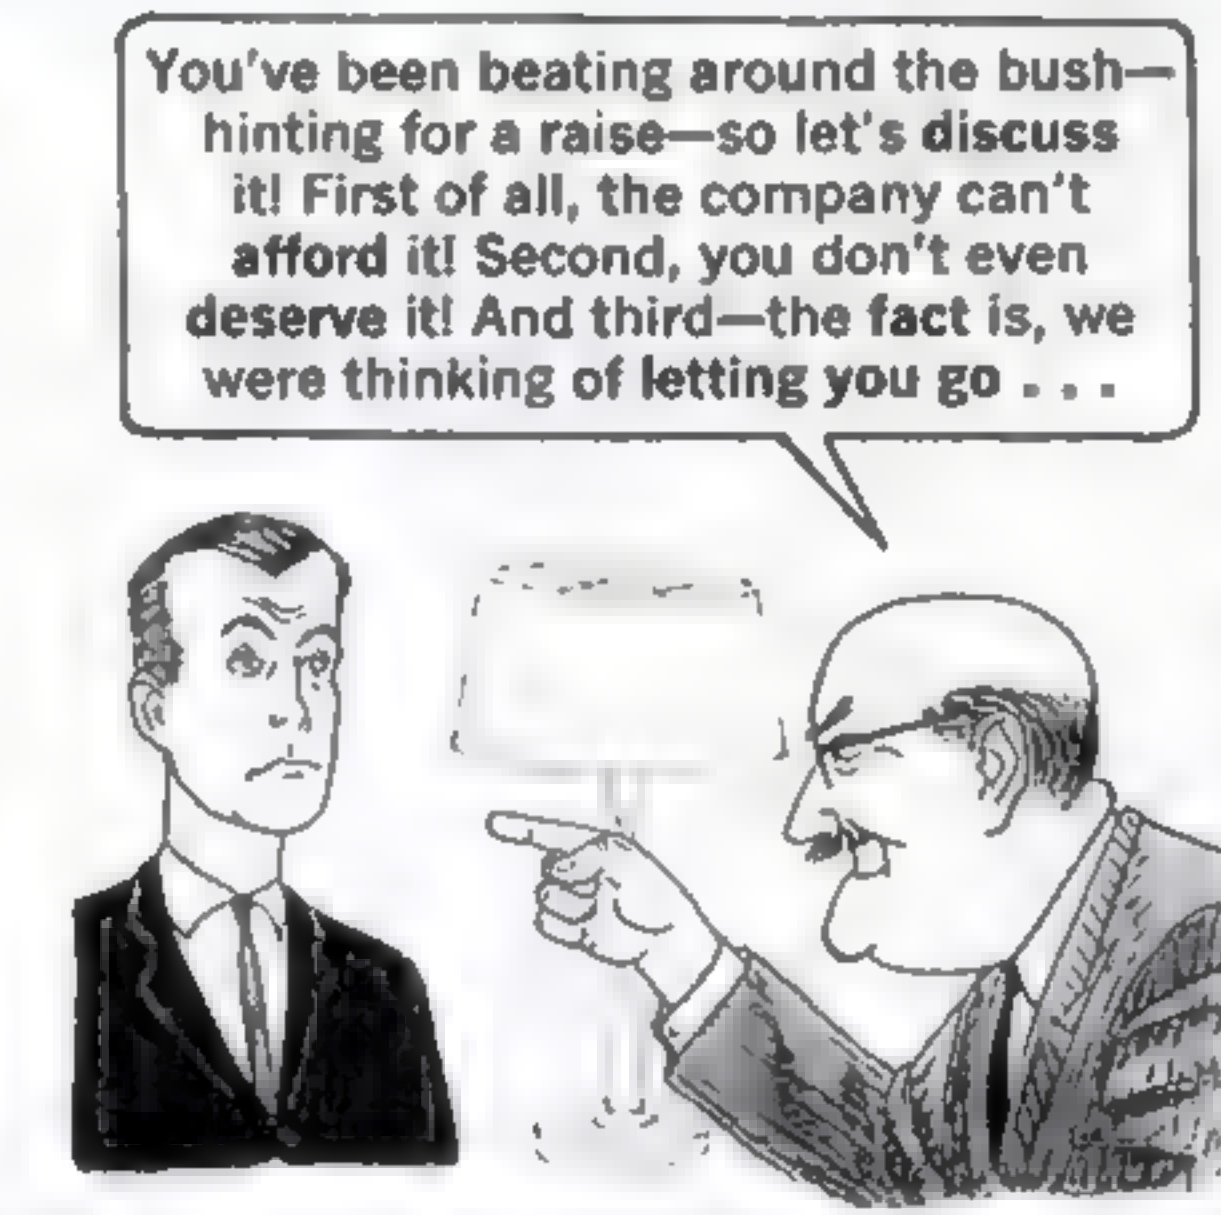

Then of course, my wife was sick, and that put me into an even worse hole!

Oh, how I know these cry-babies! Next, he's going to tell me that I just wouldn't understand!

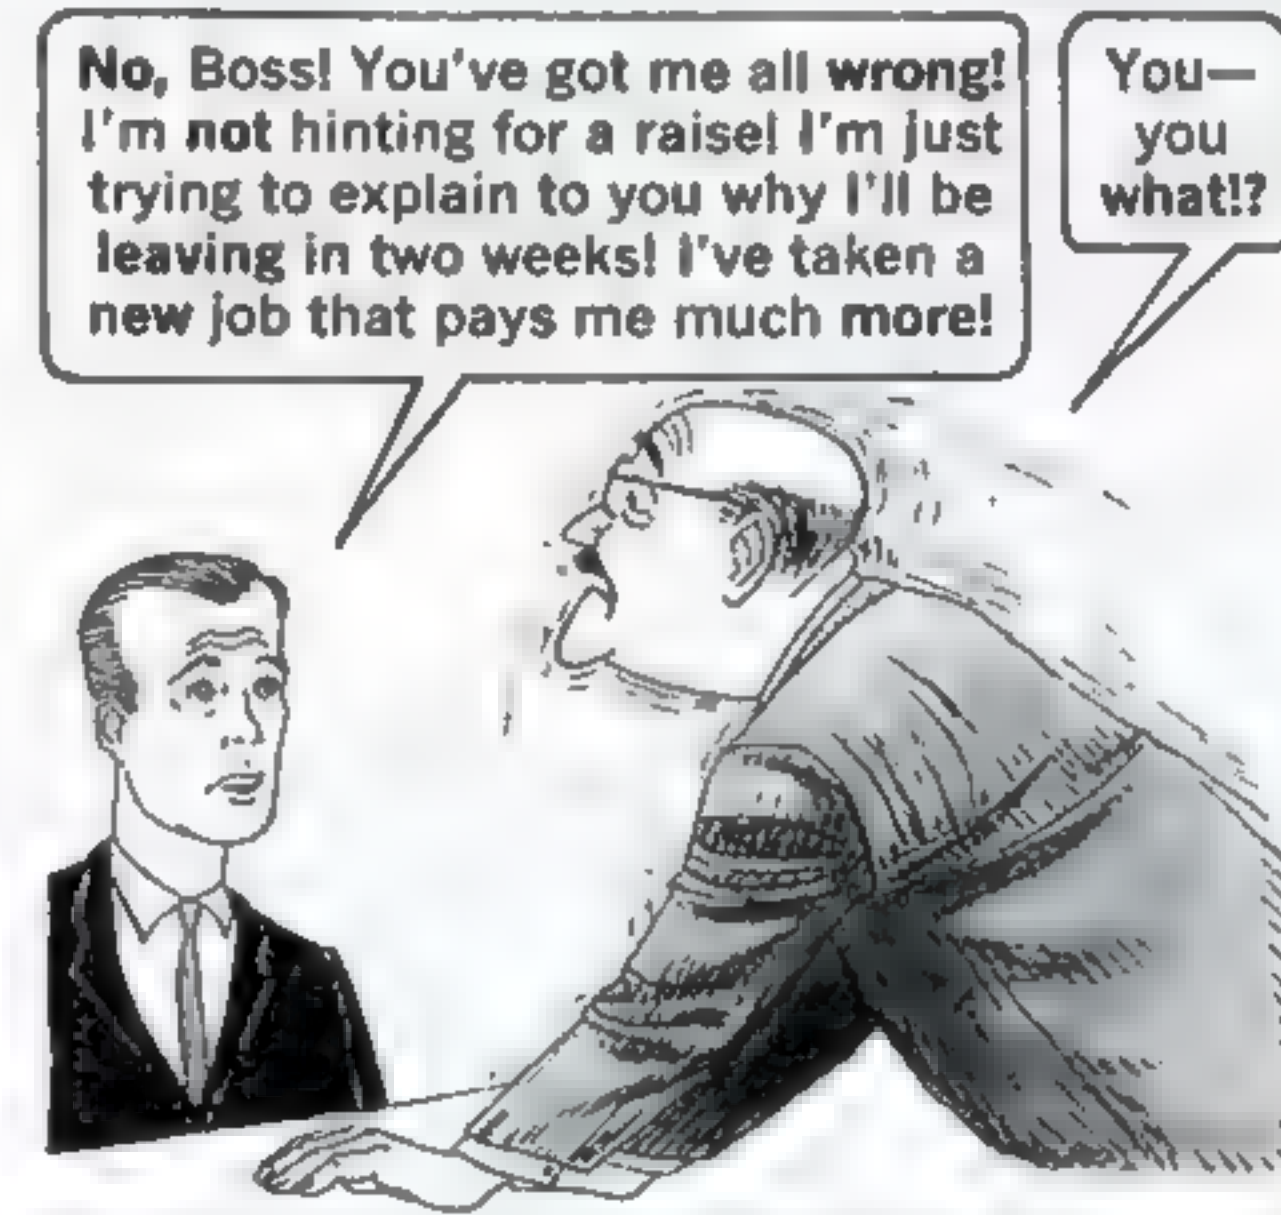

But, of course, you wouldn't understand such problems!

All right! Hold it right there!!

You've been beating around the bush—hinting for a raise—so let's discuss it! First of all, the company can't afford it! Second, you don't even deserve it! And third—the fact is, we were thinking of letting you go . . .

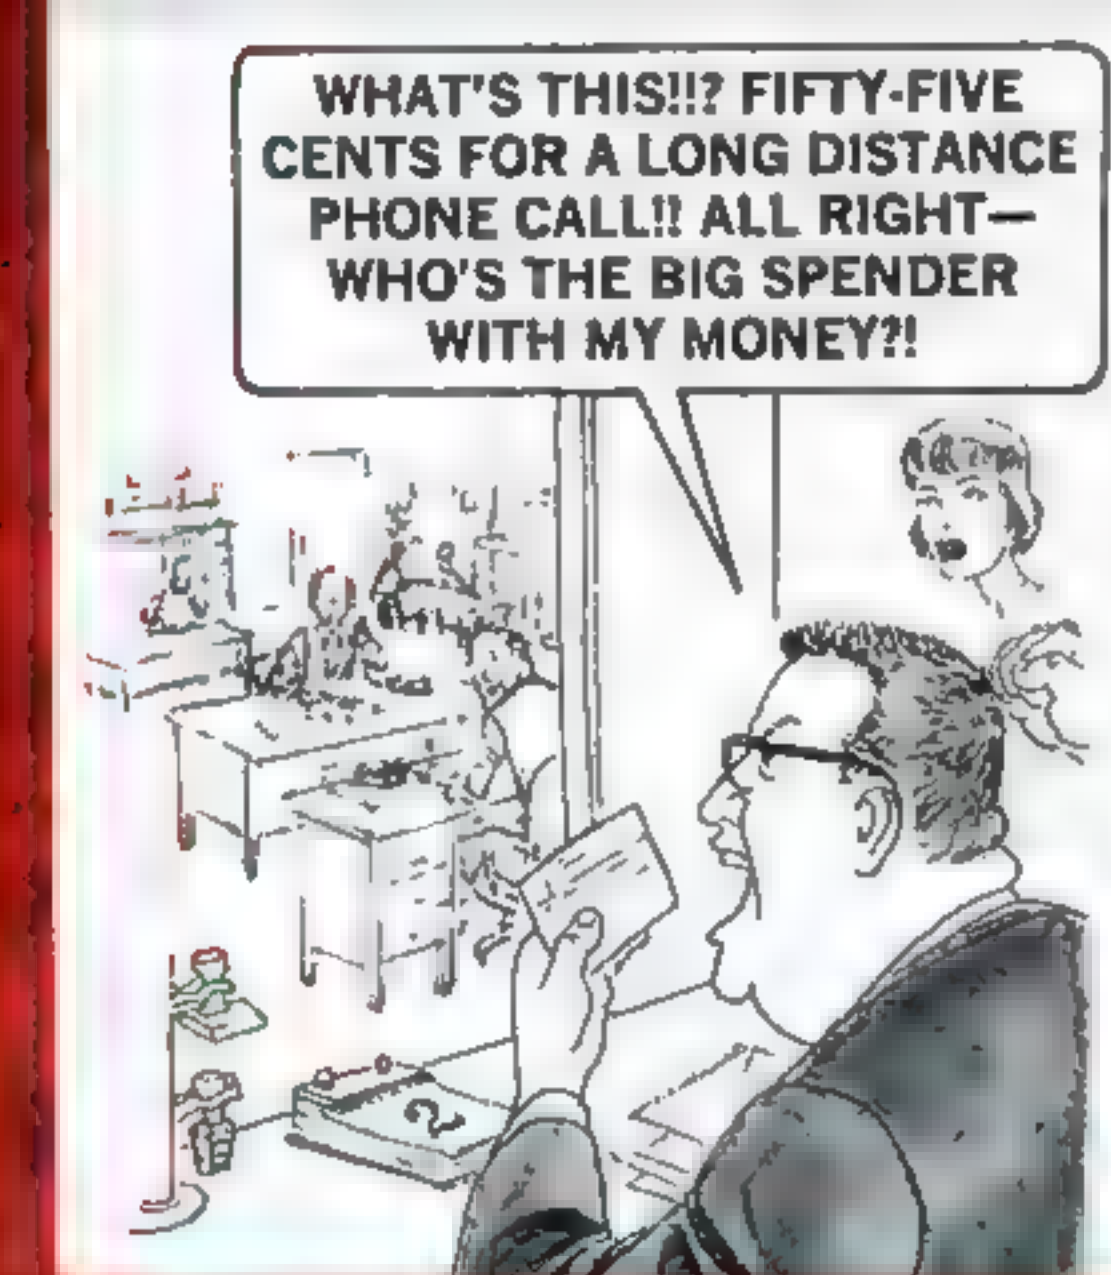

No, Boss! You've got me all wrong! I'm not hinting for a raise! I'm just trying to explain to you why I'll be leaving in two weeks! I've taken a new job that pays me much more!

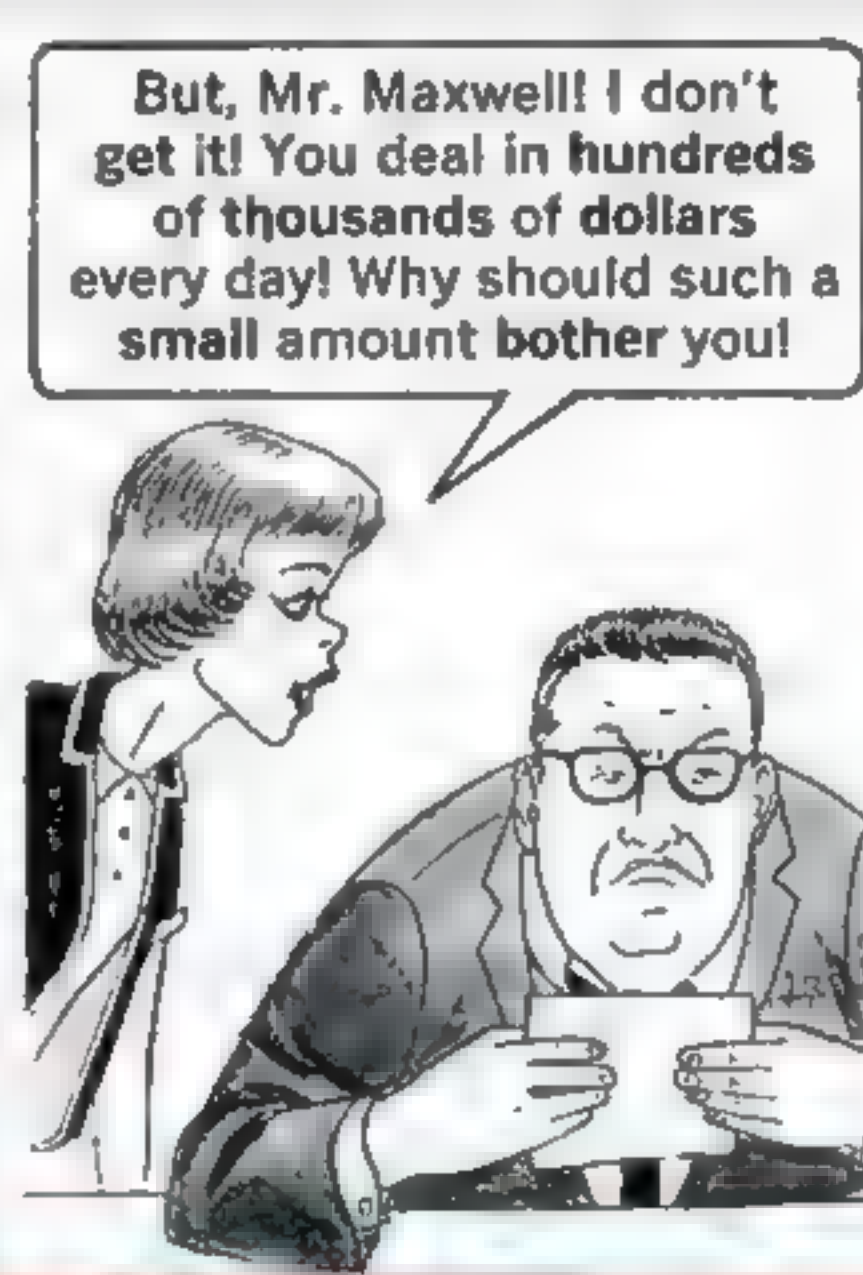

You— you what!?

Now let's not get excited, Gormley! We need you here! I'll meet their price! In fact, I'll give you ten dollars more! No, twenty! Er—thirty?

WHAT'S THIS!?! FIFTY-FIVE CENTS FOR A LONG DISTANCE PHONE CALL! ALL RIGHT—WHO'S THE BIG SPENDER WITH MY MONEY?!

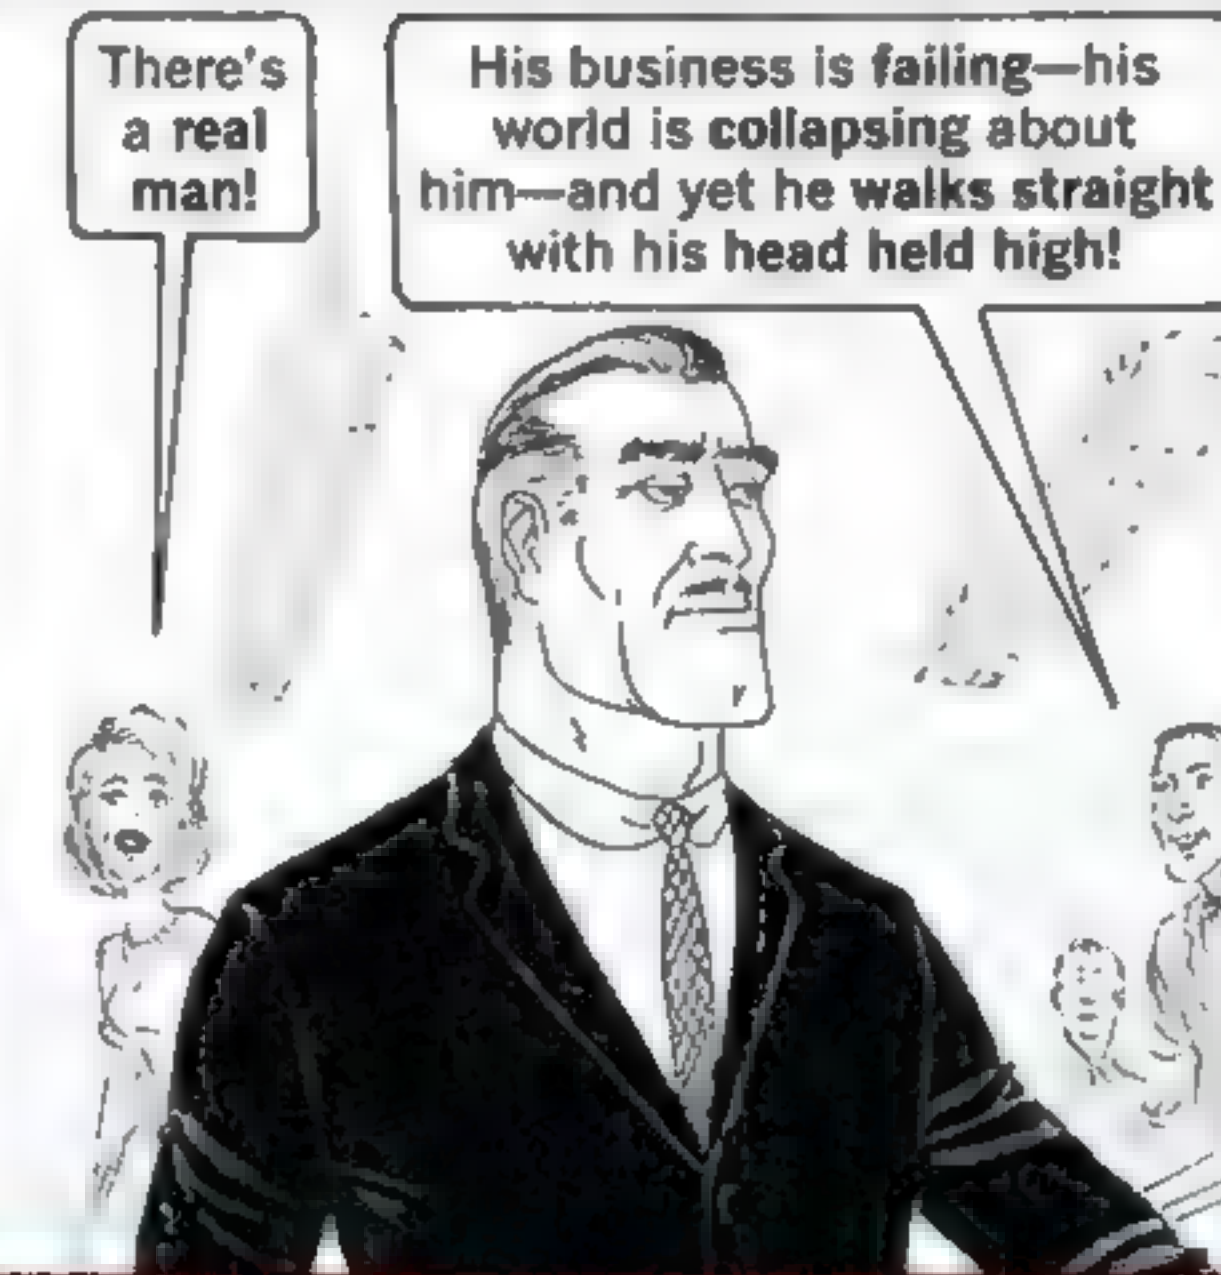

But, Mr. Maxwell! I don't get it! You deal in hundreds of thousands of dollars every day! Why should such a small amount bother you!

To tell the truth, numbers baffle me! A hundred thousand dollars is beyond my comprehension . . .

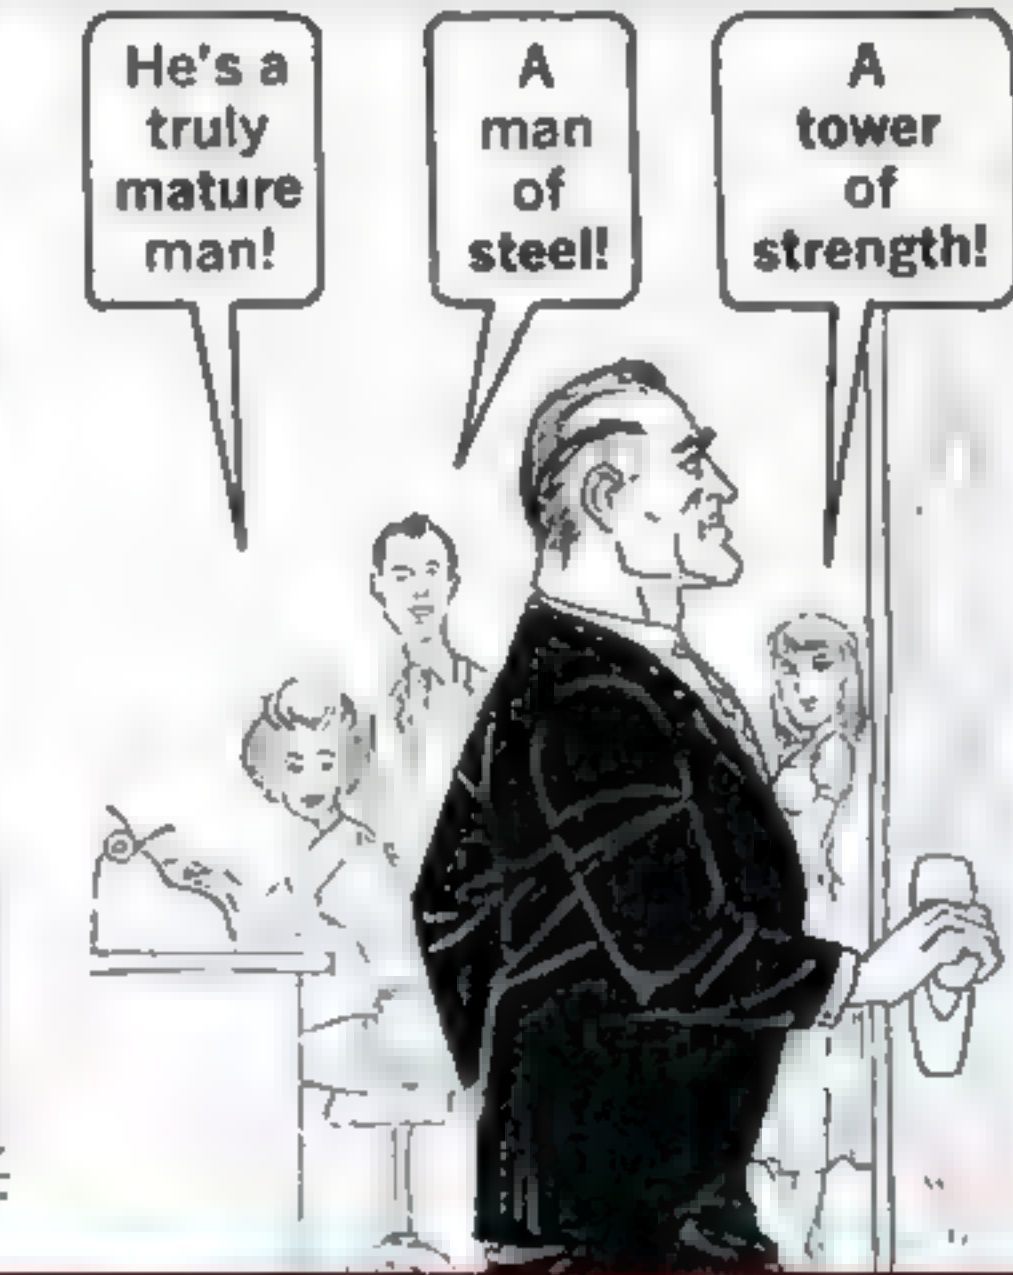

BUT FIFTY-FIVE CENTS . . . THAT I UNDERSTAND!!

There's a real man!

His business is failing—his world is collapsing about him—and yet he walks straight with his head held high!

He's a truly mature man!

A man of steel!

A tower of strength!

Mommy!

Every election season, in cities and towns across our great nation, voters are asked to vote “yay” or “nay” on some idiotic social referendum. This is truly democracy in action, as the side which spends the most money on television commercials wins. But sides aside, as a public service we’ve compiled the most well-reasoned positions from editorial writers across the country. As always, we are proud to play our part in our not-quite-democratic process.

Newspapers Weigh In On This Year's Least Important Ballot Propositions

THE PHOENIX MUDDLAPPER

Proposition 72 — YES

Vote Yes on Prop. 72. Allows six-year-olds to drive themselves to school; independent research PROVES immediate reduction in overcrowded buses. It's about time! Yes on 72!

The Criertown Towne Crier

Measure C — YES

Creates a panel of no less than eight watchdog groups each comprised of 12 to 14 independent consultants to oversee municipal government Committees on Overspending, Committees for Smaller Local Government, Subcommittees For Even Smaller Local Government and Committee Against Political Cronyism & Nepotism. Fiscal impact: Aaaah, it's probably negligible. Join Steve Wilson, Robert Wilson, Elaine Wilson-Bixley and Jim Bixley of Wilson & Bixley Consultants in voting YES on Measure C!

The Austin Daily Manifesto

Proposition 38 — NO

Vote NO on Prop. 38! Hastily and irresponsibly establishes drab, uninteresting Höchenschwand, Germany as official "sister city" when we still haven't heard back from Neuchâtel, Switzerland or Japan's Tokushima Prefecture. This November, let's show the world we can do better than Höchenschwand — Vote Nein on 38!

THE DETROIT VERY PICAYUNE NEWS

Proposition 94 — NO

Moves weekly meeting of City Council from Room 17-B, Town Hall to Lane 12, Midway Bowling Alley. Send Bob Forschburg a message and remind him that he knew when League Night was when he ran for councilman last year: Vote NO on Prop. 94!

The Grand Rapids Conservative Screed

Measure J — YES

Makes it mandatory for gym employee, once notified, to approach man at sink in men's locker room and tell him to stop shaving his balls. Immediate benefits include more sinks available for others, fewer clogged drains, and no one shaving their balls at the sink. Shave your damn balls at home! Yes on J!

The Wamelsdorf-Cupenluck Penny Saver

Proposition 23 — YES

Places strict four-penny limit on penny dish grabs, preventing greedy shoppers from using the public sector to subsidize more than 4% of purchase per $1 spent. Our pennies are for everyone! Yes on 23!

THE ST. PETERSBURG HAPPENSTANCE WEEKLY

Proposition 6 — NO

Rescinds section 122.68b of residential code and allows for crudely-painted plywood cutouts of fat woman bending over doing gardening work in front yards, visible from street. Gnomes and flamingos, yes! Plywood fat-asses no! Vote No on Proposition 6!

The Herald Journal Post Times Tribune

Proposition 70 — NO

Unfairly discourages ignorant citizens from signing petitions outside medical marijuana dispensaries, Tea Party rallies, food co-ops, Ted Nugent concerts, Trader Joe's locations, open-carry events, Venice Beach, California and Phoenix, Arizona by demanding petition-gatherers accurately describe purpose of petition without using charged talking points or exaggerated scare tactics and making sure potential signer fully comprehends issue at hand. Completely unnecessary, impossible to implement and guaranteed to negatively impact petition-gatherer industry while unfairly targeting enormous blocs of uninformed, stupid voters. No No No on Proposition 70!

The Journal Herald Tribune Post Journal

Measure D — YES

Tourism-boosting Measure D earmarks approximately $1,600 to hire a professional photographer to take a series of photos to be used on local postcards, updating or replacing current available cards depicting "Busy Woolworth's Lunch Counter," "Enjoying the Steam Room at Men's Turkish Bath House on Mason Street," and "Swarthy Slovak Peddler and His Pretty Child Bride in East Side's Little Prague." Yes on D — It's About Time!

The Tribune Post Times Herald Journal

Proposition 79 — YES

Allows police to legally detain and arrest anyone who they have a reasonable suspicion of being a member of Improv Everywhere. Limits bad improvisational "comedy" to continuing education workshops and lame parties thrown by annoying, struggling actors. Anti-flashmob initiative of 2007 did not go far enough! Let's get a handle on this now before it gets out of hand. Vote Yes on Prop. 79!

THE SEATTLE NO-ONE-READS-DAILY

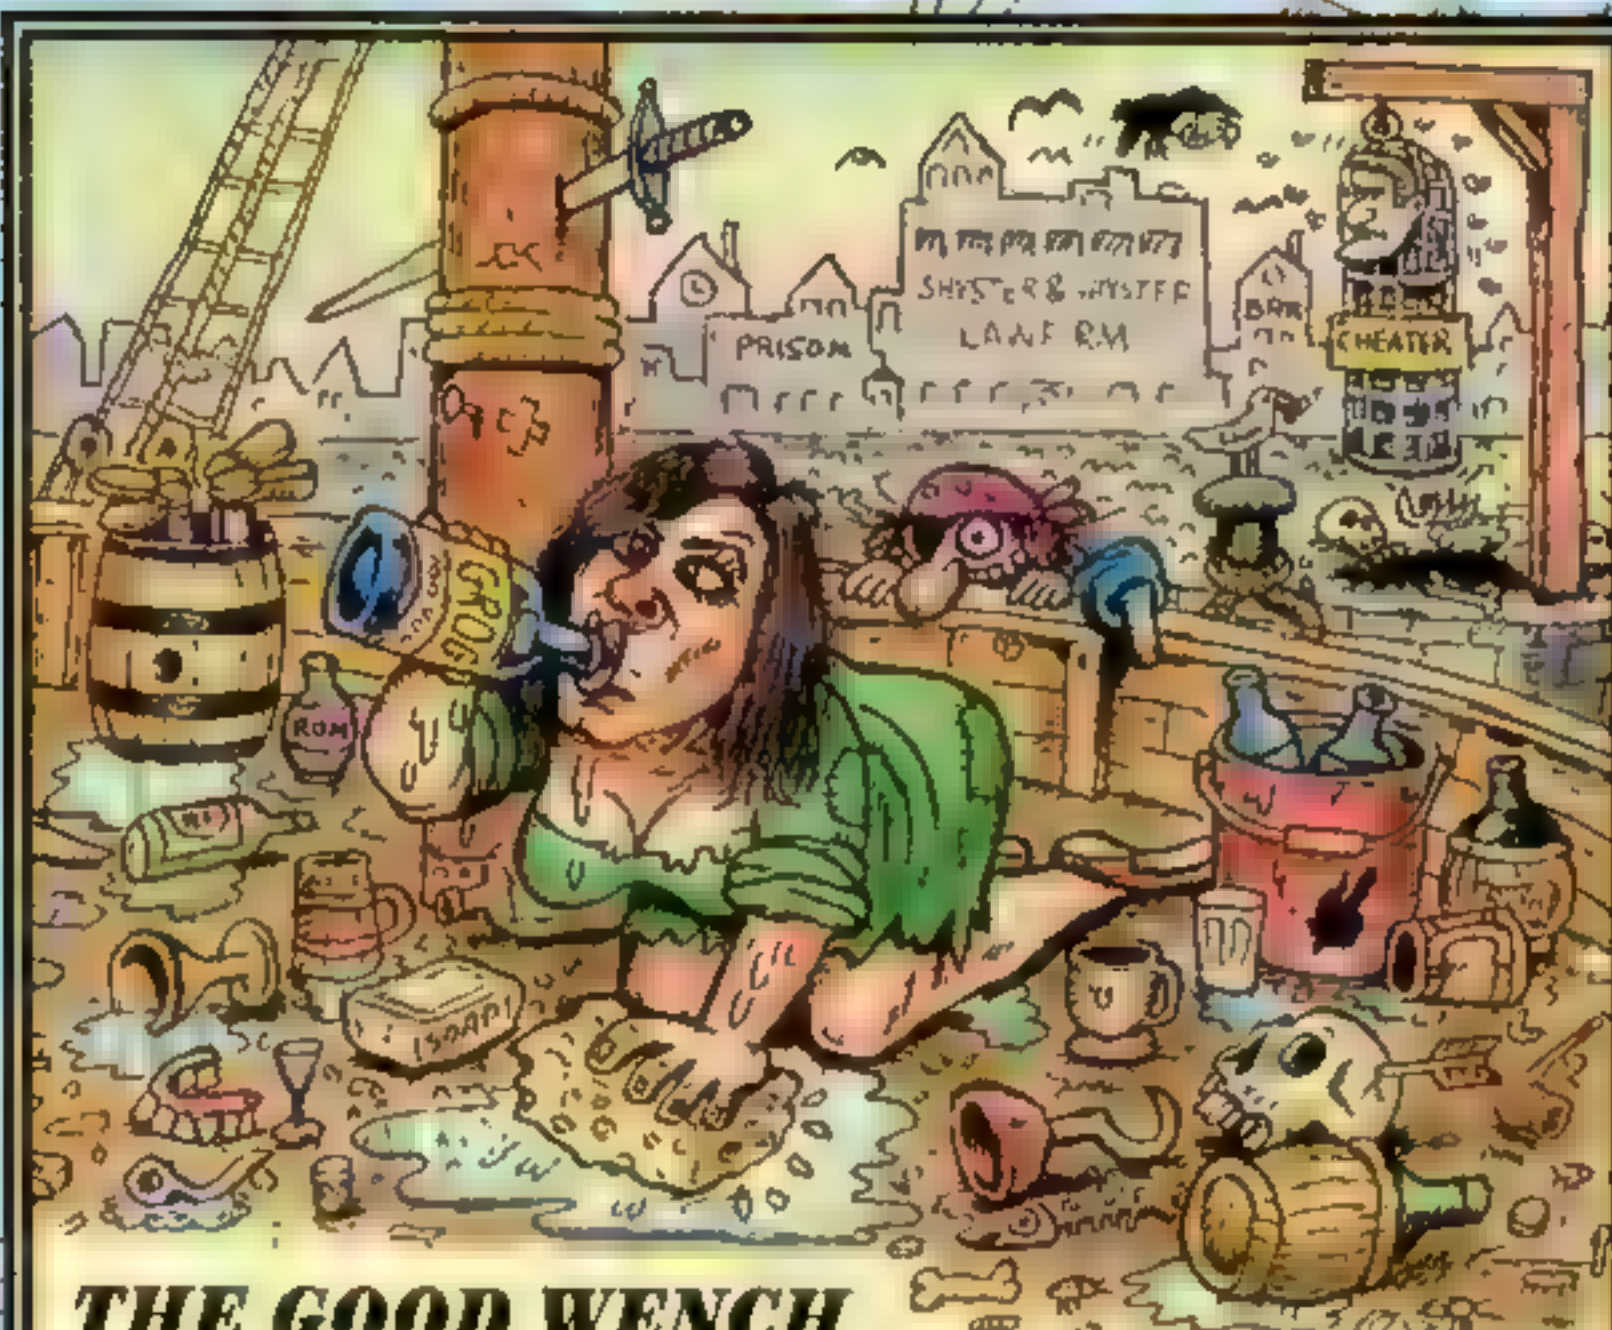

Proposition 18 — NO

Invalidates 1867 law against rolling a cannon ball down the middle of Main Street during a hailstorm on a Tuesday in May while eating a pickle and wearing a hoop skirt. Wacky Laws on "Kidz Section" of city website will have to be updated at enormous taxpayer cost — while "Annual Events" area of site is still saddled with embarrassing "Gerainum Festival" typo. No on Proposition 18!

We recently read that there are about 12 new pirate movies coming our way in the next two years. (Funny how the same movie executives who complain about movie piracy have no problem glorifying pirates in films!) But the plundering doesn't stop there — at least four pirate TV shows are in production as well. It's enough to make you want to wear patches on BOTH eyes! How long before there's an entire channel devoted to the thieving, hook-handed rascals? Not long, John Silver, judging by this treasure chest we call...

NEW SHOWS ON THE ALL-PIRATE NETWORK

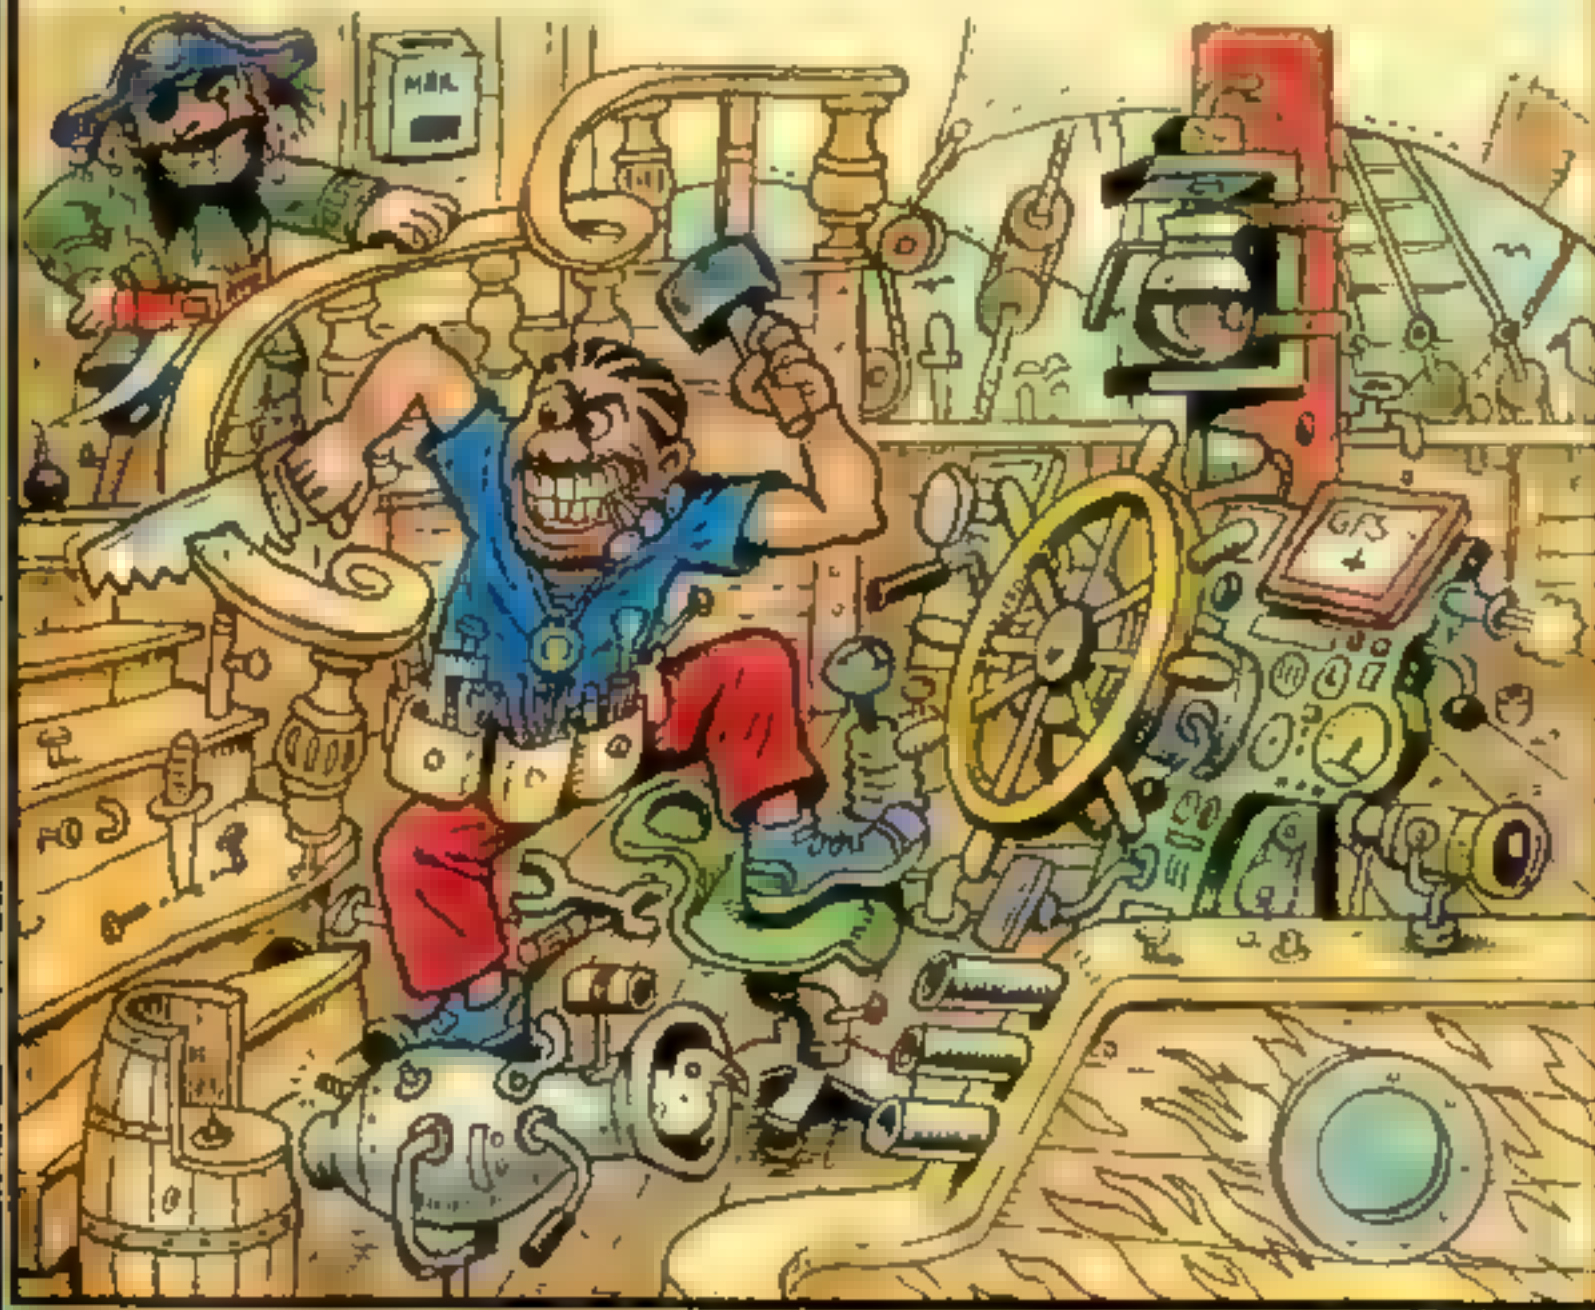

THE GOOD WENCH

In this gripping episodic drama, the loyal, but toothless, mistress of a publicly disgraced pirate must find work as a lowly charwoman to provide for her two illegitimate children — all while battling a crippling grog addiction.

PIMP MY CLIPPER

Swab that deck and hoist the mainsail! Pirate expert Salty Sal and antique boat restoration specialist The Mad Marauder train their sights on some of the sorriest wrecks on the high seas. These guys take pirate ship customization to an all-new level, creating pimped-out maritime masterpieces!

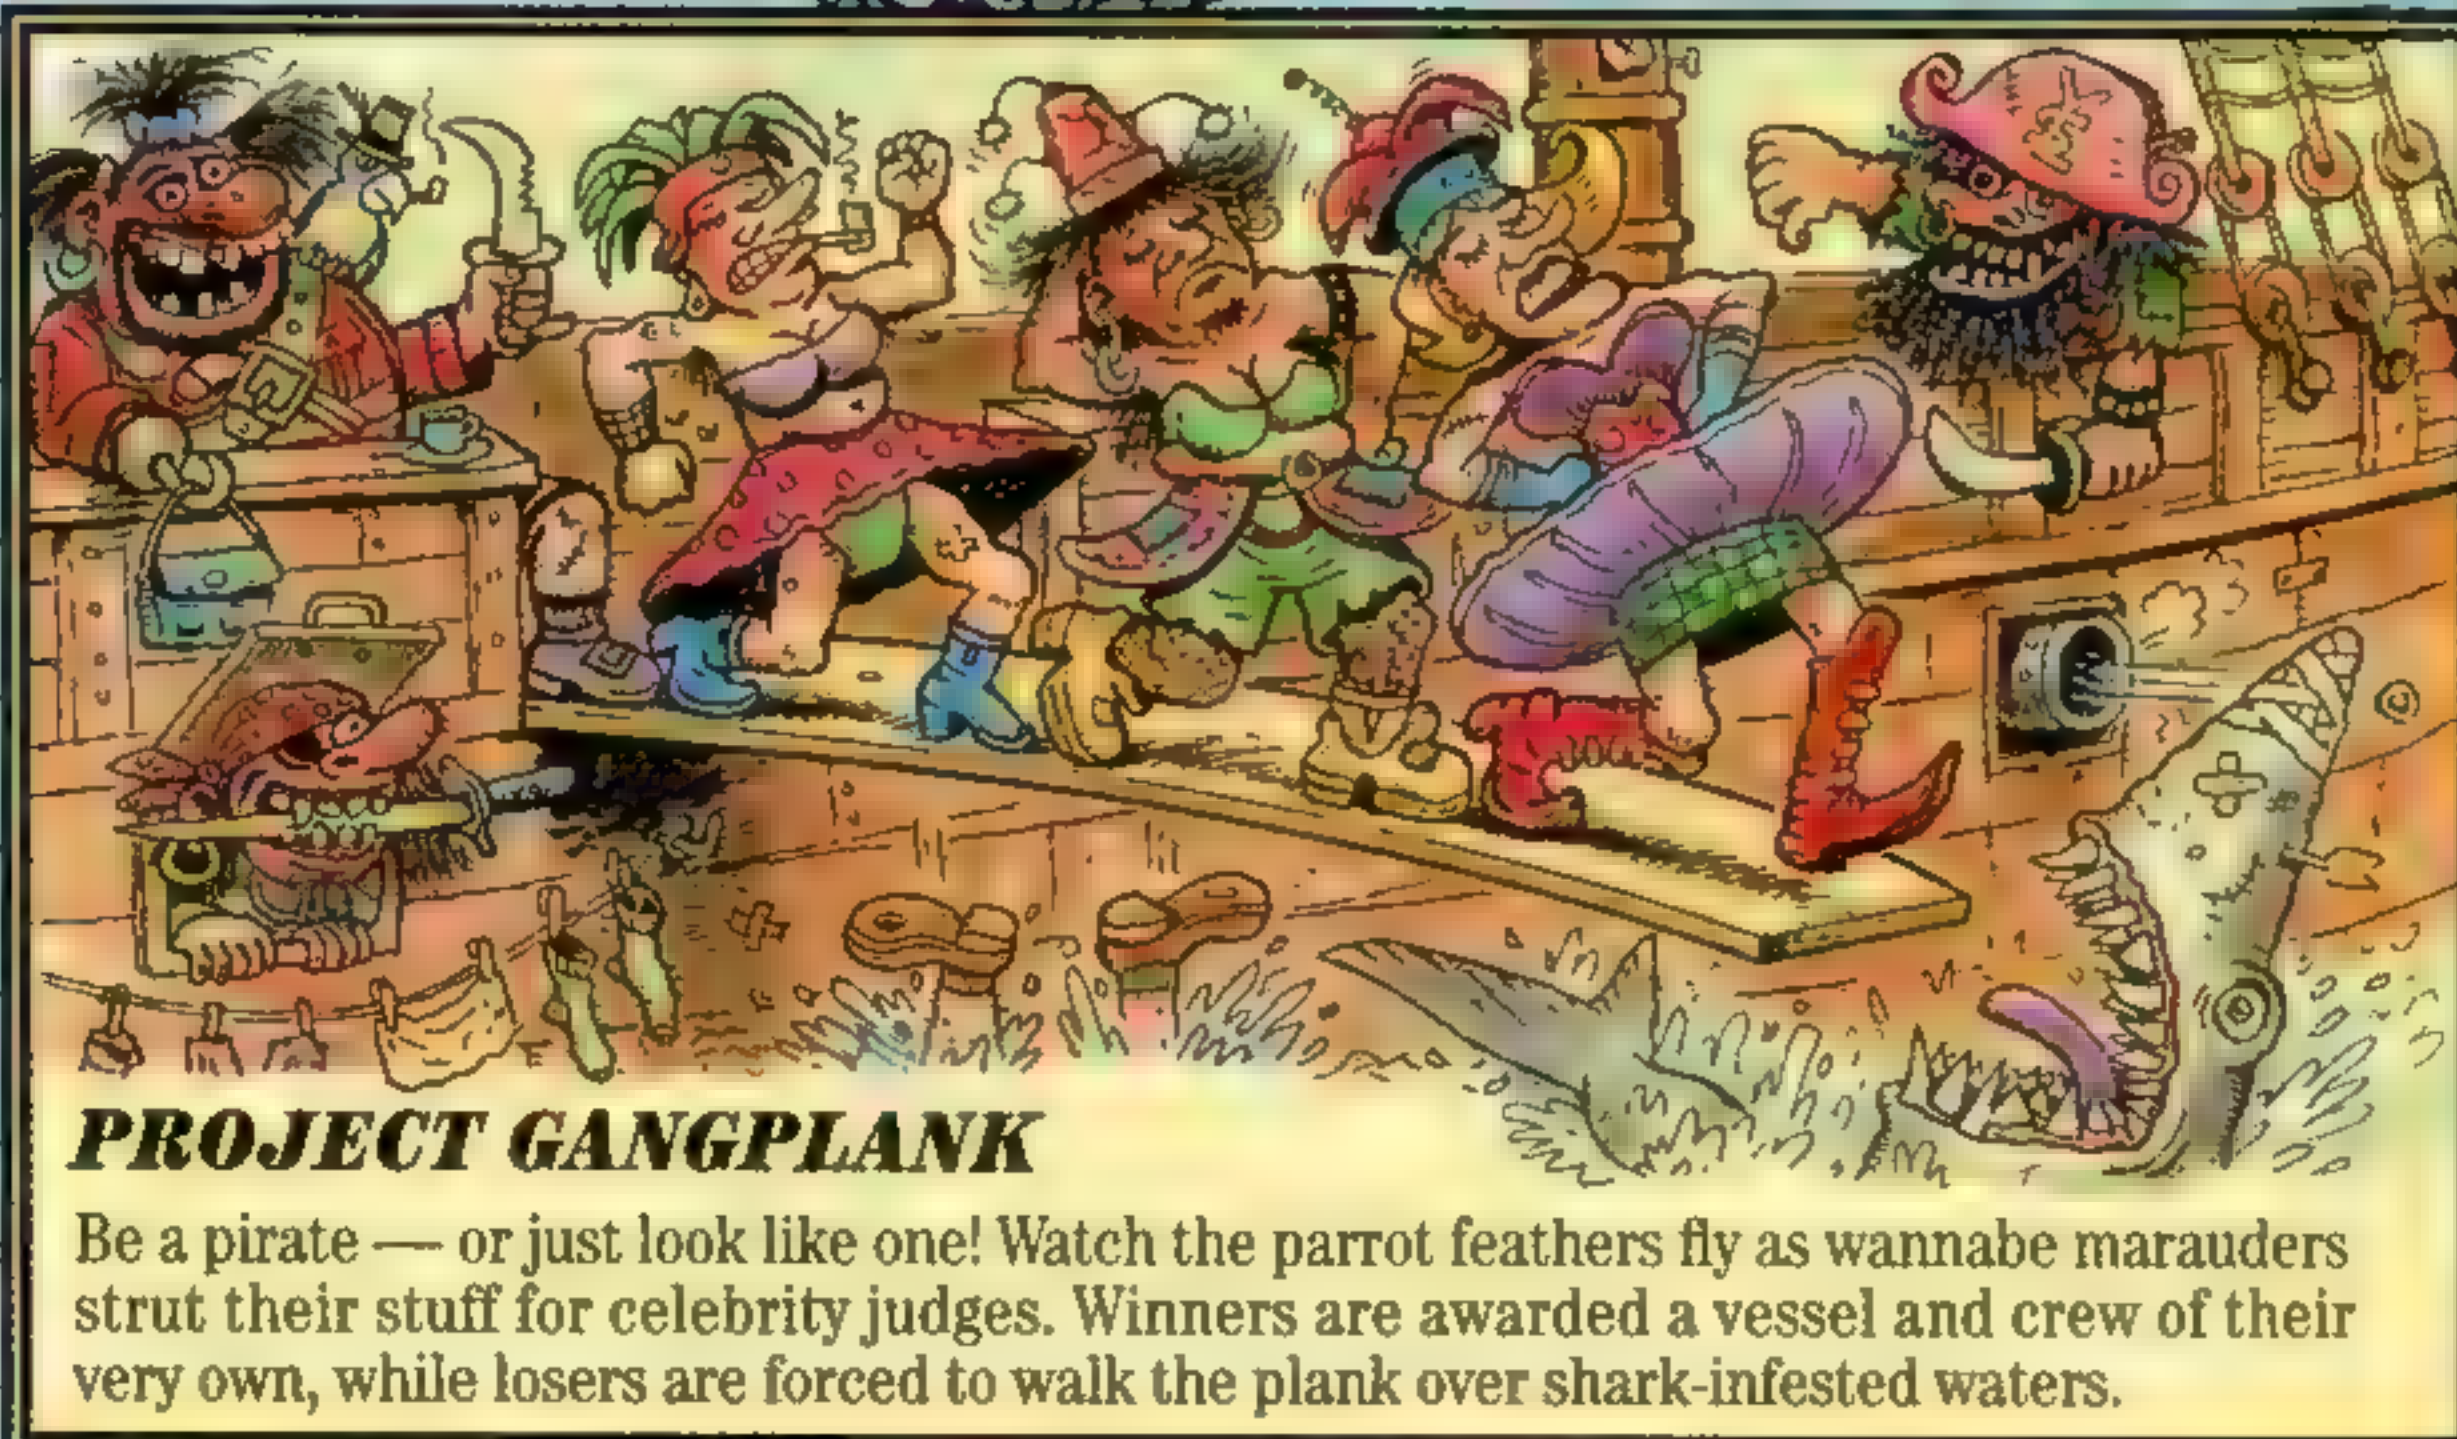

THE PARROT WHISPERER

Man's best friend may be a dog, but what's a pirate without a loyal parrot companion on his shoulder? The renowned parrot behavior specialist's skills are put to the test each week as pirates from all over the globe bring in their problem parrots for help. In this season's premiere episode, the Parrot Whisperer must try and cure a potty-mouthed bird with Tourette Syndrome.

PROJECT GANGPLANK

Be a pirate — or just look like one! Watch the parrot feathers fly as wannabe marauders strut their stuff for celebrity judges. Winners are awarded a vessel and crew of their very own, while losers are forced to walk the plank over shark-infested waters.

CSI-PATCH

No crime scene is too complex — or too gruesome — for this elite band of pirate forensic investigators. In the series opener, the team is called in to solve the murder of Catherine the Cutthroat, who appears to have been killed with an ancient 17th century belying pin.

EVERYBODY LOVES BLACKBEARD

Bloodthirsty pirate Edward Teach has a stressful job: looting, torturing and murdering. But when he's home, the REAL craziness begins! With 14 frustrated wives, overbearing parents and a jealous brother, what's a Scourge of the Seven Seas to do?

THE BIGGEST LOOTER

Pirate booty call! Amateur bucs compete for big bucks in this exciting new series, as contestants arm themselves to the teeth and ransack local towns, all vying for the grand prize treasure of $250,000 in Spanish doubloons and the coveted title of The Biggest Looter!

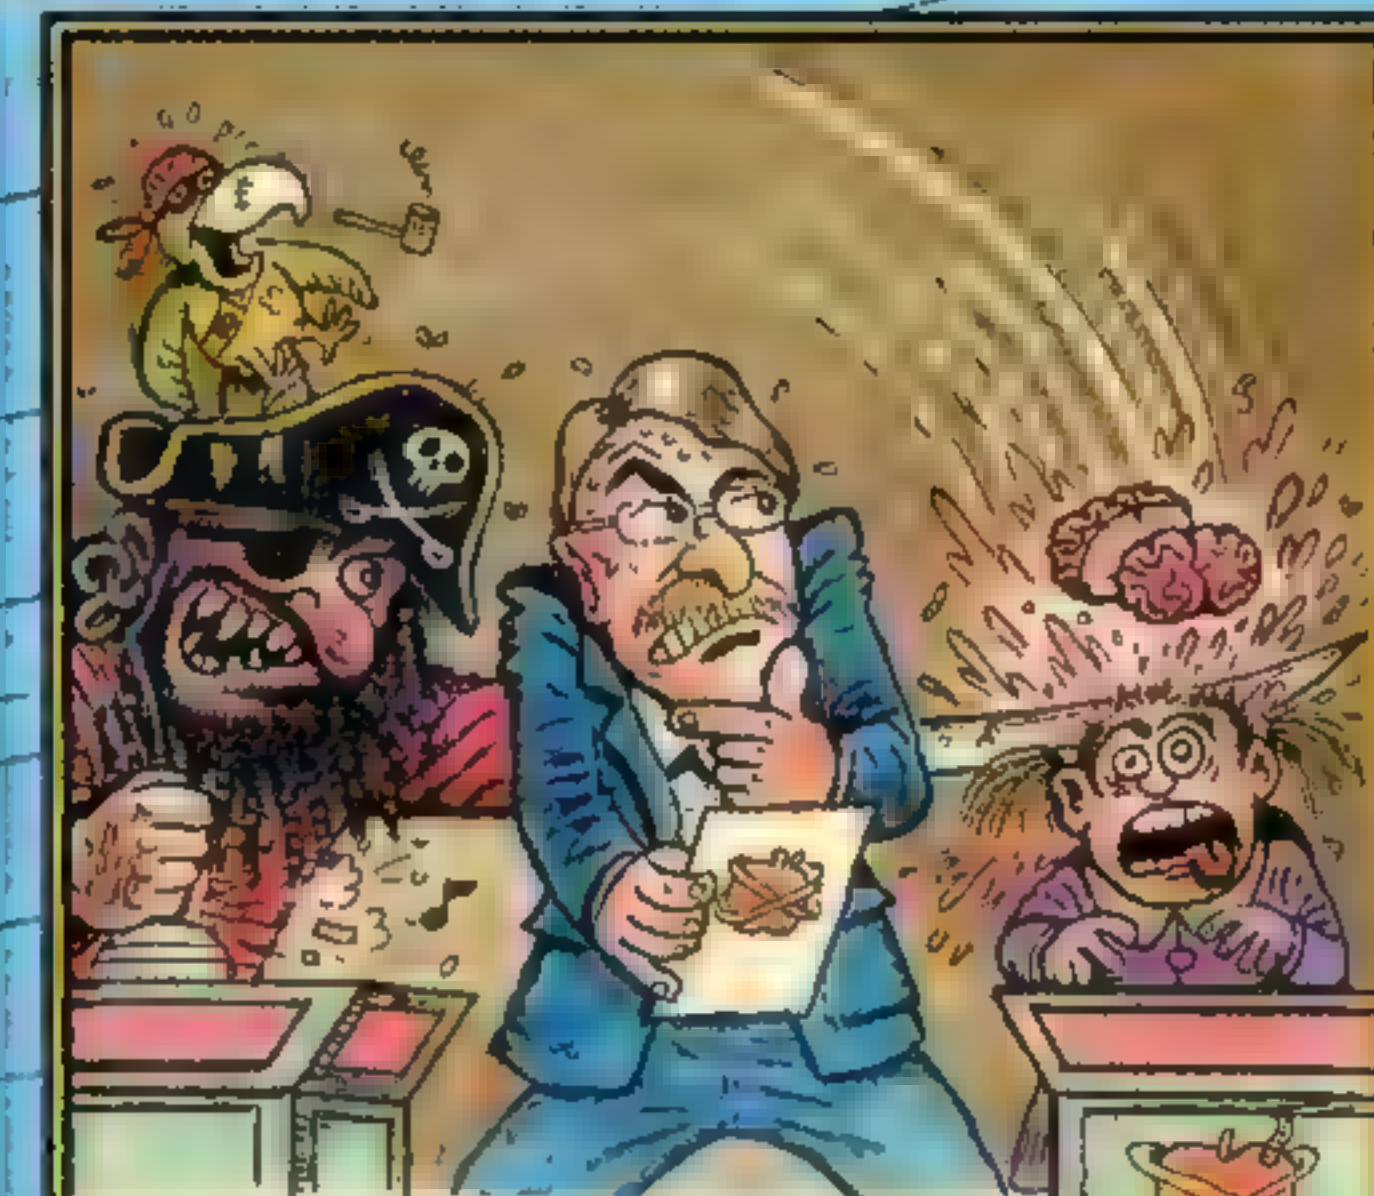

MORGAN IN THE MIDDLE

Captain Henry Morgan was one of the most savage and ruthless privateers of the Spanish Main. But before that, he was just another precocious 12-year-old, dealing with the rigors of adolescence and an eccentric, dysfunctional family. In the pilot episode, comedy ensues when Henry kidnaps his 3rd-grade teacher at bayonet-point.

ARRRR YOU SMARTER THAN A 5th GRADER?

What's a Yellow Jack? Who was the real Black Bart? How much is a King's Shilling? This quiz-fest pits grown-up swashbucklers against American grade-school students to find out who knows more about pirates and pirate lore! But beware, young challengers — some of these knaves can be sore losers and too much gloating could cost you a limb!

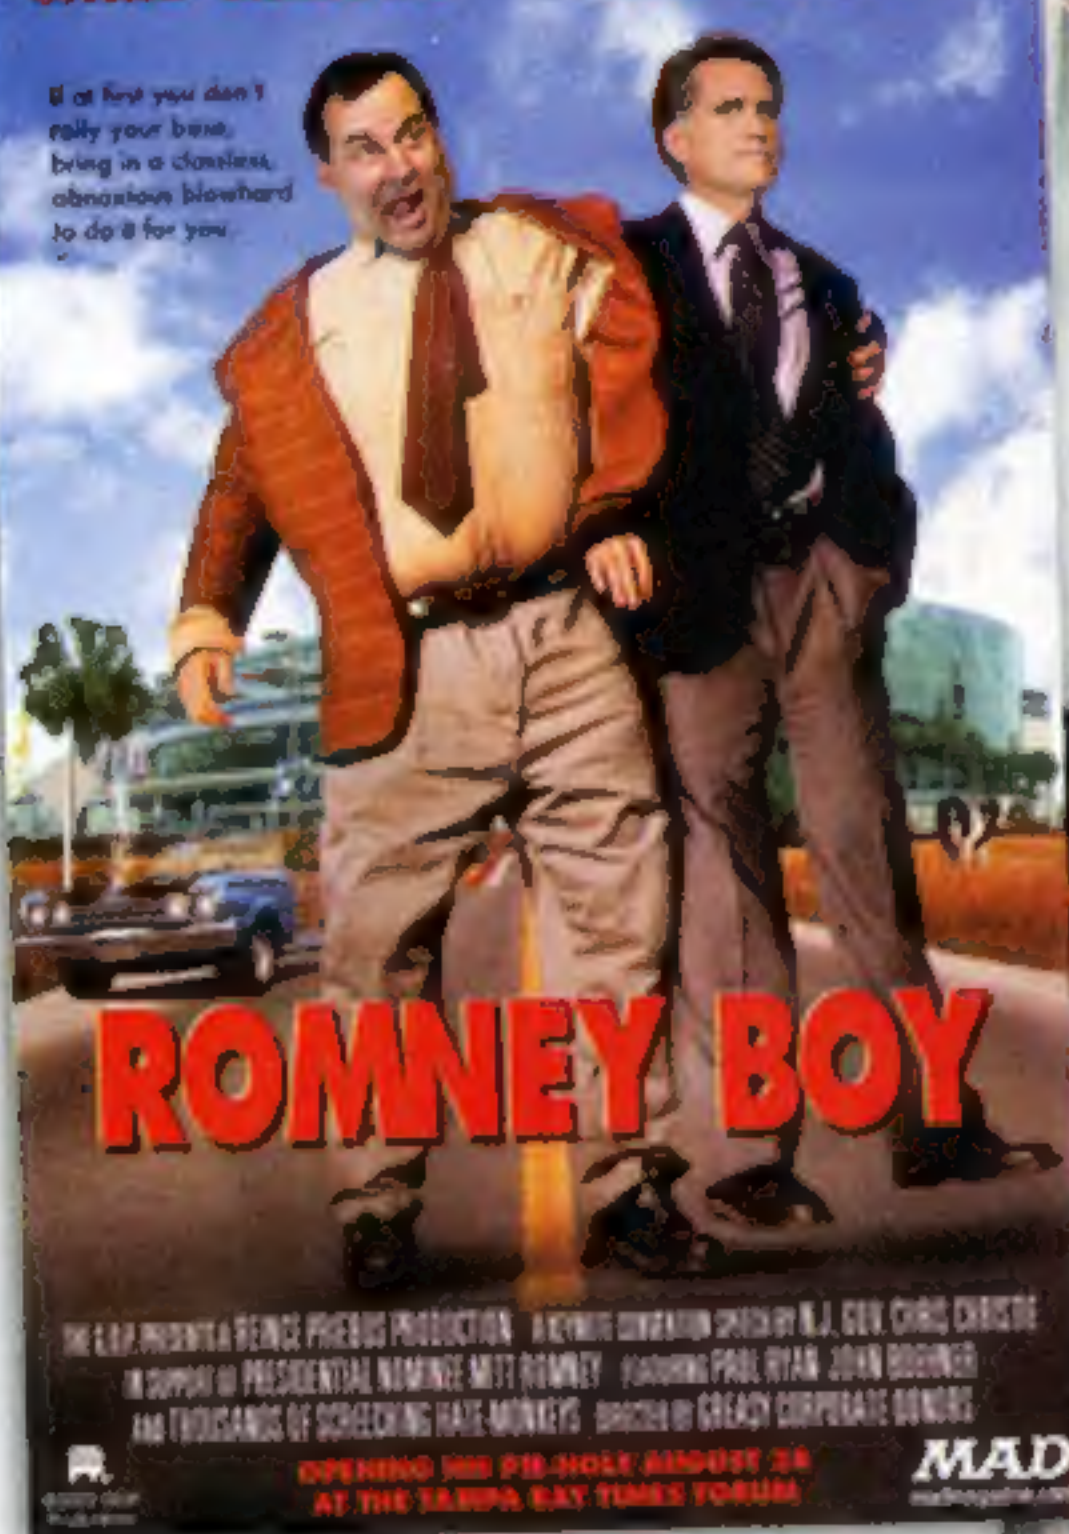

Is your computer running frustratingly slow? Maybe it's the fact that you're too cheap to spring for anything but dial-up service. Or maybe the problem is viruses and cookies from all the sick sites you visit. (Yes we mean you, Caldwell! We beg you to get the treatment you so obviously need!) Either way, if you haven't visited the MAD blog recently, we're here to help. Here's...

OTHER SURPRISES ABOUT THE BIN LADEN RAID REVEALED IN THE BOOK "NO EASY DAY"

Bin Laden's fridge? Covered in "Marmaduke" cartoons.

The whole place was booby-trapped with swinging paint cans and Micro Machines like in Home Alone.

Bin Laden's last words were: "Would you... mind dropping...my Netflix...in the mailbox?"

Turns out Bin Laden had a tramp stramp of a dolphin jumping over a rainbow.

Osama's ultimate downfall was in trying to outmaneuver the SEALs while still in his Snuggie.

For the world's most notorious terrorist, the guy had a damn impressive collection of garden gnomes.

REAL REASONS WHY MTV CANCELLED

JERSEY SHORE

- Bowing to pressure, the EPA designated JWovw as a federal Superfund Site
- Gonorrhea — everybody has gonorrhea (the cast, the crew, the guy who stocks the craft table, the key grip...everybody.)
- MTV had to make way for their new reality show celebrating pre-teen meth addicts who've murdered their parents
- The Situation needed time to work on his Raymond Carver-esque collection of short stories, Tales from My Ball-sack
- The show finally conceded defeat to Gov. Chris Christie in the battle over who's the bigger embarrassment to New Jersey
- America just couldn't keep up with Ronnie and Sami's urbane, Tracy/Hepburn-like banter
- Snooki's baby exceeded the cast's quota for barfing, monosyllabic, urine-stained guidos
- The public started to tire of watching a bunch of mouth-breathing beach-apes punch or hump anything they came into contact with

A NEFARIOUS PACT BETWEEN BIG TOBACCO AND ICONIC SYMBOLISM

We use tobacco grown in nature's ground to make our cigarettes, and a logo featuring an American Indian to create a brand that's all about perceived notions of proud full-bodied wisdom and a legacy of spiritual menthol dignity or something.
